MURPHY TO BOYCOTT THE SULZER DINNER

Coldly Declines to Attend One on Tuesday in Honor of Governor's Fiftieth Birthday.

DISTRICT LEADERS COLD, TOO

Many of Them Send Polite Regrets Although Their Names Were Used as Sponsors for the Affair.

As one of the first tactical moves in an open campaign to discredit Gov. Sulzer, a plan is well under way in Tammany circles to boycott the dinner which will be tendered to the Governor to-morrow night at the Café Boulevard on the occasion of his fiftieth birthday. The proposed boycott came to light yesterday, when it became known that Charles F. Murphy had declined to attend the dinner on a plea of a previous engagement, notwithstanding the fact that the Committee of Arrangements had received a tentative assurance that he would accept the invitation to be present.

When the Murphy declination was delivered by special messenger yesterday to Dr. William I. Sirovich, Chairman of the Dinner Committee, at his home at 539 East Sixth Street, a great light was suddenly shed upon the spirit of aloofness shown during the last week by a number of Tammany district leaders and officials, from whose hands the committee had been deluged with notes of polite regret. It also explained the non-appearance upon the seating list of the dinner of certain names which had been most prominent in the list of sponsors for the occasion.

Dr. Sirovich was most emphatic yesterday in his assurance that the appearance or non-appearance of Tammany politicians at the dinner was of no significance, inasmuch as the dinner was to be a non-partisan affair for which friends and admirers of the Governor had joined without regard to political affiliations; but he admitted that he was surprised and disappointed by Mr. Murphy's letter of regret. The letter, which was written by Thomas F. Smith, Secretary of Tammany Hall, was coldly formal. It read as follows:

> Tammany Hall, March 15, 1913.
> My Dear Dr. Sirovich: Mr. Murphy directs me to acknowledge and thank you for your kind invitation to attend the dinner to be given to Gov. Sulzer on the evening of March 16 and to say that he regrets very much that a prior engagement on the same evening prevents him from accepting. Very truly yours,
>
> THOMAS F. SMITH, Secretary.

"This dinner is not a political one, and therefore I do not feel that it would be fair for me to draw any deductions from Mr. Murphy's letter," said Dr. Sirovich. "The Committee of One Hundred which issued the call for the dinner includes men like Henry Morgenthau, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Democratic National Campaign Committee last Fall; John Purroy Mitchel, Justice Francis K. Pendleton of the Supreme Court, Judge Otto A. Rosalsky, John Temple Graves, Samuel S. Koenig, Edward Lauterbach, and others of equal prominence."

Peter J. Dooling Going South.

"Is it true that a large number of prominent Tammany leaders have declined to accept invitations to be present?" THE TIMES reporter asked.

Dr. Sirovich admitted that such was the case, but declined to mention any name except that of Peter J. Dooling.

"Mr. Dooling has written to the committee that he is going South for a vacation and will be unable to attend," said Dr. Sirovich. "He wrote to me some time ago, however, and I do not think that his declination can in any way be attributed to Tammany hostility to Gov. Sulzer."

Dr. Sirovich intimated, however that the committee had been surprised at the general attitude displayed by most of the organization Democrats who had been invited. He practically admitted that the only official spokesman for the Wigwam of whose presence the committee is absolutely assured is Aaron J. Levy, the Tammany leader of the Assembly. He stated, however, that Senator John C. Fitzgerald, who has practically succeeded "Big Tim" Sullivan as leader of the Third Assembly District, and Senator John F. Ahearn, another Tammany district leader, were expected to be present.

Later another member of the committee, who declined to be quoted, expressed the opinion that Senator Fitzgerald's presence at the dinner was in the nature of a friendly compliment to Gov. Sulzer, inasmuch as Fitzgerald and Gov. Sulzer have been friends for a long time, and formerly were fellow-tenants of the apartment house at Tenth Street and Second Avenue, in which Gov. Sulzer lived up to the time that he entered the Executive Mansion at Albany.

When the reporter sought Dr. Louis Glucksman, a dentist of 89 Avenue B, who is also a member of the Dinner Committee, he found him in close consultation with Louis Seracky, who for fourteen years has been Gov. Sulzer's personal secretary. From Dr. Glucksman was obtained a glimpse of the official seating list for the dinner, and it was discovered that only three Tammany district leaders appear as having accepted invitations. These are William J. Wright, Commissioner of Correction; Dr. Solomon Goldenkranz, who succeeded Sheriff Julius Harburger a year ago as leader of the Tenth Assembly District, and John F. Ahearn, State Senator.

Some Who Will Not Be There.

A perusal of the seating list, which includes 758 names, revealed the fact that a number of Tammany officials and politicians who had signed the call for the dinner and whose names appear on the committee, would not attend. Notable among these are Daniel E. Finn, leader of the First Assembly District; former Sheriff Thomas Foley, leader of the Second Assembly District; and Assemblyman Alfred E. Smith, Tammany leader in the lower house of the last Legislature. United States Senator James A. O'Gorman, who was also a member of the Banquet Committee of One Hundred, does not appear in the final seating list as a guest.

A prominent Tammany official, who is a member of the committee and an intimate friend of the Governor, stated last night that even the list as at present arranged might necessarily be subject to revision at the last moment.

"I would not be surprised if not a single leader appeared at the dinner," he said. "On Saturday I received a telephone message from one district leader who is a personal friend of mine, and the following interesting conversation took place:

"'You don't really mean to attend that dinner to Gov. Sulzer, do you?' he demanded.

"'I certainly do,' I replied.

"There was a pause, and then he remarked: 'How about the Governor and Murphy? Are they friendly?'

"'How do I know whether they are friendly or not,' I retorted. Then there was a long pause.

"'Well, I guess I'll have to cancel my

McCOMBS MAY NOW ACCEPT.

Way Cleared for His Appointment as Ambassador to France.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Although William F. McCombs, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, at first declined the offer of President Wilson to appoint him Ambassador to France, it is now probable, according to friends of Mr. McCombs, that he will accept the post. Whatever consideration deterred Mr. McCombs from assenting to the President's wish that he go abroad in a diplomatic capacity, they have apparently been overcome, and it is likely that Mr. McCombs will fill the French mission for a brief period.

Mr. McCombs, it was said, felt that he could not afford to maintain an Ambassadorial establishment in Paris, and also that it would not be fair in him to leave the United States at this time because of his intimate knowledge of the claims to office of men who had given him assistance in furthering the candidacy of Wilson for the nomination, and in the campaign.

There have been stories that Mr. McCombs had made promises in the line of patronage, which he felt in duty bound to urge President Wilson to carry out, and that it would be necessary for him to remain in this country until these promises had been fulfilled. It is understood that Mr. McCombs has assured the President that he made no such promises, but that he was anxious to have the Administration show appreciation toward the men who stood by Mr. Wilson's candidacy. There is some reason to believe that Mr. McCombs is satisfied that those men will be cared for by the President, and that it will be proper for him to leave the country. Presumably, his doubts in regard to the financial aspects of the matter have been removed.

PLEA OF FEUDIST'S DAUGHTER

Miss Callahan, Poor Through Tracing Father's Slayers, Wants Postal Job.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Senator Ollie M. James of Kentucky has received a pathetic plea from the mountains of that State for a slice of the patronage at the disposal of the Wilson Administration. It is a letter from Miss Lillian Gross Callahan of Perry County, asking Senator James to use his influence for her appointment as Postmistress at Buck Horn, that county.

Miss Callahan is a daughter of the late "Ed" Callahan, one of the feudists of the Blue Grass State. Something more than a year ago Callahan stepped out in front of his little mountain store near Jackson, Ky. Several shots rang out and Callahan fell dead. His daughter told Senator James in her letter that she had spent every cent she had trying to run down the feudists who killed her father.

Miss Callahan rode from one end of the mountain country to the other gathering the evidence for their trial and conviction. Now, she says, she is fatherless and without funds, and could do very well if she had charge of the Buck Horn Post Office. A Mr. Burns, she says, is also a candidate for the place, but he is well to do, and does not need the money, while she is poor.

GONE 37 YEARS, TURNS UP.

James A. Stewart, Long Mourned as Dead, Returns to St. Louis Kin.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, March 16.—James A. Stewart, who left St. Louis thirty-seven years ago and was believed by his family to be dead, has returned here and found his three daughters. Stewart is 72 years old, and was Superintendent of construction of the Eads bridge when that structure was being built. He came to St. Louis a week ago, and has since been searching for his daughters, only to find them to-day.

Stewart could not recognize either of his three daughters, and they saw little resemblance between the aged stranger and the father who left them long ago, but he proved his identity and the family was reunited.

The three daughters are Mrs. Alexander Everly of 4,475 Gibson Avenue, Mrs. Edward Holmes of Kings Highway, and Wise Avenue, and Mrs. Bessie Green of 4,021 Blaine Avenue.

Stewart came here from New York, but he refuses to explain why he left home or where his wanderings have led him.

JUNIORS MUST REFORM, TOO.

Yale Sophomores Demand Changes in Society Rules and Practices.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, March 16.—The members of the sophomore class who are out for reforms, now demand that the junior fraternities modify their membership rules and some of their practices. The attitude of the sophomore class makes it certain that a complete overhauling of the Yale society system is at hand.

The sophomores recently took action looking to reform in the senior society system, saying that it should lose its features of mystery, and should not be entangled with general college affairs.

Graduate members of the Yale senior societies have tried to stay the storm, but the petition of the sophomores will go this week to the senior societies and will reach the Faculty soon after the Easter vacation.

No attempt will be made to induce the new senior society, the Elihu Club, to change its methods. Since this society was organized, about ten years ago, it has been conducted along lines of publicity which the undergraduates now demand shall be adopted by the other three senior societies.

WRECKS AUTO, SAVES BRIDE.

Broker Turns His New Motor Onto the Sidewalk to Avoid Collision.

Hundreds of persons saw William Arnold, a real estate broker who lives at the Berkeley apartments, 111 Montague Street, Brooklyn, sacrifice his new automobile just before dark last evening to avoid a collision with another auto, which from the dress and veil of the woman passenger was thought to contain a bride. The autos met in Etna Street near Nichols Avenue, Cypress Hills.

Both autos were running at high speed. Some children ran into the street, and the driver of the bridal auto swerved sharply to avoid running them down when his automobile was within a few yards of the Arnold motor. Mr. Arnold swung his auto onto the sidewalk, where it crashed against a telegraph pole and lamp post. The front of the auto was smashed. Mr. Arnold was not injured. The names of those in the bridal auto were not ascertained.

REPRIEVED BY 'PHONE ON EVE OF EXECUTION

Moved by John Mulraney's Special Delivery Letter, Gov. Sulzer Grants Delay.

HAS 60 DAYS MORE TO LIVE

Alleged Slayer of "Paddy the Priest" Was to Have Died To-day—Starts Fight for New Trial.

ALBANY, March 16.—Gov. Sulzer to-day granted a reprieve of sixty days to John Mulraney, sentenced to be put to death at Sing Sing to-morrow morning for the murder of Patrick McBreen, known as "Paddy the Priest," a New York saloon keeper, in October, 1911.

Fearing that Mulraney might be put to death before the written reprieve could reach Sing Sing, Gov. Sulzer telephoned to Warden Kennedy that the stay had been granted, and the Warden said he would at once carry the good news to the prisoner in the death house.

After repeatedly declaring he would not interfere, the Governor was moved to act by a personal appeal from Mulraney, in which the prisoner declared that unless reprieved he would go to his death "the victim of the underworld's code of honor," which condemns a "squealer" as the most "contemptible thing on earth."

Mulraney asked for the respite so he might have an opportunity to bring forward new evidence which he contends will prove his innocence.

In his letter Mulraney said: "I thought I was doing a brave act in protecting my supposed friends by permitting this charge to be lodged against me and not giving a true, full statement of the facts as they were repeated to me by the man who committed this foul murder.

"I allowed my supposed friend, who, with a man named Dowling, were really perpetrators of this crime, to testify that he saw me at a fire near the murder the night it took place, thinking that he was proving an alibi for himself and little dreaming how seriously it affected me. It was not until I was convicted that I realized that I had become the 'goat.'"

The Governor Explains.

"On several occasions," said Gov. Sulzer to-day, "I was asked to save Mulraney from the electric chair. Among those who called on me was the Chaplain of Sing Sing Prison. I am familiar with the murder of McBreen, and, believing it was one of the most brutal in the history of New York, I declined to interfere.

"I stated before I left the Capitol yesterday that I would not interfere, and was determined to abide by that decision. When I returned home I found a special delivery letter from Mulraney. It was written in such a manner that it at once appealed to me. I was so impressed with it that I finally became convinced that there was an element of doubt as to the guilt of this man. For that reason I decided to grant a reprieve and to ask District Attorney Whitman to investigate Mulraney's story.

"I have notified Warden Kennedy of Sing Sing of my action, and have directed him to inform Mulraney and those invited to witness the electrocution."

The Governor to-day sent the following letter to District Attorney Whitman:

"I have this day granted a respite to John Mulraney, now confined under sentence of death at Sing Sing Prison, to be electrocuted to-morrow morning, until the week beginning May 19, 1913.

"I inclose herewith a copy of a letter which was received last night by special delivery from the said Mulraney, and as I understand it this letter has been given great publicity through the press. In view of the statements contained in this letter, and at the urgent request of the friends of this man, I have determined to go slow in this matter and to be absolutely certain that an innocent man will not be electrocuted.

"I therefore request that you examine the statements made in the letter of Mulraney, and any witnesses which can be produced in his favor, and inform me after a thorough examination of the whole matter of the conclusion you reach in reference to the same, at your earliest possible convenience."

Mulraney's Fate Seemed Sealed.

Almost at the time the reprieve was granted by Gov. Sulzer yesterday afternoon, Supreme Court Justice Vernon M. Davis, after a hearing at his residence, 194 Lenox Avenue, at which District Attorney Whitman, Assistant District Attorney A. Robert Rubin, and Joseph A. Shay were present, granted a stay of execution for seven days to Mulraney. Justice Davis set March 20 as the date for a hearing, when the District Attorney must show cause why the condemned man shall not have a new trial.

News of the reprieve reached Mulraney after he had lost all hope of escaping the electric chair. Until yesterday repeated efforts by Father Cahin, the priest who devotes much of his time to the consolation of condemned men at Sing Sing, William A. McCabe, the confidential agent of the Superintendent of Prisons, and by Mulraney's lawyer, Joseph A. Shay, had been unsuccessful.

In the latter part of February, Mr. McCabe laid before District Attorney Whitman the results of his investigation of the Mulraney case, believing that there was sufficient doubt of the condemned man's guilt to entitle him to a new trial. Mr. Whitman did not think the new evidence sufficient to change the verdict. He refused to indorse the application for a reprieve, but said he would not oppose one.

Last Wednesday Mr. Shay went to Albany and interviewed Gov. Sulzer. The Governor declared he would not interfere unless the application for a reprieve was sanctioned by the District Attorney and the Judge who sentenced Mulraney.

Mr. Shay then went to Judge Rosalsky, before whom Mulraney was tried, and outlined the evidence on which he sought a new trial. Judge Rosalsky, like Mr. Whitman, thought it insufficient, and denied the application.

"I believed then," said Mr. Shay last night, "that nothing could save Mulraney, and I went to Sing Sing on Saturday night to tell him so. I told him that no power could save him, and asked him to tell me the truth about the murder. He still maintained that he was innocent. I believed him, and I was about to leave for New York thinking that an innocent man was to be put to death when I received a telephone message from Mr. McCabe. He told me he had received a letter of the greatest importance in the Mulraney case from a prisoner at Dannemora. I told him I was on my way to New York, and would meet him there that night.

"Mulraney was sentenced to be put to death some time during the week, so I went to Warden Kennedy to beg him to put off the execution of the sentence until the latter part of the week. He said he was very sorry, but that the twelve invitations required by law had been sent out, and that the witnesses were to be at Sing Sing at 4 o'clock on Monday morning.

"Mulraney was then dressed in the suit of black which is put on a day or two

MORSE COMES BACK A PICTURE OF HEALTH

Good for Many Years of Life Yet if He Takes Care of Himself, His Doctors Advise Him.

IS TO RESUME BUSINESS

But Is Not Yet Ready to Disclose His Plans—Poses for His Picture and Talks Freely to Reporters.

After spending five months in Europe in search of health, Charles W. Morse, the financier, who was released from the Federal prison in Atlanta on the theory that he had only a short time to live, returned to New York yesterday on the Hamburg-American liner Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, looking much better than when he went away. He was accompanied by his wife, who appeared delighted at the improvement in her husband's health and remained at his side while reporters were interviewing him. Mr. Morse was in good spirits, and when asked if he intended to re-enter business, replied offhand, "I think so," and gave the impression that he would be in his office to-day.

"I went to Wiesbaden for treatment," Mr. Morse said, "and the 'cure' did me good. It was very simple—salt water, externally and internally, with special diet. I left Wiesbaden feeling much better, but when I got to London I was again taken sick and had to go back to Wiesbaden for more treatment.

"Afterward I went to the Italian lakes, and spent some time at a small place about fifty miles east of Genoa. Before leaving for New York my doctors told me that I could live a good many years if I took good care of myself by careful dieting and regular exercise. I did not pay any attention to business matters while abroad, but spent all my time in getting well."

Told that the ice crop on the Hudson would probably be short this season, Mr. Morse said:

"That is too bad; but it will not be long before New York will not feel the effect of the shortage of the natural ice crop. The manufacture of artificial ice is continually increasing, and there soon will be enough to supply the city. Already Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia and several cities in the South are independent of the Maine ice crop, as manufactured ice has taken its place. They have found that ice can be made on the spot for less than the cost of freight from the Maine coast to those cities."

Speaking of conditions abroad, Mr. Morse said that Germany and France were hoarding their gold on account of the military unrest which prevailed at the present time in those countries. England, he added, was the only country that was freely paying out gold. The English appeared to have more confidence in President Wilson than the Americans themselves, in his opinion. They looked upon him more favorably than they had upon Mr. Taft, his predecessor.

As to the report that he intended to import Diesel engines for his coastwise steamships, Mr. Morse said that the question had not yet been settled whether those engines could come in duty free under the Panama Canal act, which admits parts of ships free. The sails and rigging of sailing ships were admitted, he went on to say, and as they were used for propulsion he was of the opinion that engines should be allowed to come in free also. Diesel engines could be brought in at one-third less than it would cost to construct them in this country, he said.

Mr. Morse admitted that he was going into business again, but said that he had no fixed plans as yet. After the interview he went on the upper deck of the liner and posed for the photographers. Then Mrs. Morse put her arm over his shoulder with a protecting air and said to the reporters:

"I think that you have had him long enough. Now let me have him for a while."

FLOOD PARALYZES TOWN.

Brewton, Ala., Under Martial Law and 200 Persons Homeless.

Special to The New York Times.

MOBILE, March 16.—Reports from Brewton, Ala., say the high water caused by heavy rains and a cloudburst is beginning to fall, but it will be weeks before business can be resumed. There was twelve feet of water in some places in the town last night. The town is in darkness and under martial law. Two hundred persons are homeless.

The water in Burnt Corn Creek rose twenty-five feet in five hours, and the Louisville & Nashville Railroad will not be able to run trains between Mobile and Montgomery before Wednesday. Three large trestles have been washed out. Trains from New York to New Orleans are going by way of Selma, Ala., and Meridian, Miss.

The damage to the strawberry crop in the vicinity of Brewton will reach $250,000.

NO TRACE OF MURDER IN DANCER'S DEATH

Belief in Southampton That Miss Leslie Died of Apoplexy on Oceanic.

PARENTS HERE SUSPICIOUS

She Sailed with Other New York Stage People to Appear in London—Police Doubt Reports.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, March 16.—Extensive inquiries made to-day by the Southampton police failed to discover any grounds for the sensational reports of foul play in the case of Miss Frances Leslie, a dancer, who was found dead in a lavatory of the steamship Oceanic after the ship left Cherbourg. On the arrival of the ship at Southampton yesterday the Coroner took charge of the body. Miss Leslie appeared on the pasenger list as Anna Wilson.

The police have little information to give beyond the fact of the finding of the body. They have no reason to believe that there are any suspicious circumstances connected with the death. They have heard unofficial reports emanating from New York about suspicious circumstances, but are unable to account for them. The inquest will be held to-morrow, when the truth will be known. The body is now at a mortuary. It is said that the post-mortem examination to-day revealed nothing to support the idea of murder. The cause of death is not known, but it is believed to be apoplexy. Officers of the White Star Line refuse to give any information.

Miss Leslie was a vaudeville artist, 26 years old. She was engaged to appear at the London Opera House.

The young woman who was found dead on board the White Star liner Oceanic under circumstances so peculiar that when the vessel reached Southampton on Saturday a British Coroner took possession of the body, was Frances Leslie, a dancer. In private life the dancer was Frances Schmitz. She was 22 years old, and made her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry N. Schmitz, at 178 West Ninety-seventh Street. Mr. Schmitz, who is an insurance broker, sent a telegram yesterday to the State Department at Washington requesting it to communicate with the British authorities, and ask them to make a full investigation, and not to permit the embalming of his daughter's body until the cause of death had been ascertained. He also sent a cable dispatch to the United States Consul at Southampton, in which a similar request was made.

Mr. Schmitz heard unofficially yesterday from Southampton that physicians there had decided that his daughter had died of epilepsy. He said it was hard for him to believe that she had died of epilepsy as she had never shown any symptoms of the disease. She had never been subject, he said, to epileptic seizures, and although she had fainted a few times in her life, these fainting spells had been due to fatigue, and had followed hard and exhaustive dancing.

Miss Leslie, who has appeared in many Broadway productions, was last seen here in the "Follies of 1912." She was engaged recently by Gus Soelker to appear in an American Revue, which is to open on April 1 at the Hippodrome in London. Her engagement was for six weeks. She was to have the part for which Miss Anna Wilson, wife of Ensign George Swasey, U. S. N., was engaged. Miss Wilson decided to join her husband instead of going to London, and Miss Leslie was then engaged. Miss Wilson's ticket had been purchased so Miss Leslie sailed under Miss Wilson's name on the Oceanic on March 8. It was this which caused the report at first that it was Miss Wilson who had died on the steamship.

Mr. Schmitz said that they were visited yesterday by three agents from the White Star Line. The men told them that Miss Leslie, who occupied her stateroom alone, not sharing it with any of the women in the company, was found dead in her berth when the vessel reached Plymouth on Saturday. His daughter, he learned from the agents, had not been visited during the trip by the ship's physician nor by the cabin stewardess. Mr. Schmitz believed if his daughter had been ill she would have been visited by one or the other of these persons.

Mr. Schmitz later in the day received an unofficial message from Southampton which said that his daughter's body, when discovered, was doubled up in the lavatory of the ship. She took with her, he said, on the trip jewelry valued at $1,500, but he understood that when her body was found her jewelry was intact.

Mr. Schmitz first learned of his daughter's death on Saturday. He was informed that because there was something strange about the circumstances the Coroner had taken possession of the body and would hold an inquest. Members of the company, he understood, had been notified by the British authorities that they would be obliged to remain within the British jurisdiction until after the inquest had been held.

When Mr. Schmitz was first visited by an agent from the steamship company the agent told him that the company would have the body embalmed, and it would be shipped back to the United States on next Wednesday. The agents were unable to tell him the cause of his daughter's death, and he decided not to permit the body to be sent back until after an investigation had been made.

Many alarming reports reached Mr. Schmitz yesterday. One report was that his daughter had died from the effects of a poison which had been administered to her.

STATE DEPARTMENT ACTS.

Our Consul to Take Necessary Steps in Miss Leslie's Case.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Officers of the State Department said to-night that they had received a telegram from relatives of Miss Frances Leslie of New York, whose dead body was found on the steamship Oceanic just before the vessel arrived at Southampton, England, yesterday. The telegram asked the department to take whatever steps were necessary in the case, and in accordance with this request the Secretary of State sent instructions by cable to Albert W. Swalm, the American Consul at Southampton, to assume charge of the effects of Miss Leslie and do anything that he might deem proper in connection with the investigation by the authorities at Southampton.

It was said by the department officers that the department could not discuss the case or the application made by Miss Leslie's relatives.

While the names of the relatives who sent the telegram received by the department were not disclosed, it is understood that they are Miss Leslie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry N. Schmitz.

MEANS "LAUGHING JACKASS."

Australians Learn Derivation of Canberra, Name of New Capital.

LONDON, Monday, March 17.—The Daily Chronicle's correspondent in Melbourne, Australia, telegraphs:

"Political circles here are greatly amused by a statement by Archibald Meston, the noted Queensland authority on aboriginal names, thet 'Canberra,' the name selected for the new Commonwealth's capital, really means 'laughing jackass.'

"Mr. Meston blames the Government for not taking the preliminary precaution of having ascertained the meaning of the name before coming to a decision."

The laughing jackass of Australia is not a jackass but a bird. He is a little larger than the North American crow, and is generally dark gray in color, with a blue splash on the wings. The bird is regarded as so valuable to the country agriculturally that specimens are not allowed to be exported without special Government permission. His great value agriculturally comes from his skill in killing snakes.

The laughing jackass and his mate perch generally in dead trees or telephone and telegraph poles and have remarkably keen vision. When one of them spies a snake, the pair descends to the ground and one of them seizes the snake with its claws and carries it in the air. The snake is then dropped, and the dropper's mate picks it up, and this is performed repeatedly until the snake is killed.

The name "laughing jackass" is given to the bud because of its raucous cry which it emits usually at sunup and sundown. The cry so resembles the laughter of a human being in uncontrolled glee that it is almost impossible for those who hear it constantly to retain their gravity.

E. T. DANA A CAR CONDUCTOR.

Harvard's Ethical Bridegroom Gets 21 Cents an Hour on Trolley.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, March 16.—Edmund Trowbridge Dana, grandson of the poet Longfellow, and a graduate of Harvard, with the degrees of Master of Arts and Bachelor of Arts, is working as a conductor for the Middlesex and Boston Street Railway Company at 21 cents an hour. The former Harvard athlete and instructor, whose "ethical" marriage last June to Jessie Holliday, an English portrait painter, aroused discussion here and abroad because the bride wrote the ritual, denies the reports of an estrangement between him and his wife. He says that while his wife has been in England since last October, she is planning to rejoin him the first week in April.

Dana, who is a member of the Institute of 1770, the D. K. E., the Hasty Pudding Club, and the Round Table, is officially known as No. 1,043 at the Waltham car barn. He got his job through the State Free Employment Bureau. Despite the fact that his father, Richard H. Dana, is one of the wealthiest residents of Cambridge, young Dana is contented with a furnished room at 49 Vernon Street, Waltham, for which he pays $1.50 a week.

CAPTURES A REAL CHIGWERI.

First Specimen of This Wonderful Animal Arrives on Germanicus.

The Brazil Lloyd steamer Germanicus arrived yesterday from South American ports, via Charleston, with the cabins filled with stuffed animals, birds, and snakes of all kinds which had been collected by Capt. Berndt, who is an amateur taxidermist and naturalist. His collection included a specimen of the golden-headed umti-amma of the Amazon and the whistling chigweri of the upper Orinoco.

The latter is held in such awe by the Warooma Indians above Arturo's Falls on the Orinoco that they—the Waroomas, not the chigweris—give away all their possessions and take to the woods when they hear their mournful note—the chigweris', not the Waroomas'—at night.

CHURCHGOERS IN A PANIC.

Maniac, After Stabbing Father and Sister, Stampedes Hundreds.

Hundreds of persons, leaving the St. Vincent de Paul Church, North Sixth Street and Bedford Avenue, Williamsburg, after an early mass yesterday, fled when John Ricknowsky, 19 years old, 111 North Sixth Street, rushed toward the entrance to the church brandishing a large carving knife and threatening to kill everybody. Several men grappled with the insane man, but Ricknowsky was getting the better of his captors when Policeman Wren of the Bedford Avenue Station, who had heard the cries of women, ran to the church. With his aid the knife was taken from Ricknowsky, who then was removed to the Eastern District Hospital.

When a policeman went to Ricknowsky's home to notify the family he found the mother in a faint and the father and sister lying on the floor, stabbed. Dr. Faske found them to be in a serious condition. Mrs. Ricknowsky said her son had rushed into the parlor and attacked them with the butcher's knife. Then he had fled to the street.

STRIKERS ASK OLIVER'S AID.

Workers in Pittsburgh Mills, Owned by His Family, Seek His Mediation.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., March 16.—Senator George T. Oliver was asked to-day to help settle the strike at the Oliver Mills, where 2,000 girls and men have quit for better wages.

A mass meeting was held this afternoon, when the strikers sent the following telegram to Senator Oliver:

"Two thousand men, women, and children on strike for living wages in the Oliver Mills. You say your family owns the mills, but you have no interest in them. You have often avowed your interest in the working class. Will you act as intermediary in the strike in an effort to induce your relatives to grant us wages sufficient for our men to support families and our women to retain their honor?"

At the meeting, which was held under the auspices of the Industrial Workers of the World, stories of alleged brutal treatment were told by several girl strikers.

SAFE BREAKERS GET $300,000

Diamonds and Cash Gone from Hester Street Pawnshop and No Clue Remains.

VAULT WAS BURGLAR PROOF

Considered as Impregnable as United States Treasury, and Alarms Were Set.

TUNNEL THROUGH A WALL

Robbers Break Through Concrete and Steel from Adjoining Tenement—Biggest Robbery of the Kind.

Between $250,000 and $300,000 in diamond jewelry was stolen by safe robbers from the pawnbroker's shop of Martin Simons & Son, 94 Hester Street, according to the inventory of the proprietors, some time between 6:10 o'clock on Saturday evening, when the store was closed, and 6:30 o'clock last night, when the robbery was discovered.

It is one of the biggest, if not the biggest of safe robberies which have occurred in this city and comes as a climax to a series of safe burglaries below fourteenth Street, which have totaled between twenty and twenty-five in the last few months. The victim suffers a total loss. He carried no burglar insurance.

As clues to the perpetrators, the police have only two pairs of heavy gloves and a collection of burglar tools. Experts from the Finger Print Bureau of Police Headquarters examined every inch of the robbed store under microscopes, and were not rewarded by a single finger print.

There will be an immediate search for every person of the underworld of whom the police have a record of being connected, even remotely, with safebreaking. Detectives started through the city last night to gather in all such criminals, but they admitted themselves that they had little hope of coming upon these latest burglars. It is probable that the robbery was committed Saturday night, and that by last night the thieves and their loot were many miles from this city.

There appears to be equally little chance of ever recovering the jewelry stolen. This consisted, so the inventory of Mr. Simons's stock showed, almost entirely of diamond jewelry from which the stones might be removed easily and thus disposed of.

Only Gentlemen Burglars.

The police drew one deduction from the traces of their presence which the burglars left behind them, and they hope that this will enable them to narrow their search for the burglars down to a type which might be called the class of "gentlemen burglars." They believe that the heavy gloves which were found were employed not so much to prevent finger impressions from remaining behind the thieves as to protect their hands from the hard work of tunneling into the pawnshop and of digging a way into the safe.

For it was thus that the burglary was committed. The thieves tunneled beneath a party wall separating the cellar of the pawnshop from the cellar of a tenement next door and then burrowed their way through two feet of cement and brick, reinforced with steel rails as heavy as railroad rails.

The pawnshop is situated at the southeast corner of Hester and Eldridge Streets, with its entrance in Hester Street and its left side running along Eldridge Street back to the tenement at No. 60. The store is deep, and the safe rested in the rear left hand corner, or what would be the southeast corner of the store. Thus two of its heavy sides were flush with the rear and inside walls of the store.

The safe, a product of the Marvin Safe Company, measured about 10 by 12 by 9 feet and was constructed of cement and brick, the walls and floor being each two feet thick. To support the weight of a similar thickness over the top steel girders like railroad rails were laid at intervals of only a few inches, and on these the massive top rested.

Mr. Simons and his son Max, his partner, had regarded this safe as burglar and fire proof to the same extent that the vaults of the United States Treasury are burglar and fire proof. They did not believe that entry to the safe would be possible, once the heavy doors of steel had been swung shut, unless he who would open it should be equipped with keys and combination. Nevertheless, their precautions against possible burglary were extended by employing the Holmes Electric Protective Company to guard their store.

Network of Burglar Alarms.

Each of the four walls was wired with burglar alarms, the wires criss-crossing in a network which left openings never greater than four inches square. The ceiling and the floor were protected by other wires crossing one another at intervals which left openings never greater than six inches, except at one spot close to the trap door which covered the stairs leading into the cellar.

These stairs were in the rear of the store in the corner opposite that in which the safe stood. The trap door over them was wired with burglar alarms, and although a lock was provided for it neither Mr. Simons nor his son ever bothered to lock it, as the merest touch would set an alarm ringing. Besides, the four walls of the cellar were mazed with crossing wires, and no opening big enough for a cat to pass through could be made in them without sending out a message to the Holmes patrol folk.

But the floor of the cellar, concrete resting on the earth itself, was not wired, and through this vulnerable spot the burglars made their entrance. They entered the tenement house at 60 Eldridge Street, the cellar of which adjoins that of the pawnshop. There is a row of coal bins along that side of the cellar next to the pawnshop wall. All are fitted with locks, but the burglars apparently had a key for one of these locks.

They entered the coal bin, pulled the coal away from the wall, and tunneled a hole beneath this wall and up into the cellar of the pawnshop. The hole was not more than 12 by 18 inches, but it proved sufficiently large, apparently, for the entrance of more than one man, for the police are certain no one man could have done the work on the safe.

Once in the pawnshop cellar, the task of the burglars lay still practically all ahead of them, for to touch the trap door meant instant alarm. Apparently, however, they knew enough of the wiring of the place to go straight to that one unprotected spot alongside the door, and there they bored holes through the ceiling and the pawnshop floor until they lifted out a section 14 by 14 inches.

Never Touch a Wire.

Men who had passed through the other opening could squirm through this, and at last the burglars were in the pawnshop, despite its warning wires. A counter and a partition concealed them from the street, and they made straight for the safe, picking up a stepladder in the back of the store and resting this against the high walls of the vault.

Along the top of this vault its makers had put an ornamental bit of woodwork, some two feet in height, and with one man to stand guard against observation from the street the other, or others, had only to run up the ladder and drop to the roof of the safe to be concealed completely by the walllike ornamentation.

Thus the burglars reached the top of the safe, carrying with them and afterward leaving behind the two pairs of gloves, a big crowbar, a four-foot drill, two circular saws, a brace and bit, and a six-pound and a twelve-pound sledgehammer. With these tools they tore at the cement and brick roof until they had made a hole some 14 inches square and more than twice as deep, leading directly into the centre of the vault, which had seemed impregnable a few hours before.

Once in the vault the burglars could work at will. Up and down the left wall of the safe ran rows of drawers, while across the back and the right side were other drawers. Two big strong boxes were there, too, and not locked, so certain were Mr. Simons and his son of the safety of their vault.

There were 260 drawers in all, and in them and in the strong boxes lay $800,000 of jewelry, negotiable bonds, and negotiable notes. But the burglars apparently wanted only diamond jewelry. In all the drawers on the left side were watches, and of these the thieves took only a few handfuls. They took out the bonds and notes, apparently examined them, and threw them aside, and they scattered $3,400 worth of checks over the floor of the vault.

A Trifle of $3,600 Cash.

They emptied every drawer on the left side, however, for there for the most part was stored the diamond jewelry, and apparently the thieves wanted only stones which would be almost impossible to identify once they had been taken from their settings. They gathered in $3,600 in cash, however, which had been left in the safe overnight against the resumption of business this morning.

Apparently the burglars worked in a hurry or perhaps in a poor light, though the police presume they carried electric flash lamps, as they could not have worked without some illumination. However, they left among the watches many packages of jewelry, all of them plainly marked with the quality and value of their contents. Thus, among others, these packages were left behind:

Diamond necklace, $4,000.
Pearl necklace, $3,000.
Diamond jewelry, $8,000.
Diamond jewelry, $10,000.

There were dozens of other such packages making up the total of $800,000. Philip Rosenfeld, a son-in-law of the elder Simons, lost a diamond brooch from a collection of $2,000 worth of jewelry which he had left in the safe. The burglars had opened the packet, selected the brooch, and tossed the rest on the floor of the vault.

The robbery was discovered only when Julius Felzin, janitor of the Eldridge Street tenement adjoining, went into the cellar last night for coal. He saw a key sticking in the lock of a coal bin and entered to investigate. Then he saw the debris heaped over the coal as the burglars had tunneled under the partition wall, and he waited to see no more, but ran into the street shouting for the police.

All the Articles Were Pledges.

Policeman Cullen of the Clinton Street Station came up, saw what Felzin had seen and notified his station. Capt. Foye and Detectives Woods and Snydecker notified the Finger Print Bureau at Police Headquarters, and then hurried to the store, leaving word to have Mr. Simons notified. The police got Mrs. Max Simons on the telephone at her home, 502 West 110th Street, and she found her husband and started him for the store in his limousine. He stopped on the way at his father's home, 216 West 100th Street, and father and son reached the store together.

The elder Simons is between 65 and 70 years old, and has been in the pawn brokerage business for twenty-one years, having entered it when he sold out a cigar manufacturing business. He is known as the pioneer among 1 per cent. pawnbrokers of the city—that is, brokers who charge only 1 per cent. instead of 2 and 3 per cent. a month—and his business soon grew to such proportions that he accepted as pledges only articles of large value. For years his loans had averaged high, and his pledges had consisted only of diamonds, watches, and gold jewelry. There was scarcely a piece of silver in his store. It was a veritable gold mine, therefore, for the thieves who finally entered it.

Mr. Simons was the calmest, apparently, among the throng of detectives and curious onlookers who gathered about the store, and he was the least affected when there came the report and concussion of an exploding bomb set off by Black Handers, apparently, a few doors down the block. He made a careful inventory of his stock, and it was he who placed the loss at between $250,000 and $300,000. When he had completed the inventory and named his loss he was asked whether the robbery would drive him out of business.

"No," said he, "thank heaven my credit will not suffer. It will be a fearfully hard blow, but I can go right ahead with my business. I can even play a little pinochle, perhaps, now and then," and his eyes twinkled as he made a joke of his misfortune.

Burglars Knew the Ground.

Mr. Simons said the hardest thing for him to believe was that he had been robbed. He said he had never believed it possible that any one could enter his safe, and he had rested at night without a single dread of thieves. He remarked on the knowledge shown by the burglars not only in selecting the one part of the cellar ceiling where there were no wires, but also in making their hole through the roof of the safe so as to enter between two of the steel girders, and he suggested that the thieves certainly had shown an extremely intimate knowledge of the arrangements and interior of his place.

"But it could not have been a disgruntled employe," he said. "Never since I have been in business have I discharged a man, and none of them have left me. They are all with me now, and we trust one another like brothers. I cannot understand it."

With the exception of the $3,600 in cash, the $3,400 worth of checks and a few articles of jewelry belonging to Mr. Simons or his relatives the $800,000 in the vault consisted of pledges and of $130,000 in bonds and $100,000 in notes. These are negotiable, and the burglars might have had them for the taking. With almost as little difficulty as they must have experienced in getting away with their loot, they could have stripped the safe clean of the whole $800,000 of jewelry, which could have been put in half a dozen suit cases.

D. O. Cloud, sub-manager of the Holmes Electric Protective Company, whose alarm wires were strung throughout the pawnshop, looked over the place last night and said that the robbery had been done by men of whom one, at least, was thoroughly familiar not only with the Holmes system, but with the wire arrangements in use in this particular shop.

"The burglars," said he, "must have known that the trapdoor was wired, for they cut their way through the floor, which was not wired. They must have known that the false doors of the safe were wired, for they went to the extraordinary trouble of burrowing down through the top. Every step they took showed conclusively that they knew the entire lay-out of the wires.

"The wires themselves were in working order, for when the first patrolman on the job examined the doors to see if the safe had been blown, he gave the signal which brought our men hurrying to the shop."

POLICE FIGHT 10,000 FOR SUFFRAGETTES

Violent Mob Breaks Up Hyde Park Meeting with Missiles and Then Assaults the Women.

KNOCK-DOWN BATTLE ENSUES

Constables Hurry Agitators to Safety —Plot to Kidnap Lloyd-George Was Carefully Arranged.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, March 16.—Scenes of great disorder took place in Hyde Park this afternoon when Mrs. Drummond and other suffragettes attempted to address a meeting.

The police, evidently expecting trouble, sent a strong force there. As soon as the women who were supposed to be suffragettes appeared, they were followed by an enormous crowd, hooting at them. Some vicious rushes were made by groups of men, but the police managed to keep the women from actual violence at their hands.

This diversion over, all in the park seemed to make a concerted movement toward the cart containing Mrs. Drummond. When she arose to speak the crowd began to sing music hall ditties and ragtime selections, shouted, blew trumpets, whistles, and horns, and rang bells.

Mrs. Drummond had been speaking only about a minute when somebody threw a large clod of grass at her, the missile finding the mark. This was a signal for a fusillade. Mrs. Drummond was struck squarely in the face several times by oranges. Pieces of sacking and pellets of uncertain composition were also flung.

The police, seeing that the women about the cart were being jostled, ordered them to drive away. This they did, and the speakers continued to talk even while the cart was in motion.

General Fight Begins.

The crowd then threw themselves upon it and a general fight ensued between the police and the mob.

Upon reaching a footpath the suffragettes descended from the cart, and then the police were called upon to do some swift and furious rescue work. Mrs. Drummond was hurried into the Marble Arch underground station, with the angry mob close behind, fighting with the police and yelling, "Take her to the Serpentine!"

Miss Rogers, another suffragette, was set upon by the crowd near the Arch, and collapsed on the sidewalk. She was rescued just as it seemed as if her clothes would be torn from her.

The wide spans about the Marble Arch were packed with a seething, shouting, suffragette-hunting throng. Suddenly the cry would go up, "Here's one!" and a small army of constabulary, backed by mounted police, would fight their way to a fainting woman wearing the unpopular badge of the "W. S. P. U."

While the police were trying to escort the women to the underground station the crowd pushed the officers aside and rushed the women up and down Oxford Street. Vehicular traffic was held up, and for almost half an hour the wildest disorder and confusion prevailed.

Two women were rescued by the police after being severely mauled and having their clothing torn. They were escorted to the station. Part of the crowd tried to follow them, but the police barricaded the entrance. Eventually all the women were escorted away and the crowd slowly dispersed.

Mrs. Drummond Blames Police.

LONDON, March 16.—After the rioting in Hyde Park Mrs. Drummond said that the disorder was begun by some boys shouting, "Hello, here's Mother Drummond!" She asserted that the crowd had shown no hostility, and that the trouble was caused by the police in interfering with free speech and trying, in an officious manner, to escort the suffragettes from the park. She concluded by saying:

"We didn't want an escort and we don't fear the mob, and because we trusted the mob and refused an escort the police assaulted us."

The crowd in the park is thought to have numbered at least 10,000. A large proportion were youths, who had armed themselves with ammunition of various kinds, or with trumpets, mouth organs, and bells.

During her speech Mrs. Drummond maintained her good nature, smiled at her tormentors, and continued to talk amid a tornado of abuse, catcalls and a shower of missiles, which left her clothes a mass of mud.

Intense feeling was shown against the suffragettes, who were greeted with cries of "incendiary" and "shop keeper."

The fracas that followed the end of the speaking was a regular stand-up fight between the police and the angry rioters, the former striking out right and left and endeavoring to arrest the ringleaders. Others among the rioters, however, would come to the aid of those seized by the police and forcibly take them out of their hands.

At Hampstead Heath another suffragette meeting was broken up, although the crowd did not attempt any violence. The people who had assembled satisfied themselves with drowning the women's speeches by shouting, singing and booing. The police finally had to order the women away.

While the riotous scenes were in progress in Hyde Park the spiritual militant suffragists in their costumes of black with orange scarfs attended the afternoon service at St. Paul's. They arrived singly or in groups and left in a body quietly after the service.

Suffragettes are supposed to have set fire to a new house to-day at Cheam, Surrey, six miles from Walton, where Chancellor Lloyd-George's house was damaged by a bomb recently.

The Cheam residence, which was burned to the ground, was not occupied. Neither the owner nor the agents are connected with the suffrage movement or the Government. Suffragette placards were left near by.

Plot to Kidnap Lloyd-George.

The Referee, a Sunday journal devoted to sport and the drama, says that the details of an elaborate suffragette plot to carry off David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, are just beginning to leak out.

"The whole thing," says the paper, "was well organized, but was given away by the over-zeal of one of the appointed abductors. The retreat of the honorable gentleman had been carefully arranged in an unfrequented park in the country, and had natural advantages which would enable quite a small party to guard it.

"A subterranean suite of apartments had been prepared for the captive, and he would have had every attention. The plotters had even gone so far as to engage the services of a doctor, devoted to the cause, to be in attendance on the Chancellor during his captivity.

"When the Government learned of the daring nature of the plot the number of detectives guarding Mr. Lloyd-George was largely increased."

IN LIVINGSTONE'S MEMORY.

London Churches Celebrate African Missionary's Centenary.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, March 16. — In many churches and chapels to-day the centenary of David Livingstone, the African missionary, was celebrated by special services.

Lord Justice Cozens-Hardy, Master of the Rolls, presiding at a centenary meeting in Whitefield's Tabernacle, said: "Livingstone was the most striking and efficient example of the new type of missionary. The old type was, to quote Livingstone's own words, 'A dumpy sort of man' with a Bible under his arm."

D. Crawford, who spent many years in Central Africa, mentioned that, when some time ago he reached the place where Livingstone died, a memorial service was held at the foot of the tree under which his heart lies buried, and at the service a native musician repeated the lament he played at that interment.

SMASH IN ALPINE TUNNEL.

Panic on St. Gothard Express—Nobody Seriously Hurt.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

GENEVA, March 16.—A crowded St. Gothard express from Milan to Zurich, carrying about 200 travelers, including forty English and Americans, collided yesterday afternoon with a freight train in the Massagno Tunnel near Lugano. A panic followed, many travelers deserting their baggage and running to the tunnel entrance. Nobody was seriously injured. The majority of the travelers waited eight hours at Lugano until the line was cleared, and then continued their journey. Others, including Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Seymour of New York, stayed at the hotel.

Two coaches were smashed and both locomotives were derailed.

SAXONY LEADS FIGHT ON ARMY INCREASE

King Frederick Augustus Lines Up Central Germany Against Prussian Proposals.

FEDERAL COUNCIL CLOSE

Harassed Banks Will Not Discount Bills of Exchange—Women Urged Not to Buy Finery Abroad.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, March 16.—The semi-official Cologne Gazette says that amid the conflicting assertions and emotions of the hour only one thing can be affirmed with certainty. That is that the Imperial Chancellor finds himself "both from financial and political standpoints in an extremely unenviable position."

With regard to the $250,000,000 which must be raised for the increase of the army, it is now known that wide differences of opinion exist among the members of the Federal Council of the Empire regarding ways and means of meeting the recurring cost of the increase, which will be $50,000,000 yearly. The Government's newest proposal commands a majority of the Federal Council, but such a small majority that the proposal is already regarded as impracticable.

The States of Central Germany are leading the opposition to the proposal of Prussia. A military news agency, which has been well informed on all the developments of the army increase and the war tax, asserts that the King of Saxony has organized his non-Prussian fellow-sovereigns against the North German tax projects. The same agency asserts that the taxes on property will take the form in part of fresh stamp taxes. Articles of luxury especially will be affected, and Stock Exchange transactions will be assessed in one way or another.

The Berlin Tageblatt points out that the position of the Government has its counterpart in the conditions prevailing in the financial and commercial worlds. It is now recognized, says The Tageblatt, that a war tax of $250,000,000 "cannot be hacked out of the German economic body without leaving gaping wounds."

According to Boerse reports, the shortage of available funds at the banks is so acute that it has been decided not to discount a single bill of exchange during the rest of March.

The Neueste Nachrichten says it would be timely to make a fervent appeal even to the women of Germany "to keep their money at home" and not to yield to the tempting offers of Paris dressmakers and milliners, who carry on an active campaign for German trade at this season of the year.

ROME, March 16.—Luigi Luzzati, ex-Premier and ex-Minister of the Interior, who is mentioned in the French press as the politician who informed the French Government of a secret note between members of the Triple Alliance as to beginning a campaign in October, 1913, to end the general uneasiness in Europe by decisive action, has issued an emphatic denial of any connection with such a story.

He believes that the article, which originally appeared in L'Intransigeant of Paris, is an absolute invention.

According to this paper, the French Government learned on Jan. 13 that Germany had asked Italy if she could be ready to join with Germany and Austria in such a campaign. The source of the French Government's information was said to be "an eminent Italian politician."

AMERICA TO RECOGNIZE CHINA

So Peking Hears and Feeling of Optimism Is Growing.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Monday, March 17.—The Daily Telegraph's correspondent in Peking, discussing the fact that the Chinese Government has suspended all independent loan negotiations and declined the offer of $75,000,000 from certain London financiers, says:

"Evidently much is being staked on the international effect of the meeting of the National Parliament. Private information received here leaves little doubt that the United States will then immediately recognize the new Government and that warship arrangements have already matured for saluting the five-barred Republican flag.

"All this cannot but have a powerful influence on China's borrowing capacity. Things, therefore, have taken a sharp and unexpected turn for the better."

WAR OVER BUTTERFLY RIGHTS

Baron Charles Rothschild and Hungarian Museum in Conflict.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Monday, March 17.—According to The Daily Telegraph's Vienna correspondent, there is a singular conflict concerning the right to catch butterflies in Hungary between Baron Charles Rothschild and the Hungarian National Museum at Budapest. The Baron learned recently from Dr. Schmied, the museum's official naturalist, of the existence on the imperial estate at Peszer of a species of butterfly unknown elsewhere in Europe.

The Baron, whose collection of insects and butterflies is unrivaled, obtained from the Director of this domain the exclusive right to capture butterflies there. Dr. Schmied was commissioned by the National Museum for the same work, and also arrived at Peszer. He addressed a complaint to the Ministry, which passed it on to the Vienna Court Marshal's office, under whose jurisdiction the domain lies.

The Court Marshal upheld the Baron's right to catch butterflies at Peszer. The representative of the museum is also at liberty to pursue his nature studies there.

ROB ROME BANK OF $62,000.

Burglar's Haul Discovered by Watchman, Who Then Goes to Sleep.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

ROME, March 16.—A mysterious robbery has been committed in the private bank of Messrs. Scheggi & Borghi, situated in the heart of the city. When a watchman returned to the bank last midnight he found the door open. On making a search he discovered that a large hole had been bored in a strongbox by means of a special circular saw.

The watchman calmly went to sleep and waited until 8 o'clock this morning before communicating with the police. Then it was ascertained that $72,000 worth of State bonds had been removed from the strongbox. The only clue to the burglars were two candles, nearly burned out, an oil can, and several files.

LONDON HOTEL COOKS WIN.

Their Victory Likely to Result in Trouble with Other Employes.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, March 16.—The strike of London hotel cooks has ended in favor of the cooks as far as the Criterion Restaurant and the Hotel Savoy are concerned. An amicable settlement has been reached in other cases with only one exception. The triumph of the cooks, however, is likely to lead to further strikes of hotel employes, who are dissatisfied with their conditions of labor, and dining out in the West End is likely to remain something of an adventure during the next few weeks.

Provincial hotels also are affected by the agitation.

BALKAN FOES ARE FIGHTING.

Renewed Activity Is Reported with the Better Weather Conditions.

LONDON, Monday, March 17.—With the improvement in weather conditions, the armies in the Balkans have become more active, although no news of a pitched battle of any importance has come through.

According to official reports issued at Sofia, both the Bulgarians and Turks at Tchatalja have been moving, and reconnoitering parties have been in collision. In one case a rather sharp engagement resulted. Two Bulgarian parties sent out in the direction of Akalon took a redoubt to the east of that village at the point of the bayonet. The Turks, having been reinforced, tried to recapture it, but in the attack lost 300 dead and wounded, who were left on the field.

The Turks advanced toward Kadikeui the same day, but were repulsed.

There is little prospect of the acceptance by Turkey of the peace terms proposed by the allies. Dispatches from Constantinople say that leading members of the Committee of Union and Progress have decided that the conditions cannot be accepted. The Grand Vizier, Mahmoud Shefket Pasha, to-day visited the Red Crescent Society and begged the members to continue their efforts, as the Government was resolved to continue the war.

Meanwhile the agitation against Bulgaria continues in Greece. The Greeks in Thrace and Eastern Macedonia have sent a petition to Athens against being incorporated in an enlarged Bulgaria. Premier Venizelos in reply boldly said that he had notified the allies long ago that Greece laid no claim to Thrace. This announcement, which was made in the Chamber of Deputies, aroused vigorous protests.

A dispatch from Belgrade says that anti-Bulgarian articles are also becoming common in the Servian newspapers. The Greek and Servian Cabinets are becoming intimate, and it is reported that they have already concluded a defensive treaty.

According to Constantinople reports, conditions in the Gallipoli Peninsula are quiet. An engagement in the Tchatalja district is reported, the Turkish warships bombarding the Bulgarian positions at Silivri, but with what result is not known.

Late advices say that the Montenegrin siege guns have begun a fierce bombardment of Scutari, part of which is in flames.

The Greeks continue to gather in stray bodies of Turks. Near Arnitza the Greek cavalry captured two Turkish battalions, comprising 1,570 men and 30 officers.

A Belgrade dispatch says that 119 men were killed during the bombardment by the Turkish cruiser Hamidieh of Servians on the Adriatic coast.

POPE RESUMES OLD ROUTINE.

But He Will Give No More Audiences Until After Easter.

ROME, March 16.—The condition of the Pope is such that his physicians have permitted him to resume practically the ordinary course of life.

His Holiness will not give any further audiences, however, until the Wednesday after Easter.

before the execution. The operator of the electric chair had been sent for and the disecting table, even, was ready for Mulraney."

Mr. Shay returned to New York, where he met Mr. McCabe, who had the letter from Morrissey.

In this letter, which is long and rambling, Morrissey said he saw the murder of "Paddy the Priest." Morrissey accused a man named Dowling, who was arrested with Mulraney and died in Bellevue Hospital. In his letter the convict also mentioned John W. Fahey, who was one of the witnesses against Muraney. In his recent efforts to get a new trial Mulraney also has thrown the blame for the murder upon Fahey. Morrissey wrote to McCabe that his reason for keeping silence so long was because he had been requested by Mulraney to do so. The Dannemora convict described Mulraney as one who would rather die himself than send a "pal" to the electric chair.

With this letter in his possession Mr. Shay called on Justice Davis at his residence at 10 o'clock on Saturday night. Justice Davis listened to him till after midnight, and then ordered Shay to come before him yesterday afternoon and also to notify District Attorney Whitman and Assistant District Attorney Rubin to be present.

Convict's Letter Convincing.

Mr. Shay says he worked at his office till 4 o'clock yesterday morning preparing his papers for the hearing. At that hour he started out to see several witnesses. By noon yesterday he had his case prepared for Justice Davis. Mr. Shay said last night that after they had read the letter from Morrissey, both Mr. Whitman and Mr. Rubin joined him in requesting a stay for Mulraney.

"Then I telephoned to Sing Sing," said Mr. Shay, "and found that while I was at the telephone the prison was receiving a message from Albany announcing the reprieve. At 2 o'clock on Sunday morning, after my interview with Justice Davis, I telephoned to Mulraney at Sing Sing to let him know that I believed a stay of execution would be granted.

"Then Mr. McCabe and myself took the next train to Sing Sing with Justice Davis's order. When we arrived at the prison Electrician Davis and his assistant and were in the Warden's office, having prepared the death chair and made final preparations to turn on the current on Monday morning."

Mr. Shay and Mr. McCabe then went to the death house. The news of the reprieve had reached Mulraney. According to Mr. Shay, when he entered the place with Mr. McCabe, shouts and cheers broke out from the fifteen prisoners in the death house.

"All the prisoners were at the doors of their cells," said Mr. Shay. "Becker, 'Gyp the Blood,' 'Whitey' Lewis, and 'Dago Frank' and all the others began to shout for Mulraney. Then Mulraney came to the door of his cell and made a speech to them. He said:

"I don't know how to show you my appreciation for having saved my life. It is not my life altogether that I care for, but I am glad the State is not to be disgraced by the execution of an innocent man. I am an innocent man. I was writing a statement of all that I knew about the death of Paddy the Priest, when I got the news that there was to be a reprieve. Until then, I felt certain that I was to die, and I believed that my statement would not help me, but that it might help others. I have belonged to gangs, and I hate a squealer. A squealer is the vilest reptile on the earth, and I would go to the chair rather than squeal to save myself.

"When I wrote that statement I was thinking of others who might have families, and I did not want any of them to be framed up the way I had been. So I wrote it down there that the two men who had killed Paddy the Priest were Dowling, who died since, and 'Salty,' the police stool pigeon. I don't know the real name of 'Salty,' but every gangster in New York knows him, and after I have named him he will hide to keep from being killed by his pals when they learn that he is a stool pigeon."

In his previous efforts to escape the electric chair Mulraney has charged that the police induced him to sign a forged confession. Before the letter from Morrissey was received the efforts to obtain a new hearing for Mulraney had been based on an attempt to establish an alibi.

Before his arrest for murder Mulraney had served six months on Blackwell's Island for burglary in the third degree, and was later arrested for breaking into a flat, but on pleading that it was his first offense was freed by Judge O'Sullivan.

MARLBOROUGH ACRES TO BE USED FOR POOR

Duke Will Put Blenheim Park Under the Plow to Increase Food Supply.

LAND FOR COTTAGES, TOO

Opposing Radical Land Measures, Marlborough Gives His Views in Letter to Winston Churchill.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Monday, March 17.—The Daily Mail publishes this morning the first of a series of articles on the land question by the Duke of Marlborough, written in the form of an open letter to his cousin, Winston Churchill, who invited the Duke to express his views of the Government's land policy. The Duke is one of the largest landowners in Great Britain, having nearly 20,000 acres.

The article is a vigorous criticism of the Radical attitude toward property, and represents the point of view of the typical large landowner. The sincerity with which the Duke approached the question may be gauged by the fact that The Daily Mail announces his intention of placing Blenheim Park, his Oxford seat, under the plow to "produce food for the National food supply." He will also give land for cottages.

The Duke in to-day's article gives a hint of his scheme and the reason for its adoption. Referring to the policy of the nationalization of land and elimination of the landlord, to which the Government is apparently committing itself, the Duke says to Winston Churchill:

"I trust you will pause before you commit yourself to these proposals. I think I shall be able to show you how unwise they are. I believe we can beat the men who proposed them at their own game. I fully believe that if a landlord can show to his fellow-citizens that he can administer his land more cheaply than the State the public will be on his side, for the public is not concerned with theory, but with practice.

"A citizen will ask himself whether he is better off under a landlord or under the State. He will ask himself how the change affects him, and if it can be clearly proved to him that the administration of land under a landlord would be better than it would be under the administration of the State, he will prefer not to embark upon the step.

"As long as I can show, therefore, that I can administer my estates more cheaply and efficientl ythat the State, that I can employ a greater number of laborers, that I can give them a better wage, and that I can produce a greater amount of food-stuffs than could the State, I believe the British public wil plreserve me and my administration until the day when the State can show it can administer the land better.

"You have, therefore, got to show, on a public platform, that under State ownership of land England will enoy a wiser and more sympathetic system of control than is exercised by the present proprietors.'

The Daily Mail's preliminary notice of the Duke's articles, containing the announcement of the Duke's intention of plownig Blenheim Park, indicates that the scheme will be revealed in more detail in a later contribution.

Blenheim Park is one of the show places of Great Britain. It is situated in Oxfordshire, is about twelve miles in circumference, and well stocked with deer.

The Duke's magnificent palace, which centres the estate of Woodstock Manor, was built by the first Duke of Marlborough with $2,500,000 a grateful Parliament presented to him in recognition of his numerous Continental victories. The first Woodstock Manor was an early residence of the English Kings, having been built by Henry I. Edward the Black Prince was born there in 1330. There Henry II. is said to have constructed the bower for Fair Rosamond. Queen Elizabeth, when Princess, was immured there by Queen Mary. Sir Walter Scott has perpetuated it in literature by his romance of the same name. No trace of the old manor now remains.

The present palace was built by Vanburgh, and has been described as a good example of his heavy but imposing style, with a Corinthian portico centreing the façade and two projecting wings. The interior is richly adorned with tapestry and painted ceilings by Thornhill.

The gardens are very extensive and attractive, and contain temples, cascades, and fountains in the taste of the period. The park is always open to pedestrians, and the palace and gardens are shown to the public on certain days of the week.

BILL TO STOP ARSON INTRODUCED TO-DAY

Commissioner Johnson's Measure Makes False Statement a Misdemeanor.

MUST WRITE APPLICATIONS

And Insurance Agents Must Certify to Inspection with a Heavy Fine for Neglect.

Assemblyman Walker will introduce at Albany to-day a measure which has been prepared by Fire Commissioner Johnson and which the Commissioner believes will legislate the "Arson Trust" out of business, or go a long way in that direction. Acting on his conviction that one-fourth of our fires are of incendiary origin and that the inshurance companies are largely to blame because of the failure to inspect the property and goods before the issuance of policies, he has made his chief point the requirement that the insuree make written application for his policy, and that the insurance companies are largely ing inspected the risks which they recommend the companies to assume.

In the written application, the confirmed sufferer from fires will find this question:

"Whether any fire has ever occurred in any premises occupied at the time by the applicant for residential or business purposes or both, and the details of all such fires, if any."

And it is further proposed that a false statement, knowingly made in such application, be deemed a misdemeanor, punishable by a year's imprisonment, a $500 fine or both.

"I am sure," said Commissioner Johnson yesterday, "that this bill will put a stop to a large percentage of incendiary fires. The remarkable results which followed our arson crusade amply prove that firebugs can be put out of business if the problem is tackled in the right way. In the two months following the opening of our crusade, we had 1,000 less fires than occurred during the same period a year before. In what we call the firebug zone, we had 60 per cent. less fires this year than last. Trade fires which were numerous in 1911 and 1912, did not occur at all during the present Winter. You can't get away from the fact that we have the firebug fraternity on the run. What we want to do now is to turn our victory into a complete rout, horse, foot, and dragoons."

When the Walker bill comes up for a hearing, a "Fire-bug Special" will carry to Albany the men who want to see the bill become a law. The deputation will include Fire Marshals, insurance experts, and others. Robert H. Mainzer will lead the delegation. The Fire Commissioner is not alone in his campaign. Aside from the very forceful blows which District Attorney Whitman has been delivering at incendiaries, other States are raising the same hue and cry. State Fire Marshal Baldwin of Pennsylvania will introduce a bill similar to the Walker bill at Harrisburg this week. Fire Marshals of Louisiana and other States are following the same road. There is a movement almost Nation-wide to rid the country of its sinister pre-eminence in the matter of fires.

The Walker bill requires both a signed application from the insuree and a certificate of recommendation from the broker. By its provision, the insuring company, which entered into a contract without these new rules having been observed, would be subject to a fine of $1,000 and the agent who makes such a contract without previous compliance with the new rules, is to be considered guilty of a misdemeanor. One important feature of the bill is the requirement that a duplicate application be filed in each case at Fire Headquarters, so that the Fire Marshals can keep track of all persons who ought not to have policies at all, should any of these parties escape what Mr. Johnson calls the "vigilance of the insurance companies themselves." Commissioner Johnson intends to establish a bureau at Fire Headquarters for the express purpose of assisting fire insurance companies in their work of preventing incendiarism.

REBEL LEADERS SHOT FOR THEIR LOYALTY

Refusing to Join Federals, Col. Gutierrez and Two Other Officers Are Executed in Sonora.

HUERTA MEN ARE DESERTING

Four Hundred Government Troops Fire on Commander When Told to Attack Carranza Force.

NACO, Ariz., March 16.—Prisoners of war, Col. Josô Gutierrez and two other State troop officers, were executed at sun-up to-day, below Naco, Sonora.

After a night of contemplation the remaining thirty-two prisoners taken yesterday in battle, it is said, decided to join the Federal ranks. This was their only alternative from death before the execution squad.

Their commander and his lieutenants stood firm. Before the Sonora revolt Gutierrez was "comisario," a village official of Pilares. Deciding to die rather than alter his political faith, he faced the firing squad with cool courage, witnesses say.

NOGALES, Ariz., March 16.—Max Mueller, German Consular Agent and banker at Hermosillo, was liberated to-day by State authorities and allowed to go to his home. Mueller was arrested on refusal to make a loan to the State Government. The Banco de Sonora, of which he was an officer, was raided.

Under the guise of searching for arms, State troops in control of Nogales, Sonora, are looting homes. Many residents who returned to the Mexican side after the battle last week are flocking here, reporting petty thieving.

So far no movement has been made to the assistance of State troops defeated yesterday below Naco. Gen. Obregon, however, is said to be contemplating moving a strong force to assist in crushing Ojeda.

Huerta Troops Desert to Carranza.

MONTEREY, Mexico, March 16.—Four hundred Federal troops in the army of Gen. Cheche Campos, it became known here to-day, refused to obey orders yesterday when commanded to go from Gomez Palacio, on the eastern border of Durango, to Parras, in Coahuila, to oppose the rebel bands in that State. The soldiers fired on their Commander. Two hundred of them have joined the forces of Venustiano Carranza, the rebel Governor of Coahuila.

Francisco Naranjo, Governor of Morelos and a former Colonel in President Madero's army, was removed from office yesterday, having been charged with incompetence for his inability to control the movements of the Carranzistas. Followers of Gov. Carranza holding the city of Villaldama looted it yesterday.

Gen. Trucy Aubert, on his march to Lampazos, was opposed by the rebels at Villaldama, fifty-eight miles north of Monterey. A battle ensued and the Carranzistas fled. Gen. Trevino has received instructions to exercise the most rigorous measures in his campaign against the Constitutionalistas. He has refused, however, to follow such instructions and has resigned his position as Governor of the State of Nueva Leon.

Trains between Monterey and Laredo are now in operation. The people of this city are much wrought up over rumors of the concentration of United States troops with a view to an invasion of the border towns. The Government officials, however, have reiterated the assurance that the United States Government does not contemplate intervention.

Huerta Hiding the Truth.

MEXICO CITY, March 16.—There is a wide variance between the official and unofficial reports received in the capital regarding the magnitude of Mexico's latest revolution. Information from sources heretofore reliable makes it appear that Gov. Carranza's revolt is far more formidable than the Government reports would indicate. According to the Huerta Government, the rebel Governor of Coahuila holds no towns, commands not more than 400 men, and chiefly is occupied in running away from the Government troops.

Private advices are that Col. Carranza holds Lampazos and Bustamente, in the State of Nuevo Leon, and Ciudad Porfirio Diaz, in the State of Coahuila, and that he has at least 4,000 men, many of whom are State troops, under his command as Governor. Furthermore, it is reported on the same authority that Carranza practically is in control of the Mexican International Railway, is operating parts of it, and has so damaged the National Railroad between Monterey and Laredo that to repair it will require a long time, even when the management has an opportunity to do so.

The oil and water tanks and stations have been destroyed. In addition to wrecking of the bridges, miles of tracks have been removed, the rebels using a crane and a locomotive, by which long sections are torn away at one time—a trick learned from Gen. Pascal Orozco, Jr., when he destroyed the tracks between Chihuahua and Juarez.

The public and press in Mexico City, eager for peace, have been optimistic, but are beginning to receive with doubt the reports of dwindling revolutionary movements, especially in the north. Accurate information is difficult to obtain, and there is reason to believe that even the Government has been informed badly in many cases.

Gen. Orozco appears to be as hopeful as the Government. He professes to believe that Felipe Casares, the emissary he sent to Gen. Inez Salazar, will be able to obtain that leader's allegiance to Provisional President Huerta.

New Attack on Ojeda Planned.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., March 16.—State troop leaders who were defeated yesterday below Naco, conferred to-day in Agua Prieta, deciding to return against Gen. Ojeda's victorious Federals who remained in Naco. Col. Elias Calles and Pedro Bracamonte, who commanded the defeated Constitutionalistas, arrived early to-day at the border town opposite this city with an escort of one hundred men, leaving the major part of the routed State troops in the mountains fifteen miles east of Naco.

Probably the fatalities of yesterday's fight never will be known. Col. Calles asserts the State forces lost only four killed and four wounded. Sixteen slain Constitutionalistas, however, have been found by rescue parties in the field, and probably the actual loss to the defeated forces was great. The Federals pressed closely on the heels of the fleeing troops for nearly two miles, their artillery streaming the killed and wounded over a great space of country.

"We will attack Naco simultaneously, assisted by a strong force sent from Nogales by Gen. Obregon," Col. Calles announced to-day. He had been arranging by telegraph the campaign against Ojeda with the rebel Commander. "We were taken unawares yesterday," explained the defeated insurgent leader. "Our men were not prepared for battle, and we had no chance to defend our positions. There was nothing to do but retreat.

"Ojeda has no way of escaping, and we guarantee he will be a prisoner with his men and munitions of war before the end of this week," Col. Calles continued. "We are fighting for a Constitutional Government in Mexico, and a little battle like that at Naco yesterday will not matter."

Calles and Bracamonte arrived here with their followers exhausted and almost frozen. The proof of defeat greatly excited the Agua Prieta garrison and sympathizers on the Arizona side. Secret junta meetings along the Arizona side of the border indicate that strong reinforcements of recruits will participate in the next campaign around the westward border port.

Dr. F. W. Randall, the Douglas physician who was lost to sight when [illegible] ing the wounded on the field below [illegible] arrived here to-day. His automobile was wrecked, and he was compelled to take a horse proffered by a State soldier and ride to Agua Prieta with the defeated rebels.

Juarez is Again Threatened.

EL PASO, March 16.—The vanguard of Inez Salazar's army arrived to-night within one mile of Juarez.

The rebel force is estimated at 500 men. Juarez is defended by 300 Federal regulars.

GONZALEZ GOING TO MEXICO.

Left There with Diaz and Is Now Returning—Will Call on Huerta.

Gen. Fernando Gonzalez, who was for thirty-one years the principal aid to Gen. Porfirio Diaz when he was President of the Mexican Republic, arrived yesterday from Paris on the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, on his way to Mexico to look after his property. The General, who is a short, plump, good-natured-looking man of about 55, with a military mustache and imperial, said that he had left Mexico with Gen. Diaz and lived with him in Paris until Jan. 12, when the General went to Egypt.

"Owing to the delay of twelve to fifteen days in the Mexican mail service," said he, "I have had to depend on the cabled reports to The Paris Daily Mail for information regarding my own country. I expect to leave for the City of Mexico this coming week, and, after my affairs are arranged, I shall return to Paris and meet Gen. Diaz, who is now staying in Naples."

While in Mexico Gen. Gonzalez will call on President Huerta.

NOT FIT FOR CONVICTS NOW.

Prison Commission Points Out Congested Conditions at Sing Sing.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 16.—Although there is a difference of opinion among the members of the State Commission of Prisons concerning the advisability of abandoning Sing Sing Prison at Ossining, the commission is unanimous in recommending that "the work of relieving the present unsanitary and congested condition of Sing Sing Prison be expedited, either by remodeling the prison or by building a new prison at Wingdale, Dutchess County, or elsewhere."

"The commission is unanimous that Sing Sing in its present condition is not a fit place in which to house convicts," says the commission in its report to the Legislature. The majority of the commission is of the opinion that it is a great advantage to have a prison surrounded by a large tract of farming land, yet, under existing conditions, the majority are of the opinion that the State will not be justified in spending the additional amount of money necessary to build and maintain the prison at Wingdale, and that Sing Sing ought to be continued with a new cell block and other improvements.

"One member of the commission," says the report, "submits a minority report upon this subject, and is very strongly of the opinion that the objections to Sing Sing are so great and the advantages of a new prison at Wingdale so essential that Sing Sing should be abandoned and the new prison erected at Wingdale, in spite of the additional expense, and he is further of the opinion that the additional expense both in construction and maintenance will not be so great as is anticipated by the majority of the commission."

The commission also asks the Legislature to provide for the construction of additional cottages for the New York State Reformatory for Women at Bedford; to establish workhouses to take the places of the present penitentiaries outside of New York City; to unify the probation work of New York City and put it in charge of a single head, with an increased force of trained assistants, and to amend the New York City charter, making it mandatory to send boys from 16 to 21 years old, sentenced to imprisonment for misdemeanors or lesser offenses, to the New York City Reformatory, instead of to the penitentiary workhouse or city prisons.

The commission favors a law which would permit a court, without the intervention of a Grand Jury, to accept a plea of guilty with the consent of the District Attorney in the case of a person charged with a misdemeanor and pronounce sentence. The commission also asks the Legislature seriously to consider proposing an amendment to the Constitution authorizing like procedure on charges of felony, except homicide.

TWO AGED MEN DIE IN FIRE.

Hotel at Wilson, N. Y., Destroyed—Guests Flee in Night Clothes.

Special to The New York Times.

NIAGARA FALLS, March 16.—The Hotel Sutherland at Wilson, this county, was destroyed by fire early this morning, and John Langdon and Daniel Burns were burned to death. Burns, who was 61 years old, was the hotel hostler. Langdon, who was 70 years old, lived in Lockport, and was a guest of the hotel.

James Powers discovered the fire when the entire rear part of the house was ablaze. Smashing a window he aroused the guests and employes who fled from the building in their night clothes. The hotel, a frame structure, burned rapidly, and it was impossible to save Burns and Langdon. The efforts of the villagers, who hurried to the scene, were directed toward saving the Albright Machinery Hall and adjoining dwellings. The hotel was owned by Miss Edna Tenbrook. The loss will reach $20,000, partly insured. The fire is believed to have started under a rear veranda.

order for two tickets,' came the ultimatum, and he hung up the receiver."

This Tammany man was asked what his position toward the dinner was, and he replied:

"I am a good friend of Gov. Sulzer and I am a good friend to Murphy. I am going to attend the dinner."

He added that he had been accosted by a second politician concerning the rumored boycott on Friday, and that this man had observed:

"The word has gone out that Murphy and the Governor are not together. I don't think that I will use these tickets which are listed in my name. Don't put my name on the seating list."

"I told him that I had nothing to do with the seating list or with any of the active arrangements for the dinner," added the speaker.

Still another Tammany office holder whose name appears on the Dinner Committee and who intends to be present at the dinner said that job-hunters who had the backing of Fourteenth Street have been seeking other political sponsors than Charles F. Murphy of late. He mentioned the instance of an applicant for appointment to the Supreme Court bench who had become convinced that the O. K. of the Tammany boss had lost its force at Albany. The same speaker, who is a former Tammany Hall leader, stated that a boom would be launched at the dinner to-morrow night for Supreme Court Justice Francis K. Pendleton for the Democratic nomination for Mayor next Fall.

Those members of the dinner committee who were seen last night were much concerned, apparently, as to whether or not John H. McCooey, Democratic leader of Kings County and a henchman of the Wigwam in Brooklyn, would attend the dinner. It was learned that Mr. McCooey had accepted two tickets and that his name appeared on the final seating list prepared by the active Committee of Arrangements, but considerable doubt is expressed as to whether he would be present.

Among the more prominent names in the list of guests who are expected to attend the dinner are John D. Crimmins, Jacob Cantor, former Borough President of Manhattan; Judge Dittenhoefer, Perry Belmont, Supreme Court Justices Davis, Dugro, Giegerich, and Gerard; Sheriff Julius Harburger, Health Commissioner Lederle, Congressmen Goldfogle and Levy, former District Attorney Eugene A. Philbin, Isaac N. Seligman, Alton B. Parker, State Controller William Sohmer, John B. Stanchfield, Herman Ridder, Adolph Stern, Edward Lauterbach, and the Judges of General Sessions.

Gov. Sulzer and his military aid, Col. Schermerhorn, arrived at the Grand Central Station from Albany on the New York express at 11:02 o'clock last night. He was told there by a TIMES reporter that Murphy and a number of other Tammany leaders had decided to boycott the dinner to-morrow night. The Governor thought it over for just five seconds and then replied:

"Not a word, not a word."

He was asked if he would discuss other political questions and made the same reply.

From the station Gov. Sulzer and Col. Schmererhorn went directly to the Waldorf-Astoria. The Governor surprised the newspapermen who were waiting for him there by refusing to grant an interview.

It was learned that he had given instructions to have his telephone "silenced" as far as the newspapermen were concerned, asserting that he was worn out and did not want to talk about anything.

The Governor did not put in an appearance in the lobby of the hotel, going to his room by the Thirty-third Street elevator. There were at least a dozen men waiting in the lobby for him who were disappointed.

RACE NO BAR TO GUARDSMAN.

Sulzer Dismisses Littman's Complaint of Discrimination in Promotion.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 16.—The complaint of Samuel Littman, a member of one of the companies of the Forty-seventh Regiment, that he was a victim of discrimination on account of his race or religion, has been dismissed by Gov. Sulzer. Littman is a Sergeant, and he was a candidate for promotion, and it was contended that the promotion was denied because of his race. The compalint, together with a letter from Edward Lauterbach, was referred by the Governor to Adjt. Gen. Hamilton, who asked the commanding officer of the Forty-seventh Regiment for a full statement of facts. The Colonel of the regiment reported that the military record of Sergt. Littman did not warrant his promotion to the position of a commissioned officer. The commanding officer said he used the discretion given to him by the regulations and refused to sanction the promotion.

"Had he been of any other race or made profession of any other religion the result would have been the same," the Colonel said.

Gen. Hamilton in answer to the letter of Mr. Lauterbach says:

"I am inclined to advise the Governor that while the commanding officer of the Forty-seventh Regiment was undoubtedly within his lawful rights in declining to order an election, yet the Governor's well known policy on this question should be understood by all officers of the National Guard, no matter what their rank, to forbid absolutely any consideration of the fact of a soldier's race, creed, or religion as a qualification for membership or promotion in the land and naval forces of this State."

SULZER FINDS OLD PORTRAIT.

Unearths Mementos of His and Sheard's Speakerships.

ALBANY, March 16.—Before Gov. Sulzer left to-night for New York, where he plans to review to-morrow the St. Patrick's Day parade and attend four dinners, he told of having found in the storeroom of the Executive Mansion portraits of himself and Titus Sheard of Herkimer when they were Speakers of the Assembly in 1893 and 1884, respectively.

The portraits, which had been presented to the State by the Assembly, now occupy places of prominence in the People's House.

FRIEDMANN RETURNS FOR MORE PATIENTS

Visits Bellevue and Mt. Sinai Hospitals and Selects Cases of Tuberculosis for Treatment.

NO CLUES TO HIS SECRET

Board of Health Finds Cultures Furnished for Analysis Are Only Part of the Berlin Doctor's Preparation.

Dr. Friedrich Franz Friedmann spent a busy afternoon yesterday after his arrival from Canada, where he treated 190 patients with the vaccine which he says will cure tuberculosis. He conferred here yesterday with Dr. John F. Anderson, head of the Government laboratory in Washington, and Dr. Arthur Stimson of the Public Health Department, who are supervising the tests of his vaccine for the Government. He visited Bellevue and Mount Sinai Hospitals later. At these hospitals more Government tests will be made. At 3 o'clock this afternoon Dr. Friedmann will treat twelve patients in Bellevue Hospital. He has not enough vaccine ready for more than that number, it is said. Dr. Friedmann will start a new supply of the vaccine to-morrow, but as it takes twenty-four hours to prepare it, he will not treat any more patients after his Bellevue clinic until Wednesday or Thursday.

A physician asserted yesterday that the cultures supplied by Dr. Friedmann to the Board of Health in this city gave no clue to the main secret of his method of treatment, as this was contained in a fluid which was injected into patients with the culture. Another thing brought out yesterday in connection with the treatment is that the patients are required to give a legal release in case the effects of the vaccine do not prove beneficial.

When Dr. Friedmann arrived at the Ansonia yesterday morning he said he was much pleased with his reception in Canada. He expected to return there to continue his treatments and to look after the cases already treated, he asserted. He showed his "signature" book, which contained this entry:

> Wishing you every success in your fight against tuberculosis.
> ARTHUR, DUKE OF CONNAUGHT,
> Governor General of Canada.

Dr. F. F. Friedmann, his brother, Dr. A. C. H. Friedmann, Dr. Benjamin, his assistant, and Dr. Maurice Sturm, house physician of the Ansonia, made elaborate preparations in the afternoon to get away from the hotel without attracting attention.

"No! No! I can't tell you where we are going," said Dr. Friedmann's brother. "The programme is my brother's, and he would discharge me if I told it."

After manoeuvring for an hour the physicians departed in a high-speed automobile. They drove through many streets before they headed for Bellevue Hospital. Dr. Friedmann and those accompanying him went to Ward 27, where twenty or more tuberculosis patients are awaiting treatment. Dr. Friedmann at Bellevue met Drs. Anderson and Stimson; Dr. John W. Brannan, President of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals; Dr. J. Alexander Miller, Director of tuberculosis work at Bellevue; Drs. F. Erdwurm, Woodruff, H. H. Pelton, L. B. MacKenzie, George O'Hanlon, C. C. Borroughs, and Dr. M. L. Fleming, Assistant Medical Superintendent of the hospital.

After visiting the ward, where the German physician carefully examined the history of each case and interviewed the patients, he accepted twelve out of fifteen examined. The party stayed in the ward for nearly an hour. After departing from the hospital, Dr. Friedmann went on board the old Staten Island ferryboat Southfield, now an open-air home for consumptives, which is moored in the East River at the hospital river wall. There were some fifty patients on the boat. He examined three patients, a boy of 17, a girl of the same age on crutches, and a man. Dr. Friedmann did not say that he would accept any of those examined on the boat. He went into the office on the upper deck and examined X-ray photographs and charts. This done he came out and talked for several minutes with the Government physicians and spoke to several waiting patients.

"Dr. Friedmann was most fair in the selection of his patients for treatment," said one of the doctors. "He took twelve out of fifteen that had been selected for him. Those selected are suffering from pulmonary consumption."

At Mount Sinai Hospital Dr. Friedmann examined the eight patients whom he treated several days ago. These patients have been under the daily observation of Dr. Stimson, and, according to an unofficial report, have all shown signs of improvement since the vaccine was injected. He examined a number of prospective patients and selected fifteen for treatment. All of these patients are suffering from tuberculosis of the bones or glands.

Of those examined by Dr. Friedmann in Mount Sinai, it was said, he rejected but three. One was a case of tubercular glands where the healing process had already set in. The doctor said that the patient, under proper care, would soon recover, and to treat such a person would be in no sense a test of his vaccine. The other two cases were ones in which it appeared the disease had made too great headway. Dr. Friedmann also plans to continue the treatment of the patients already under his care. Within a few days he will treat twenty cases in the Hospital for Deformities and Crippled Joints, at 1,919 Madison Avenue, and patients in the Montefiore Home.

Dr. Friedmann was asked last night whether the Government had demanded from him the secret of his cure or a positive assurance that there would be no harmful effects to those treated. He would not answer the question directly.

"The cultures are with the Government," he said. "I have given it all that I was asked for."

"Can the Government officails make the vaccine from the cultures?" he was asked.

"That is another question," he replied. "I insist that the cure is entirely harmless and the Government will find it out."

The New York Medical Journal, issued on Friday, discusses the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis, and refers to "the unsavory performance now going on in New York." It urges physicians to tell patients the truth about tuberculosis, even though they lose them to the next "miracle monger."

"The histories of these so-called specifics, of which high hopes have been entertained," The Journal continues, "is no more encouraging than that of many other supposed remedies for tuberculosis; they have all flashed up like the rocket and come down like the stick, as far as pulmonary tuberculosis is concerned, and it is the pulmonary form which interests both physician and patient."

The article continues that no disease that comes from ages of neglect on the part of his ancestors, together with carelessness of his own, is going to yield to a few "unaided shots from a hypodermic syringe."

It was said yesterday that it was a report of A. M. Thackara, American Consul General at Berlin, that influenced the Government in its requirements for the tests of the Friedmann preparation. The Consul General reported:

"Owing to the comparatively short period which has elapsed since the new treatment has been tried, fears have been expressed lest the non-virulent organisms when injected into the human system, may become virulent and cause an outbreak of the disease."

DR. HEATH TO WORK ALONE.

Announces That He Will No Longer Accept Finlay's Aid.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, March 16.—Arrangements between Charles E. Finlay, the banker, and Dr. George M. Heath of St. Louis for the test of the latter's tuberculosis serum under Mr. Finlay's direction have been broken off. The St. Louis chemist announced to-night that he had been advised by friends to sever connection with Mr. Finlay because of the latter's attitude toward American physicians for their treatment of Dr. Friedmann, the Berlin scientist.

"I will carry on the tests at my own expense, independently of Mr. Finlay," said Dr. Heath, "and though they will be made along the same general lines as Mr. Finlay and myself laid out, they will be still more complete and leave less room for doubt as to the merits of my serum than if the tests had gone forward as originally planned."

Dr. Heath admitted that a statement by Mr Finlay in regard to Dr. Friedmann's reception had placed the banker in disfavor with the medical profession of the United States, and Dr. Heath's friends advised him to terminate an alliance which might be embarrassing in the future.

SEEK TWO RUNAWAY GIRLS.

Each Told Her Mother That She Was Going to Visit the Other.

The police are looking for thirteen-year-old Florence Wallace of 2,074 Seventh Avenue and her chum of the same age, Esther Marion, whose home is at 228 West 124th Street. Apparently the youngsters have run away together, though their parents have no idea why they should have done so.

On Saturday each girl told her mother that she was going to visit the other, and so neither mother worried when her daughter did not return Saturday night. Yesterday they consulted, however, and found their children had disappeared.

The girls were seen together about 6 o'clock on Saturday night in Seventh Avenue, near 124th Street. Their parents are frantic.

EXPLODED A BOMB IN CROWDED STREET

Grocery Store Wrecked Within a Hundred Feet of Where Throng Watched Robbed Store.

TENANTS FLED IN PANIC

Reserves Called Out to Calm Frightened Dwellers in Hester St. Tenement Aroused from Sleep by Explosion.

Within a few hundred feet of the pawnshop of Martin Simon at 94 Hester Street, where a crowd had gathered because of a robbery there, a bomb was set off in the doorway of the grocery store of Charles Pregola at 141 Hester Street, last night. It wrecked the front of the store and attracted the attention of the crowd outside the pawnshop. Scores ran to investigate the new sensation, and the reserves of the Clinton Street Station were called out to handle them.

Michael Tomasso, 17 years old, a trimmer in the Street Cleaning Department, living at 117 Mulberry Street, and Louis Mindio, 18 years, a laborer of 56 Mulberry Street, were injured by the explosion of the bomb. Policeman Hadlich saw them running away from the grocery store and pursued them. He drew his revolver and called on them to halt. They did, and Hadlich arrested them on suspicion. They said they were passing the store when the explosion occurred. They were cut in many places on their faces, and Tomasso suffered a wound, probably from flying glass, on his ankle.

The wrecked grocery store is on the ground floor of a five-story tenement, and the occupants of this and adjoining tenements ran to the street in fright. Some of them were in bed when the explosion occurred, and they did not wait to put on street clothing. The tenants and the crowd from the pawnshop gathered outside the tenement, and the police had much trouble in keeping order.

Pregola, the grocer, lives in Mulberry Street. The police would not give his exact address, but they said he denied that he had received any threatening letters or that he had any enemies.

ATTRIBUTES BOMB TO RIVALS.

Grocer Thinks Neighboring Tradesmen Tried to Wreck His Store.

A bomb thought to have been intended to wreck the living quarters of Frank Urso, which are back of his new grocery store on the ground floor of the tenement house at 2,016 Second Avenue, exploded in the rear of the hall at 10 o'clock last night. Twenty-four families in the building ran to the street in a panic after the explosion. The bomb wrecked the doors on either side of the hall, but all the Urso family were in the shop and no one was in the paint shop across the way. A hole was torn in the ceiling and a hole was torn in the floor, and that was all.

The police are inclined to accept Urso's statement that he had received no blackmail threats of any kind, either before or since his removal to his present quarters four months ago. He told the detectives from the East 104th Street Station that in his opinion, the bomb was set off by one of the grocers in the neighborhood, who was jealous of his new store.

GANGSTERS WRECK A SALOON

They Are Arrested with Proprietor, Who Shot One for Beating Him.

Bernard Hansen and his wife Annie were closing up the saloon owned by Hansen at 4,823 Second Avenue, South Brooklyn, early yesterday morning when four men entered and called for drinks. They drained their glasses and started to leave without paying. When Hansen demanded pay they beat him and his wife and then going outside threw cobblestones through the windows.

Hansen ran behind his counter, got a revolver, and fired two shots out of the front window. His assailants fled, after having wrecked his place.

The shots aroused the neighborhood and brought three policemen from the Fourth Avenue Station, who arrested four men. The prisoners were later identified by Hansen and his wife as their assailants in the Fourth Avenue Station, where they described themselves as Raymond McDonald of 347 Fifty-sixth Street, August McLellen of 144 Fifty-eighth Street, John Gross of 213 Fifty-fourth Street, and James Fitzgerald of 250 Fifty-fourth Street. None of the four is more than 20 years old.

A blood-stained coat that McDonald wore revealed a bullet wound in his left shoulder. He was taken to the Norwegian Hospital. All four were held for examination to-morrow morning.

Hansen was also arrested on a charge of violating the Sullivan law. He was held in $1,000 bail for examination tomorrow.

DYING OF TOOTH WOUND.

Peculiar Accident Develops Remarkable Case of Blood Poisoning.

Ambrose Kelly of 285 East 141st Street, the Bronx, was said to be delirious and dying in St. Francis's Hospital last night from blood-poisoning caused by a slight cut on one of his fingers received when he accidentally struck a friend on a tooth.

Kelly was in a saloon four days ago, and in scuffling with a friend received the cut. Util Saturday he paid no attention to the wound, but then he noticed that his arm ached and was beginning to swell. He went to St. Francis's Hospital, where he became rapidly worse, and last night it was said that he could not live.

KILLS GIRL AND HIMSELF.

"Forgive Me, Dear!" Says Jilted New Yorker After the Shooting.

Special to The New York Times.

MACON, Ga., March 16.—W. P. Mize, 24 years old, of Springfield, near Jamaica, L. I., shot his sweetheart, Annie Hall, college girl and planter's daughter, here to-day and then turned an automatic pistol on himself. Both are dead.

Mize met Miss Hall a year ago, when he was traveling for a New York fruit firm buying peaches in this State. He fell in love with her. The Long Islander lost his position, and for several weeks was an operator on the Coast Line at Sylvester. He came here on Thursday, after receiving a letter indicating the girl wished to end their correspondence. Meeting her on the street, he tore a ring from her finger and threw it into the road. On Saturday he demanded and got trinkets and letters he had sent to her. He called on a friend named Raymond on Saturday night in the Exchange Hotel in Broadway and told him of his troubles.

"I'm going to kill myself. She's thrown me down," he said to Raymond.

The friend tried to dissuade him, and the two passed the night together, Mize tearing up letter after letter, excerpts from which he read aloud. All the extracts indicated deep love on the part of the girl.

Mize this morning went to the boarding house where Miss Hall was stopping. He had insisted the day before that they be married at once. She rejected him then and again to-day, whereupon he took out his pistol and fired seven shots, four hitting the girl and three himself.

With two bullets through his body he crawled to the side of the young woman and muttered:

"Forgive me, dear!"

There was no audible response. Then he lay down beside her to die.

Pours Kerosene on Fire, Woman Dying

While lighting a fire in her kitchen stove yesterday at noon, Mrs. Rose Feldice, wife of Frank Feldice of 733 Third Avenue, South Brooklyn, poured kerosene on the fire from a can. The can exploded, and Mrs. Feldice was enveloped in flames. Her screams attracted her husband, and Miss Josephine Sallato, who lives with them. Feldice and Miss Sallato smothered the flames in Mrs. Feldice's garments, but she was dying when Dr. Phillips arrived from the Norwegian Hospital.

Light Weight

The light-weight Franklin goes twice as far on a set of tires as the ordinary heavy car. You also get two to three times the gasoline mileage.

Weight is not essential to strength if proper design is used. Electric furnace steels and highly developed methods o heat treatment also make it possible to secure great strength from comparatively very light weight.

Light weight means greater ability, easier driving and lower cost of operation.

These orders are for vehicles not merely sold to dealers. They are for Packards actually sold by dealers to customers.

STAMINA

DRIVING a new Packard "38," William R. McCulla left the new Southern Hotel in Chicago at 2:30 a. m., Monday, February 17. Seven hours and nine minutes later he arrived at the Hotel Pontchartrain in Detroit. The distance is 284 miles.

Three stops for gasoline and tires occupied a total of 15 minutes. The actual running time therefore was 6 hours and 54 minutes, making the average speed for the entire distance a little more than 41 miles per hour.

This record, we believe, has never been equalled under any circumstances. Considering the frozen, rutty condition of the mud and gravel roads traveled by the Packard "38," it stands as a marvelous endurance test of the maximum service car.

This means absolute approval of the Packard square deal one-price policy and is an unqualified endorsement of Packard vehicle features.

URGE PROMPT REPEAL OF CANAL TOLLS LAW

Trustees of Carnegie Peace Endowment Assume Differences Must Be Arbitrated.

DOUBT COAST TRADE PROFIT

Say Country's Duty Is to Promote Great Principles—Repeal Affords Opportunity.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The Trustees of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace to-night issued an appeal to the American people to bring about as an act of National honor the repeal of the act of Congress which exempts coastwise vessels from payment of Panama Canal tolls.

This appeal to the public is the latest work of the organization, which was founded in 1910 by Andrew Carnegie, when he endowed it with $10,000,000. The appeal is as follows:

Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Washington, D. C., March 15, 1913.

The undersigned, members of the Board of Trustees of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, invite the attention of their fellow-citizens to the following statement concerning the grave international discussion which has arisen over the exemption of American coastwise vessels from tolls on the Panama Canal:

On Nov. 18, 1901, a treaty "to facilitate the construction of a ship canal to connect the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans," was concluded between the United States and Great Britain, at the request and on the initiative of the United States. The essential provisions of the treaty were (1) that "the canal may be constructed under the auspices of the Government of the United States" and that "the said Government shall have and enjoy all the rights incident to such construction, as well as the exclusive right of providing for the regulation and management of the canal"; (2) that "the canal shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and of war of all nations observing these rules, on terms of entire equality"; (3) that the plant for operating the canal and the canal itself shall be "neutralized," and shall enjoy complete immunity from attack or injury by belligerents; (4) that the United States shall be at liberty to maintain an adequate military police along the canal, and (5) that "no change of territorial sovereignty or of the international relations of the country or countries traversed by the before-mentioned canal shall affect the general principle of neutralization or the obligation of the high contracting parties under the present treaty."

Necessity of Treaty.

The concluding of this treaty—commonly spoken of as the Hay-Pauncefote treaty—was a necessary preliminary to the construction of any isthmian canal by the United States or under its auspices, because by a previous convention between the same parties, concluded in April, 1850, the United States and Great Britain had bound themselves that neither would "ever obtain or maintain for itself any exclusive control over" an isthmian canal or "maintain any fortifications commanding the same," or exercise dominion over "any part of Central America." The contracting parties further agreed to protect the canal from "interruption, seizure or unjust confiscation," and to guarantee its neutrality.

This convention—commonly spoken of as the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty—made at the request and on the initiative of the United States, established the general principle of the neutralization of any isthmian canal which might be constructed, a principle which the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty reaffirmed.

The great design of both treaties, that of 1850 and that of 1901, was to promote the construction and maintenance of a ship canal between the two oceans, for "the benefit of mankind, on equal terms to all," and to protect the neutralized canal effectively when built. In urging on the British Government the making of the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty the American negotiator said to Lord Palmerston: "The United States sought no exclusive privilege or preferential right of any kind in regard to the proposed communication, (that is, a canal or railroad,) and their sincere wish, if it should be found practicable, was to see it dedicated to the common use of all nations on the most liberal terms and a footing of perfect equality for all. That the United States would not, if they could, obtain any exclusive right or privilege in a great highway which naturally belonged to all mankind." This statement expresses accurately the avowed intention and resolve of the United States from 1850 to 1912 concerning any Panama Canal. All treaties on the subject are based on this intention and resolve, many times reiterated by official representatives of the American Government.

In the Summer of 1912 Congress passed a bill fixing the tolls to be paid for passing through the Panama Canal—constructed by the United States and approaching completion—but added a section which exempted American coastwise vessels from paying tolls, thus giving American coasting vessels a privilege which no other vessels would enjoy and diminishing the probable income of the canal in operation.

Great Britain's Demands.

After an interval of several months Great Britain has presented to the Government of the United States a protest against the exemption of American coastwise vessels on two principal grounds. First, that such an exemption is inconsistent with the provision of the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty that the canal shall be open to vessels of all nations on terms of entire equality; and, secondly, that the exemption of American coastwise vessels would inevitably tend to increase the charges on all other vessels using the canal to the disadvantage of all other nations in comparison with the United States, a disadvantage which might increase in the future, since the higher the rates the greater would be the privilege of exemption from paying them.

The British arguments are calm and free from exaggeration and prove that the action of Congress in exempting American coastwise vessels from the payment of canal tolls involves a construction of the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty which is fairly open to question. A difference has arisen concerning the interpretation of a treaty.

On the 4th of April, 1908, the United States and Great Britain made another treaty in which they agreed that "differences which may arise of a legal nature or relating to the interpretation of treaties existing between the two contracting parties and which it may not have been possible to settle by diplomacy, shall be referred to the Permanent Court of Arbitration established at The Hague by the Convention of the 29th of July, 1899, provided, nevertheless, that they do not affect the vital interests, the independence, or the honor of the two contracting States, and do not concern the interests of third parties."

The question whether American coastwise vessels shall pay tolls for passing through the canal cannot possibly be said to affect either nation's vital interests or independence, or the "honor" of either of the two Governments. Clearly, a difference relating to the interpretation of a treaty has arisen between two Governments which have agreed to submit such differences to The Hague Court of Arbitration.

In a special sense the United States is bound to observe faithfully and without question the treaty of April, 1908; for the United States has been among Governments the great advocate of arbitration, has practised it in important cases, and has urged it strongly on all other Governments. The United States cannot refuse to arbitrate the difference which has arisen concerning the proper interpretation of the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty, without turning its back on a very honorable chapter in its own history, and damaging throughout the world the cause of free institutions. The Republic ought to be the most scrupulous of all Governments in the exact observance of treaty obligations. It must be absolutely faithful to its word, even to its own hurt.

Urge Repeal of Law.

Assuming that the difference which has arisen concerning the construction of the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty must be arbitrated unless the cause of the difference can be withdrawn, we desire to urge on our fellow-citizens the expediency of promptly repealing that action of Congress which gave rise to the difficulty.

Granting that some American shipping interests might be benefited by the exemption of coastwise vessels from canal tolls, since the term coastwise now includes voyages half around the globe, America surely has much larger interests which would be greatly served by the prompt abandonment of any interpretation of the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty against which Great Britain can enter a reasonable protest. The United States has an immense interest in the sanctity of contracts, and in the strict observance of all international conventions and treaties.

It has an immense interest in the faithful observance of any treaty between two or more nations which has been entered into "for the benefit of mankind." It is true that in times past many treaties have not been strictly observed; that others have been suffered to lapse quietly, and that some have been violated by one or more of the parties, too impatient to wait for a new convention. Despotic and Monarchical Governments have often sinned in these respects, and republics have been accused of like conduct. All the more reason that the Amerian Republic should do no act under a treaty which can be even questioned by candid and honorable men. In the efficacy of international agreements lies the chief hope of the world for progressive civilization.

The further promotion, in a method of uncertain value, of the interests of American coastwise shipping interests, already protected by the possession of a complete monopoly as against all other nations, is a doubtful matter of commercial improvement. The whole country considered, the pecuniary advantage would not be large, and might easily be completely offset by accompanying disadvantages; but whatever advantage might come to this well-protected industry, it would be as nothing compared with the interests of the whole United States in carrying out the noble work of building a canal between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans for the common advantage of all nations.

The greatest interest of the United States as a free Nation is to represent worthily before the world the principles of civil and religious liberty and the public efficiency and well-being which those principles develop, and thereby to promote the adoption of these principles the world over. This is a great material as well as a great moral interest. In comparison with this large interest the interest of the United States in its coastwise vessels sinks into insignificance. By securing the repeal of that part of the act of Congress on the Panama Canal which provided for the exemption of American coastwise vessels from the payment of tolls the American people would embrace a precious opportunity to prove that they understand their highest interest, and recognize their duty to promote it "for the benefit of mankind."

AIM TO AMERICANIZE THE ORIENTAL JEWS

Federation Takes Up Problem of 15,000 Living Here and Segregated.

SHUT OUT BY LANGUAGE

Speak Ladino and Have Failed to Take Advantage of Opportunities to Learn English.

At a mass meeting held yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Federation of Oriental Jews of America at the University Settlement, 184 Eldridge Street, the problem of Americanizing 15,000 Oriental Jews, embracing for the most part Ladino-speaking men and women from Turkey, Bulgaria, Greece, Arabia, and the northern coast of Africa, who are suffering a complete isolation from the Yiddish-speaking peoples of this community, was discussed by a dozen leading members of that colony, who were agreed that crime and vice would spread among them unless they were educated to become American citizens.

The circulars, printed in Arabian, Greek, and Spanish, that were sent out announcing the meeting yesterday afternoon, brought together almost 500 of the members of the Ladino colony. Before introducing the first speaker, Joseph Gedalecia, the Chairman of the meeting, said he often had heard it asserted that the Jew who came to this country from Turkey never would be able to become a leader in the life of Israel, or a leader in any profession or trade in the community. To disprove this, he said he would introduce a man who was distinguished for his achievements. He then presented Nassim Behar, head of the Liberal Immigration League.

Mr. Behar, speaking Ladino, told the members of his race that this was a free country, and that they could become Americans, while remaining at the same time Jews. He pointed out the rise of the Irish citizens of America as an example of what the Ladino peoples might hope to become.

The presence of this large band of strange people, who have poured into this country in the last two years from Turkey and the other Eastern countries, was brought to the attention of the Department of Evening Schools last Summer by Commissioner Abraham Stern of the Department of Education, and N. Taylor Phillips, ex-Deputy Controller. It was then apparent that they had begun to segregate themselves in clan-like fashion, and had all but lost themselves to the rest of the world. Arrangements were made with District Superintendent of Schools Shields to have the evening schools opened for their instruction during the Summer months. The first classes of them were organized in Public Schools 25 and 62, but only a small proportion of the colony's population took advantage of the opportunity. It was said that most of them were unable to attend the classes in the evening because of their work.

They are the direct descendants of the Jews who were driven out of Spain by edict of Ferdinand and Isabella in 1492. The majority of them went to Turkey, where they found better treatment than elsewhere because of their intelligence and thrift. From among them was called the eminent Jewish scholar, Abrabanal, who became confidential adviser to the King of Naples. As a result of the present war between Turkey and the Balkan nations, it is anticipated that thousands of the Ladino Jews will be coming to America in the next few months. These people speak the old Castilian-Hispano Portuguese dialect of Latin, and in addition they have a conversational knowledge of Hebrew, modern Greek, and Arabic.

CROWDS WATCH RAIDS.

Detectives Supply Entertainment for Early Morning Strollers.

Inspector Myers and eight detectives raided two disorderly resorts and a gambling house early yesterday morning, and so provided entertainment for a crowd of several hundred which followed them about. They first visited a house in Stuyvesant Street, where they found four women on the top floor, took their names and addresses, and allowed them to go, leaving a policeman on guard in the house against the return of the proprietor.

The crowd which collected at the sight of the patrol wagon followed the raiders to a house in Thirteenth Street, where Joseph Andrée, who opened the door, was arrested immediately as the proprietor. Two women were questioned but not arrested.

The onlookers had increased in number now, and all hands followed the police to a house in Avenue C, near Second Street, where the raiders smashed through three icebox doors and arrested four of forty men they found on the top floor. Several tried to escape down a fire escape in the rear, only to clamber back into the house when they saw detectives, with drawn revolvers, waiting in the yard.

Magistrate Cornell in the Essex Market Court adjourned the case of the gamblers until Wednesday morning.

FIRE AT MT. LORETTA MISSION

Second Largest Barn in the World Destroyed, but 200 Cattle Saved.

A fire that started at 7 o'clock last night in the basement of the big two-story barn connected with the Mission of the Immaculate Virgin, at Mount Loretta, S. I., completely destroyed that structure, said to be the second largest barn in the world. Two hundred head of cattle were taken safely from the building, and all the employes escaped without injury. The loss was variously estimated at from $50,000 to $100,000.

The barn, which was of frame and nearly 500 feet long, was situated about 200 yards northeast of the group of buildings erected by the mission for the care of its 2,500 boys. The danger to the buildings was lessened by a stiff wind from the northwest that swept the sparks and flames off in the opposite direction. However, hundreds of the boys of the institution under the direction of the officers and employes stood ready to man the local water works, while others assisted in the care of the cattle taken from the burning barn.

The local Fire Department at Tottenville was the first to reach the fire. It was quickly reinforced by engine companies from Newdorp and other sections of the island, and by volunteer companies.

WON'T TELL WHO SHOT HIM.

Boy Dying in Hospital Persists in Keeping Secret.

Daniel Cahill, an eighteen-year-old clerk in an express office, is dying in Fordham Hospital from a bullet wound in the back of his head. He knows who shot him, but he will not tell the police.

They found him lying wounded on the pavement in front of 1,823 Third Avenue, and their chief witness, a man living on the second floor of the building, who lifted his window at the sound of the shot, saw only Cahill lying in a heap on the sidewalk and two men running at full speed toward Crotona Park.

From what the police could learn, the attack on the boy came from bad feeling which sprang up at a party he had attended the night before. He went to the Bronx Palace, a Third Avenue dance hall, last evening, and was circling the floor with a girl, when two rather smartly dressed youths came to the hall and beckoned to him. He got his hat and coat at once and walked up Third Avenue with them. The three had not gone far when one of their number drew a revolver. That was about 8:30, and it was only a few minutes later that an ambulance was carrying Cahill to the hospital. His home is at 2,172 Arthur Avenue, the Bronx.

Three New Mash Tanks

Of the many interesting departments in our New Brewhouse which have been graphically portrayed from time to time, the above picture represents three of the most important machines that can be built in a brewery. They are Mash Tanks, or to use a more ancient term may be called Mash Tuns. These machines were designed and built here in New York by expert engineers and machinists well-known to the country. They are made of the finest grade of sheet steel, and are used for the purpose of extracting the most valuable ingredients from malt and cereals, and converting same into wort from which the beer is made. Their capacity is 460,000 pounds of malt a day, or 138,000,000 pounds in a year of 300 working days.

The Beer That Satisfies

Our chief reason for featuring a few of the important departments in our new brewery is to impress upon the public mind what we have always claimed of our beer, that in order to brew as good beer as lies in the power of human skill we have bought the best machinery that could be had. Whether that machinery was invented in Europe or America, we have it and will continue to install all the latest and most sanitary methods the world affords.

We have no hidden secrets, no unnatural patent processes or any methods of brewing that we do not invite the public to inspect and understand. That is why we enjoy the unparalleled patronage of the public for Knickerbocker Beer—"The Beer That Satisfies."

In choosing a bank you think first of safety. We are one of the larger depositories of the city—yet we have behind our banking business more than half as much of our own money as our total deposits.

This is a proportion that is equalled by few banks in the whole world and bespeaks a safety for our depositors that is unsurpassed.

Are You Going to Make a Garden?

If so, you will need garden tools and garden seeds.

Macy's has them.

And the prices are lower than in the stores which specialize in such merchandise.

There is a heep of satisfaction in raising your own garden truck. But the satisfaction is often dampened by the thought that your fork, spade, hoe, rake, weeder and sprayer are flimsy and will last only one season.

In garden tools, as in everything else, Macy's sells only the best and most dependable.

HOME RULE VICTORY CELEBRATED TO-DAY

Irishmen Combine Honors to St. Patrick with Rejoicings Over Concessions Won.

15,000 MEN WILL PARADE

Many Dinners and Balls Arranged to Mark Joint Celebration—Gov. Sulzer Among Those to Speak.

The parade to celebrate St. Patrick's Day this afternoon will be the largest ever held in this city in honor of Ireland's patron saint. It was said yesterday that more than 15,000 men would be in line. The day will be devoted to the celebration of the progress made in the fight for home rule for Ireland also. While the parade will be the chief feature of the celebration, there will be many dinners, dances, and reunions besides, to mark the day.

The parade will start promptly at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. It will form in Fifth Avenue, just north of Forty-second Street, and, headed by the Sixty-ninth Regiment Band under command of Col. Louis D. Conley, will pass up Fifth Avenue. The reviewing stand will be in front of St. Patrick's Cathedral, at Fifth Avenue and Fiftieth Street. On the stand will be Cardinal Farley and other prominent ecclesiastics of the Roman Catholic Church, Gov. William Sulzer and his military staff, Mayor Gaynor, Police Commissioner Waldo, Street Cleaning Commissioner Edwards, and Postmaster Edward M. Morgan.

The arrangements for the parade are in charge of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and thousands of its members, representing the orders in New York County and vicinity, will be in line. Following the Sixty-ninth Regiment will come St. Peter's Cadet Corps of New Brighton, under the command of Mgr. Cassidy; the county officers of Queens County, and 1,000 members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians from Queens. Next will come Grand Marshal Michael J. Connaughton, his aids, Eugene J. Flood, William Manning, Francis J. Hartin, and six division chaplains on horseback. The Ancient Order of Hibernians of New York County, headed by the Catholic Protectory Band, will follow. Representatives of fifty-two Irish organizations of the county will then pass by in review. The parade will end at the Harlem River Park at Second Avenue and 127th Street, where there will be a home rule celebration, picnic, and ball.

The celebrations in the evening will include many dinners. The Society of Ireland's American Friends will hold its eighth annual dinner at the Hotel Astor, and Gov. Sulzer will respond to the toast, "The Irish and the State." Other speakers will be Frank W. Smith, the President; Judge Cornelius F. Collins, and President John Purroy Mitchel of the Aldermen, whose topic will be, "Ireland's Sons as Leaders in Politics." Gov. Sulzer will also speak on "The State of New York," at the sixty-fourth annual dinner of the St. Patrick's Society at the Waldorf-Astoria. William C. Redfield, the new Secretary of Commerce, will speak there on "The United States."

Then there will be an annual review and reception of the First Regiment of Irish Volunteers at 9 o'clock at Terrace Garden, Fifty-eighth Street, near Lexington Avenue. Among the officers attending will be Col. Charles J. Crowley, Majors Thomas J. Nowlan, E. J. Flood, M. J. McCarthy, Pierce Moore, and Capt. Montgomery. Two bands will supply music for the dancing which will follow.

The Cork Men's Mutual Aid Society will hold a reception and ball in Manhattan Casino, Eighth Avenue and 155th Street, and the Second Regiment of Irish Volunteers will hold its review in Brooklyn. The Daughters of Erin will celebrate the day at the Palm Garden, one feature of the affair being the appearance of thirty-two young women in costumes representing different counties in Ireland. The Emerald Society of Northern New York will hold its annual dinner at Louis Martin's.

At the Harlem River Park, where the night festival will follow the disbanding of the parade, a great electric sign has been installed bearing these words in green lights: "Home Rule Night in American; Welcome to all Lovers of Ireland." Two Gaelic dancing classes of the County Monaghan Association will give an exhibition of Irish dancing in costume, and the Carolan brothers will show how the reels and jigs are danced.

Brooklyn Irishmen will have a parade in which the Ancient Order of Hibernians, the Irish Volunteers, Clan-na-Gael, United Irish League, United Irish-American Societies, and other bodies will take part. It is expected that more than 10,000 men will be in line. The procession will start from Bedford and Division Avenues and proceed to Borough Hall, where public officials will review it.

PARADE IN JERSEY CITY.

Gov. Fielder Reviews Marchers in St. Patrick Day Pageant.

St. Patrick's Day was commemorated yesterday afternoon in Jersey City by a parade of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of Hudson County and other Irish organizations. Twelve thousand men were in line.

The parade formed at Jersey Avenue and Eighth Street under Marshal Charles P. Olwell and his aids, J. J. Sullivan and J. J. Lynch, in this order: Irish Volunteers, including companies from New York City, Knights of Columbus Councils of Hudson County, State officers of the A. O. H. of New Jersey; Hudson County officers of the A. O. H.; visiting delegations from Essex and Bergen; A. O. H. divisions of Hudson County; invited guests in carriages, and Holy Name societies.

Gov. James F. Fielder and city officials reviewed the parade from a grandstand in Grove Street in front of the City Hall.

BIG PARCEL POST GAIN.

February Total 50,000,000 Packages —40 Per Cent. Over January.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Parcel post business last month was almost 40 per cent. greater than in January, as shown by reports to Postmaster General Burleson. In February, 50,000,000 packages were handled, an increase of 10,000,000 over the previous month; but as February was three days shorter than January the real gain in the business was almost 40 per cent.

As in January, the three cities doing the largest parcel post business in February were Chicago, New York, and Boston, in the order named. Chicago sent and received 5,167,000 packages, New York, 4,102,000, and Boston, 1,326,000. Cleveland moved from sixth place in January to fourth in February, while Philadelphia dropped from fourth to sixth. St. Louis remained fifth. Each of the six places named handled more than 1,000,000 packages in February. Other cities in order of business follow:

Jersey City, Brooklyn, Detroit, Cincinnati, Baltimore, Nashville, Kansas City, Mo.; Buffalo, San Francisco, Pittsburgh, and Minneapolis.

GABY'S MOTHER ARRIVES.

Dancer Hears That ex-King Manuel Is Coming to America.

Mme. Almazaire Carie, mother of the French dancer, Gaby Deslys, arrived yesterday on the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria from Paris and was met at the pier by her daughter, who embraced her frantically.

When a reporter asked the dancer if she had been informed that Manuel, the exiled King of Portugal, was traveling incog. on the George Washington, arriving to-day, Gaby Deslys threw her arms again around her mother's neck, exclaiming: "Maman, maman, c'est lui qui vient."

"Soit tranquille, ma fille," responded her parent, patting her heaving shoulders, "j'y suis, j'y reste."

This appeared to comfort the dancer, and she went with her mother to see about the baggage. It is the first visit of Mme. Almazaire Carie to America.

Everybody connected with the Winter Garden at the pier appeared to know that Manuel was coming on the George Washington, disguised as a traveler for a Pilsen brewery, it was said.

GOLFERS LEASE HOME OF BEVERLY ROBINSON

Will Be Part of the New House of the Midland Club in East Williston, L. I.

FINE LINKS TO BE LAID OUT

Work to be Started Soon on Land Obtained from Motor Parkway and William Titus Farm.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST WILLISTON, L. I., March 16.—A report has been current for more than a month to the effect that plans were under way to take over the house here occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Robinson, members of the Meadow Brook contingent, for use as a golf clubhouse for the new Long Island golf course. It has now been learned that the Robinson house is to form the nucleus for a new home of the Midland Golf Club, an organization in existence for over fifteen years, with 102 acres of surrounding property.

Through Donald McKellar, a well-known amateur golfer, sixty-two acres belonging to the Long Island Motor Parkway, together with the Robinson house and an adjoining forty acres of the William Titus farm, has been leased for a period of twenty years with an option to purchase. Work is to begin in a short time on the course, and will be superintended by Mr. McKellar.

The first course of the Midland Golf Club, an organization then made up of local devotees of the game in and about Garden City and Hempstead, was laid out south of Garden City, on Franklin Street, across the road from the present plant of Doubleday, Page & Co. When the Salisbury links were built near the Cathedral some five years ago the Midland Golf Club people moved over there. The club grew in numbers, and, owing to the fact that the Salisbury links was a public course, began to find themselves crowded. The new move of the Midland people is said to be a natural outcome of conditions at the Salisbury links. Not only were the members crowded, but they found it impossible to offer reciprocal courtesies to other clubs.

It is said that when they asked permission for a day or two to be set aside for their exclusive use of the Salisbury course for invitation tournaments to other clubs the request was refused. This resulted in the President, R. W. Turner, looking elsewhere for grounds where a permanent country club could be established. The ground in this section is said to be admirably suited for a course. While that at Garden City is considered admirable, the country near East Williston begins to roll as it stretches northward toward the Wheatley Hills. The consequence is that the ground here tosses up naturally into pretty knolls suitable for bunkers, and from constant cultivation in potatoes, corn, and other farm produce is fertile and will lend itself well to the construction of the putting greens. Actual play will begin in the Spring of 1914, if not this Autumn.

The house is a three-story white building on East Williston Avenue. It will be entirely overhauled and rebuilt on the lines of an attractive country club. It is situated near the home of Norman de R. Whitehouse and Robert Bacon. On account of the central locality, in the the heart of the Wheatley Hill section, it is expected that the club will prove a welcome innovation to the men with country homes in that vicinity who like to play golf. They are now obliged to go to Glen Cove or play on the Salisbury public course unless they happen to be among the lucky ones not on the mile-long waiting list of the Garden City Club.

For various business reasons a separate Holding Committee has been formed to take over the lease. Among those who are said to be interested in furthering the success of the new course are William K. Vanderbilt, William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Harry Payne Whitney, and several other prominent residents of Nassau County.

TO STOP WAGON THEFTS.

Merchants' Association Committee to Devise Plan to Protect Merchandise.

Having found that the police are unable to supply protection against thefts from business wagons, the Merchants' Association has referred the many complaints received of these depredations to a committee for investigation. The increase in this form of theft is attributed by the merchants to the abolition of the precinct detectives.

"The difficulty seems to be that the trucks are not sufficiently guarded," says an official of the association. "Merchants sending out trucks for delivery or shipment are advised to send a watcher or helper with them in addition to the driver, so that the vehicles and contents will always be guarded.

"The police precinct commanders formerly had detectives who were assigned to districts where thefts of merchandise were likely to occur. These detectives watched men whom they knew to be thieves, and, as they were also known to the thieves, their presence had a deterrent effect. The precinct commanders no longer have such detectives at their disposal."

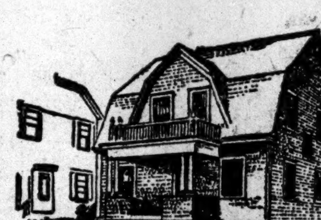
AMERICAN RADIATORS & IDEAL BOILERS

To peacefully occupy, to profitably rent or sell a home the heating must promise sure comfort and economy. Many a well-built, well-lighted, well-located house to which tenants have rapidly said good-bye only needs to "put on airs"—warm, radiant airs from an IDEAL Boiler and AMERICAN Radiators—to have and to hold contented tenants or to find a quick purchaser.



A No. 22 IDEAL Boiler and 240 sq. feet of 38-inch AMERICAN Radiators, costing the owner $135, were used to heat this cottage. At this price the goods can be bought of any reputable, competent Fitter. This did not include costs of labor, pipe, valves, freight, etc., which are extra and vary according to climatic and other conditions.

Through our factories in United States, Canada, England, France, Germany, Italy and Austria we are constantly gathering and incorporating into IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators the best ideas and improvements in heat-making ability, fuel economy and automatic temperature regulation.

And these are offered at prices no greater than asked for inferior apparatus, as our factories are so located that they save heavily in freight on raw materials and on finished outfits from factory to user.

IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators are made in sections which pass through any doorway—can therefore be quickly put into old schools, churches, stores, hotels, asylums, town buildings, banks, theaters, libraries, etc., at any season of the year.

If ready to say "good-bye" to the old-time heating ways (or will soon build) you should have book (free): "Ideal Heating." Tells big heating facts you ought to know.

EIGHT MASTERPIECES FOR AN EASTER GIFT

Stories of the Morgan Pictures That Times Readers Will Receive Next Sunday.

FACSIMILES OF THE BEST ART

Raphael's Priceless Madonna—Masterpiece by a Spanish Unknown—Turner's Venice and Others.

The eight masterpieces from the collection of J. Pierpont Morgan, which, in full page, full-color reproductions, will appear next Sunday as part of the Easter number of THE SUNDAY TIMES, are part of the art history of four countries—Italy, Spain, France, and England. They represent four centuries in the history of painting in Europe. Chronologically, they range from the famous altar piece of Raphael, the Colonna Madonna, which he painted for the nuns of Sant' Antonio of Padua in Perugia in 1504 and 1505, to Turner's brilliant Venetian scene, which was first exhibited in 1841. In subject, they range from the strange, stolid, nameless child painted by some Spanish artist, no one now knows just when, to the portrait of the lovely Lady Mansfield, which Raeburn painted in the second decade of the last century.

The eight pictures, which have been reproduced by courtesy of Mr. Morgan and the Metropolitan Museum of Art, are these:

"La Devideuse," by Greuze.
"Mademoiselle Helvetius," by Drouais.
"Portrait of a Child," by unknown Spanish painter.
"Virgin and Child Enthroned with Saints," by Raphael.
"Lady Maitland," by Raeburn.
"The Depositing of Giovanni Bellini's Three Pictures in the Church of the Redentore, Venice," by Turner.
"Lady Betty Delme," by Reynolds.
"Miss Farren," by Sir Thomas Lawrence.

Every one of these eight is famous. Every one is not only a part of the art history of Europe, but part of the written art history. Each has its story.

Stories of the Pictures.

The first is "La Devideuse," by Jean Baptiste Greuze, which made its first appearance at the salon of 1759. It is the three-quarter length portrait of a fair-haired peasant girl, her dress of some blue and white striped material, offset by a white neckerchief and a mob-cap with its band of blue. She is winding a ball of coarse cotton or wool, and with the loose threads a kitten is playing.

This picture passed through a long series of collections before it was purchased by Mr. Morgan. It seems that the Marquis de Bandol owned it, and then, doubtless by purchase, it became the property of La Live de Jully, "introducteur des ambassadeurs," who was the intimate friend of all the artists of his day. At all events, it was in his collection when it was sold in the Spring of 1770, and it brought the then very handsome sum of 950 livres Yet two years later, when it was sold in the collection of the Duc de Choiseuil, it brought 1,600 livres, and the price has been mounting with each change of hands since then.

That same Salon of 1759 which saw the first exhibition of the Greuze picture saw also a painting by Francois Hubert Drouais, "Premier Peintre au Roy," the Court painter for Louis XV. He called it "Une Jeune Fille Tenant des Raisins," and there is very little reason to doubt that this was the same portrait which is now in the Morgan collection under the title "Mademoiselle Helvetius," the demure little lady of 5 or 6 who looks out from beneath her tip-tilted hat and holds in the folds of her white dress the grapes which connect it with the Drouais painting of the 1759 Salon. The subject of this portrait was the little Elisabeth who afterward married Alexander Francois Comte de Mun, and the portrait to-day is listed as from the collection of the Marquis de Mun, her great-grandson, who is the present head of the family.

Elisabeth was the elder daughter of Claude Adrien Helevtius, the celebrated French philosopher and writer. History tells less of her mother, who was Anne Catherine, Countess de Ligneville d'Aubricourt. She was one of the few great ladies of the period who passed unscathed through the horrors of the French Revolution, and she was the leader of society at Auteuil.

Of the single Spanish mastpiece in this selection of eight, there is less to tell than of any of the other seven, for of its painter and its time, there is no certainty. There appears to be a date in the lower right-hand side, but this is indistinct—so indistinct tnat it might be either 1546 or 1646. It is a whole length portrait of a child of two or three years, chubby, serious, weighted down by the extraordinary costume of its generation. The dress is long and patterned in gold and brown, with an accordian pleated front. In the left hand the child is clutching a two-handled Spanish water bottle, and in the right two flowers, one a single red rose. The artist apparently portrayed the child on the point of putting the flowers in water.

The Priceless Raphael.

Then comes the wonderful altar-piece by Raffaello Sanzio, whom we know as Raphael—the classic sixteenth century painting which shows the Virgin seated upon a high, richly adorned and canopied throne. She holds the Christ Child in her lap and He is blessing the little St. John, who stands close by in an attitude of adoration. St. Catherine and St. Rosalia are there and St. Peter and St. Paul.

This masterpiece was painted by Raphael for the nuns in Perugia, but the familiar reference to it as the Colonna Madonna or the Ripalda Madonna speak of its later wanderings before it landed in the collection of Mr. Morgan. For more than 100 years it was kept and cherished by the good nuns, but finally, in 1677, they obtained permission to sell it, that they might pay their debts. It brought 2,000 scudi. To-day it is priceless. It passed through many hands before it became the property of the Kings of the Two Sicilies and hung in the bedroom of the royal palace at Naples. It was undisturbed until revolutions came, and even then King Francis would not yield it up, but took it with him to the fortress of Gaeta, and when that fell, in 1861, he carried it off to Spain with him. It was then that he became inclined to part with it, and word was carried to Disraeli in London that it could be bought.

"Get it," Disraeli said, with something of the same determination which made Suez English. They told him that a terrific price would be asked for it.

"Get the picture," was Disraeli's only comment, and so Baron Rothschild was intrusted with the delicate task of getting it for England. But meanwhile France had bestirred herself. The Empress Eugenie wanted it in the Louvre. The price asked was 1,000,000f., and the journals all insisted that it be bought, as, doubtless, it would have been had not the Franco-Prussian war ended all chances, and the picture was retained by the banished ruler of the Sicilies until 1894. It was in 1901 that Mr. Morgan came into possession of the altar piece.

There is a wonderful Irish beauty in the Raeburn portrait of Catherine, Lady Maitland, a beauty that many Englishmen admired and that won the admiration of the critical Napoleon. She was the daughter of Daniel Connor of Ballybricken, County of Cork, and she was married to Sir Frederick Lewis Maitland, who was the Captain of the Bellerophon, aboard which Bonaparte was held. It was another portrait of her, a miniature, which he saw on the ship, and which he admired so much. But when he saw Lady Maitland, he chafed because Sir Frederick would not let her come aboard, exclaiming that she was even more beautiful than the portrait.

Raeburn painted his portrait of Lady Maitland in 1817. It shows her seated beneath a tree with the landscape setting off the white gown and the slate colored shawl.

Turner's Venice.

The only one of the eight paintings to be reproduced in the Easter number of the Sunday TIMES that is neither a portrait nor a group like the Raphael Madonna, is the Turner picture, "The Depositing of Giovanni Bellini's Three Pictures in the Church of the Redentore, Venice." This is a brilliant Venetian painting, with red predominant in the many small figures and green for the water of the canal. It is a view along the Canal of the Giudecca, toward San Giorgio; to the right Redentore; in the middle the State barge, gay with flags and flowers, and surrounded by gondolas in which some men are supporting the pictures. The three pictures which inspired Turner are still in the sacristy of Chiesa del Redentore, and while critics join in the praise of Turner's painting, they quarrel vigorously with his attribution of the three to Bellini. Also, the public inauguration was probably imaginary, as history does not tell of any such ceremonial "hanging." It was exhibited at the Royal Academy in 1841.

The Reynolds portrait, that of Lady Betty Delme, is the portrait of the "Beauty of the Court of Queen Charlotte." She was the Lady Elizabeth Howard, daughter of the Earl of Carlisle. Reynolds painted it in 1777, and the price they paid him was £300. With her are two children. It was formerly usual to describe them as boy and girl, but more recently they have been set down as the two eldest sons of Peter Delme and Lady Betty. The only daughter was not born until some years after the portrait was painted. This portrait remained at Cams, near Fareham, until 1894, when it was sold at Christie's by order of Henry Delme.

The Beautiful Miss Farren.

Of all these portraits, none is more charming than the Lawrence portrait of Elizabeth Farren, and there is a story in it because it made that young, struggling painter, Tom Lawrence, who became afterward President of the Royal Academy. Miss Farren became the Countess of Derby, but when she posed for young Lawrence, she was just the most popular actress in England, and when it was exhibited, every one gathered before it not only for the obvious genius which proclaimed the young painter's right to rank with Reynolds, but because they all knew Miss Farren, and found a fascination in this radiant portrait of her.

"It is completely Elizabeth Farren—arch, careless spirited, elegant, and engaging," wrote the critic of The Public Advertiser.

Miss Farren was a strolling player, who went on the stage shortly after she learned to walk. Her first London appearance was at the Haymarket in 1777, when she played the part of Kate Hardcastle in the Goldsmith comedy—the same part that Annie Russell played this Winter in Thirty-ninth Street. She was then a girl in her teens, and it was not long before she was established as a London favorite, so that when Mrs. Abington retired from the Drury Lane it was Elizabeth Farren who played the "fine ladies" on that historic stage.

She retired in 1797, and within a few weeks married Edward, the twelfth Earl of Derby. But even when she posed for Lawrence, which was in 1790, the Earl was attentive, and the portrait was designed for him. He did eventually purchase it in 1792, but by that time the price had gone up. Lawrence's portrait of Miss Farren made him over night the most fashionable painter in London, and the spirited Miss Farren became vastly exasperated by his new disposition to raise his price for her portrait. It was finally sold for a hundred guineas.

The portrait passed into the family of the Earl of Wilton by the marriage of the daughter of the Earl of Derby, and the picture of the actress in what was then called a "white John" cloak remained a cherished Wilton possession until 1882.

WAR SCHOOLS FOR GUARD.

All Branches of State Forces to Have Special Instruction.

New systems of training officers and men of the New York National Guard have just been determined upon by Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan, commanding. The instruction to be imparted covers every important detail for field service. It has been determined to establish a school of application for officers in each arm of the service. A school for the infantry will begin at Peekskill on May 31, and will continue for three weeks. It will accommodate 150 officers in three weekly periods of fifty officers each. The student officers will work with a provisional company of infantry at war strength. It is planned to form this company from among enlisted men of the seven New York City regiments who will volunteer for such service. An officer will be detailed to the company to prepare the command in matters of clothing and equipment. Another officer will have charge of the preparation of tentage and field equipment. Another instructor will specialize in all that relates to the company wagons, mules, harness, and the driving, care, feeding and grooming of the animals. Two graduate cooks from the Army Cooking School will be assigned to the company, and a surgeon instructor will be assigned to the work of camp sanitation and personal hygiene. Student officers will be given an opportunity to act as Captains and Lieutenants of this company during each period.

The major portion of the training will be in combat and field firing exercises, and the hills and valley north of Peekskill will be entrenched in advance of the opening of the school, and the trenches actually occupied by dummy targets controlled from nearby shelters.

The school for field artillery will involve a march, as well as field firing.

The officers of the cavalry are to receive their training in connection with a provisional troop of cavalry at war strength and a machine gun section.

CITY'S HEAT AND LIGHT.

Borough President McAneny Making an Investigation of Cost.

Borough President McAneny is conducting an experiment to determine whether it will be more economical for the city to maintain a municipal plant to furnish heat and light for public buildings than to purchase them from private companies.

The buildings covered by the test are the Hall of Records, the City Hall, the County Court and the City Court. Formerly the City Court had an inefficient independent heating plant. The County Court and the City Hall were heated by steam produced by a steam supply company. All three buildings were lighted by electricity purchased from the Edison Company.

The Hall of Records is equipped with a modern heating system and with electric generators. The consulting engineers in the Borough President's office informed him that the capacity of the plant was far in excess of the requirements of the one building, and that it could supply sufficient heat and light not only for the Hall of Records but for the three buildings in City Hall Park—the City Hall, the County and the City Courts. Electrical connection has been established with these buildings.

The preliminary studies upon which the change was based were made by the Bureau of Municipal Research. It supplied the Borough President with information regarding the experience of owners of private buildings operating heating and lighting plants, and it undertook a comprehensive investigation of the cost of operation of steam and electrical plants in public and private buildings throughout the city.

The bureau was unable to reach a final conclusion regarding the probable economy of extending the Hall of Records lighting service to the buildings in City Hall Park, and it was decided therefore that the question should be settled by test, to be conducted by a board of supervising engineers made up of E. P. Goodrich, consulting engineer, and John C. Wolfe, assistant engineer of the Borough President's office; George F. Sever, consulting engineer of the Water Department; E. F. Tweedy and R. P. Bolton of the New York Edison Company, and Prof. Charles E. Lucke of Columbia University and Prof. R. C. Carpenter of Cornell University, representing the Bureau of Municipal Research.

Prof. Herman Diederichs of Cornell University is the engineer in direct charge. A report is expected about the end of the present year.

The Inviting Chalmers "Thirty-Six"

Inviting because it simply appears good and right. Some houses are that way—the ones you know are right, without knowing just why.

The wide door invites you to step in, the deep cushions to sit down, the big steering wheel to drive.

Just keep your seat—don't get out in the street again. The control of this car is centered on the cowled dash.

Push a button and the Chalmers cranks itself. Chalmers air pressure starter does it—best starter made because simplest, most economical, quickest acting, most reliable under all conditions.

Chalmers was the first car to have a dependable starter. Chalmers "Thirty-Six" gave a trade name to the year 1912. That year goes down in automobile history as "Self-Starter year." Chalmers cars set fashions.

Just move a lever and the carburetor is adjusted.

Turn a switch and the electric lights are on.

The lever and pedals and wheel are just where you want them. In fact, all the "controls" of the Chalmers are right to your hand—most of them artistically grouped on the stylishly cowled dash.

And, by the way, that's another big automobile improvement the Chalmers had first—the cowled dash. Compare this one feature with the same on other cars—see if the Chalmers isn't better done.

Rims are demountable. Tires may be inflated from the compressed air tank—no pumping. Others ask you to pay extra for this feature.

In view of all these good points, a Chalmers "Thirty-Six" is particularly inviting because of its price—only $1950 (f. o. b. Detroit) for a fully-equipped up-to-the-minute motor car of A-1 goodness. Always on view at our showrooms.

LEDERLE ASKS AID IN SPRING CLEAN-UP

He Wants to Do It Peacefully, but Will Use Force if It's Needed.

RIGHT TO ENTER HOUSES

Commissioner Points Out Department Authority, but Will Try Co-operation Plan First.

Commissioner Lederle of the Department of Health told all inquirers at his office yesterday that this municipality was to have a thorough cleaning in his "clean-up" campaign, and if necessary force would be used to accomplish it. While the Department of Health possesses the power to enter houses and compel people to clean their own premises he does not want to use extreme measures. He will start first a campaign of education so that people may see the value of the work for a clean city and join willingly in it. But the Commissioner is not going to permit any interference by those who might attempt it.

"Don't let the public make any mistake," he said. "I am going to clean up New York City, whether I am supported or not. It is perfectly true that the Department of Health has the executive authority to compel people to clean up. We can go into any private residence which we suspect of being unsanitary and force the residents to clean it out. But if the private societies will co-operate in educating the people beforehand, and the people in turn will co-operate, we can accomplish this whole clean-up in one month of systematic work. If we have to resort to executive orders it will take a year.

"We are anxious not only to clean up, but to put the people in such a frame of mind that they will keep clean.

The Commissioner has received promises of co-operation from many private sources. In addition seven of the city departments will assist. Inspectors acting under orders of the Department of Health have been investigating conditions for a week, and according to their reports they found some things worse than imagined, says Commissioner Lederle.

"We are now figuring on the amount of refuse to be removed and the cost of removal, and expect to have our estimates completed Tuesday morning," he said. "The next move will be to place the estimates before the Board of Aldermen and the Board of Estimate and ask for the money to do the work. I think our invesigations thus far have brought out data that will convince them that it will be money well spent.

"Last Summer when the 'clean-up' was entirely a private organization affair, the workers of the various organizations, like the Boy Scouts and the different boys' clubs, did some of the actual cleaning. The social workers everywhere persuaded the householders and janitors so far as possible to clean out their own areaways and throw the stuff into the streets. Consequently some of the representatives of private organizations are under the impression that we want them to do the same thing this year. We do not. The physical work of cleaning out the material from the premises will be done by a special force from the Department of Street Cleaning.

"What we want citizens and private organizations to do is conduct a campaign of education. We are preparing literature explaining our movement along every line and asking the different organizations to distribute it. Wherever possible we want visiting nurses and social workers to accompany the distribution with a verbal explanation of the need of a special clean-up."

It is suggested by the Commissioner that the organizations supplement their work by holding meetings and giving lectures on the subject, and if convenient to make use of lantern slides or moving pictures.

The Department of Health also wants the co-operation of persons who have been combating the evils of the smoke and cinders nuisances and the conduct of offensive establishments in residential neighborhoods.

"We can clean streets, but what good will it do if the residents begin to throw all sorts of stuff on the streets as soon as the cleaners have passed?" asked the Commissioner. "The same is true in the matter of filling vacant lots with rubbish and dumping waste matter into areaways and airshafts."

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has offered the use of 1,500 agents to distribute literature for the department, and the Merchants' Association has promised to Commissioner Lederle the assistance of its members in every possible way. A borough committee is being organized by the people of Brooklyn, of which Borough President Steers will be Chairman and Dr. James Jenkins, Jr., of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities Secretary. The organization of the Manhattan committee will be begun to-day.

WILL OUT-CUBE THE CUBISTS.

"Academy of Misapplied Art" to Hold an Exhibition.

A new cult in the art world, called "the Academy of Misapplied Art," among its members such men as John W. Alexander, Kenyon Cox, Charles Vezin, Edwin Blashfield, George Bellows, Karl Bitter and many other painters, sculptors and architects, is going to hold its "first annual varnishing day reception" next Saturday evening from 8:30 to 11 o'clock in the auditorium of the New York Association for the Blinds' new Lighthouse at 111 East Fifty-ninth Street.

According to the invitations, issued immediately after the close of the exhibit of American painters in the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory last Saturday night, the "Academy" will give an "exclusive exhibit of works of the most distinguished American artists of the Cubistic, Post-Impressionist, Futuristic, Neurotic, Psychopathic and Paretic schools." The aim of the followers of misapplied art, according to the Secretary of the committee of painters which is arranging the exhibit, Robert Sewell is to outcube the Cubists and put the Futurists into the middle of the past tense.

Fully 200 paintings will be hung. There will be burlesques on several of the more striking canvases seen in the Sixty-ninth Regiment exhibit, and there will be original works in painting, architecture and sculpture that will go as far in misapplied art as the law allows. Here are some of the artists who will contribute works:

Charles Vezin, D. W. Tryon, Frank A. Bicknell, Kenyon Cox, T. Shields Clarke, Charles C. Curran, Arthur Hoeber, Cullen Yates, Mrs. Rosina Emmett Sherwood, Harry Watrous, Robert Nichols, William Andrew Mackey, C. Campbell Cooper, Ely Harvey, Edwin Blashfield, Taber Sears, George W. Breck, Louis Mora, George Bellows, Francis Jones, Gifford Beal, and J. M. Fosdick.

The sculptors will be represented by Robert Aitken, Karl Bitter, Charles Keck, and Leo Lentelli. Mr. Aitken's prize-winning bust of Herbert Adams, which carried off the lead medal at the recent "Cubist smoker" given by the Architectural League, will head the list of exhibits in this group.

TEACH SWIMMING IN SCHOOLS

Attendance at Class by Both Boys and Girls Required in Pittsburgh.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, March 16.—Swimming has been added to the public school course of study. Every boy and girl will be taught to swim. Attendance at the swimming pools will be required, just as in other classes.

Dr. Watson L. Savage, Director of Athletics, said to-day that the pools would be open to the public every evening, beginning on April 1. Instruction in swimming would be given to adults, he said.

Pittsburgh school children have the reputation of being the best juvenile swimmers in America. Dr. Savage says he will see to it that every child in Pittsburgh is taught to swim.

BOY SCOUTS FOR EUROPE.

Invitation to American Members to Attend the English Encampment.

Sir Robert S. S. Baden-Powell, Chief Scout of the British Boy Scouts, has sent an invitation to the Boy Scouts of America to attend the third National rally of the Boy Scouts of Great Britain in Birmingham, England, from July 2 to 9, next. It is likely that several troops of scouts will go from this country.

The leaders of the scout movement have asked that all scouts who are planning to go to Europe this Summer will try to arrange their dates to be in Birmingham at the time of the rally. Scoutmasters should write to James E. West, Chief Scout Executive, in New York.

The rally will first be a demonstration of activities of scouts in honor of King George. Second will come the display of the activities of the sea scouts. The third part will be a scoutcraft exhibition. The scouts will camp out in Perry Hall Park. There will be a standing camp for scoutmasters and other helpers. There will be a general camp for scoutmasters and scouts who come to the rally. Tents, blankets, ground sheets and the like will be provided free, and food will be furnished at the lowest possible price.

TO DISCUSS WIDOW PENSIONS

Meeting Called at the Church of the Messiah to Consider Levy Bill.

A public meeting for the discussion of widows' pensions will be held in the church house of the Church of the Messiah on Friday evening, March 21, at 8:15 o'clock. An act to amend the New York City Charter in relation to the relief of dependent widows with young children has been introduced in the Assembly by Aaron J. Levy, and referred to the Committee on Affairs of Cities. This meeting was called by the Messiah Social Service League at the request of the Warren Goddard Woman's Club, an organization of forty-four women, ten of whom are widows with two or more children. Under the proposed law they might receive State aid administered by a Board of Trustees. John Haynes Holmes will preside and Dr. John L. Elliott, Mrs. William Einstein, W. Frank Persons, Henry Bruere, and others will contribute to the discussion.

Nine States now have general pension laws. Only in Oklahoma and St. Louis, Mo., are the pensions confined to widows, and their laws are similar in scope to the law proposed for New York. Its purpose is to extend financial assistance to widows in order to enable them to maintain their own children in their own homes, instead of separating the family by putting the children in institutions.

CHILDE HASSAM

Said, upon seeing an advance copy of this Supplement:

"Remarkable reproductions, remarkably well done!

"That reproduction of the Raphael, for example," Mr. Hassam said, pointing to the "Virgin and Child Enthroned with Saints," on the first page of the Supplement, "interests me just as much as the original. I can get everything out of this reproduction that I could out of the original."

It should be understood by all that The Times is publishing a strictly limited number of these magnificent supplements, which are very expensive, costing far more than the price received for them. They will not be reprinted, and consequently those persons only who make sure of their next Sunday's Times in advance, will have any chance to secure them. The supplement far exceeds The Times's celebrated Easter feature of last year, "The Holy Grail."

A WORD OF WARNING TO THOSE NOT YET EVERY-DAY READERS OF THE TIMES.

TESREAU BEGINS THE SEASON RIGHT

Big Pitcher Fans Nine Batsmen, and Giants Win, 4 to 2.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 16.—In this afternoon's battle with the San Antonio team, who were beaten by the Giants' youngsters 10 to 0 yesterday, the Giant regulars did not enjoy their customary snap with Texas League teams. They won by a score of 4 to 2, and would have had more runs had not their base running been clogged up several times.

In trying base running feats, such as the double steal, the New York runners did not show their usual discernment and promptness to act, and three of them were smothered at the plate much to the delight of the local rooters, but not at all to the pleasure of McGraw. Shafer should have had a run in the first inning, but was slow in casting loose from third on a throw down to second by the catcher, and the fast Californian was nipped at the plate by the return throw.

The pitching the Giants faced was rather the best they have met yet, but though their hitting was desultory, they should have tallied oftener. The first pitcher they tackled was Davenport, an exceedingly lengthy youth, who stands 6 feet 4 as far up as he has been measured and may be several inches beyond that. He was succeeded by Palm, who held the National League champions to one hit in three innings.

Jeff Tesreau performed the whole nine innings for the Giants. The weather was much warmer than yesterday's, and the big fellow stood the work without being in the least distressed. He twirled a strong game. Three doubles and a triple were made off him in the seventh and eighth innings, when the Broncos did their only scoring, but in each case there were two out when Jeff was bumped, and he easily disposed of the third man by increasing his steam. He held the local men in the hollow of his capacious hand until the Giants had acquired a lead and never was in danger of letting the game get away from him.

Although the Giants did not display much dash, playing in a plodding sort of fashion, they fielded cleanly except in the throw by Shafer. Snodgrass got around with a run in the first inning on a walk, a steal, and a safe thump by Doyle. Merkle counted in the second on a single, a steal, and a safe whack by Herzog. Singles by Doyle and Murray in the sixth, Doyle's steal, Merkle's demise at first, and Herzog's sacrifice fly produced two runs. Tesreau fanned nine men with his anointed fling.

Martin Beck has notified Manager McGraw that he has released Marquard from his vaudeville bookings after March 16, and now there is naught to stand in the way of the Rube's reporting at Houston the latter part of this week. The Giants, first and second squads, will foregather in Marlin again to-morrow, and their stay there will end this week. The score:

STRONG IN SUBSTITUTES.

Manager Chance Has Plenty of Reserve Material in Case of Injuries.

Special Correspondence THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 14.—Frank Chance's New York Americans are not so badly off as most tail-end major league clubs. Their prospects are much brighter than they were in 1909, the Spring that George Stallings assumed command. Then the team had practically no raw material with which to bolster up the positions of its fast fading stars. Stallings showed wonderful results because he was fortunate enough to make several advantageous trades, one of which landed the hard hitting Laporte and another of which brought Birdie Cree and Warhop to his camp.

Stallings showed far less in the Spring training than Chance has shown, and had more to contend with in the matter of hard luck. Chase was stricken with smallpox that season, and much of the benefits of conditioning was scared completely out of the men. He plugged along in the face of adversity with such brave good will that his team was kept out of the first division only by a shade, and was among the first four almost to the very last day. Stallings, who never displayed as much major league managerial class as the Peerless Leader, did wonders with a sadly disorganized club and what appeared an ordinary lot of recruits simply because he was able to get out of his men the very most that was in them. In other words, he organized his material properly.

Chance should better Stallings's record, for he has a great deal more to start with. He has a wonderful array of pitching material, the great part of it thorouoghly seasoned. He has able catching, about as fine an outfield as can be found anywhere, and an infield which should develop great power before the season is far under way. The chief charm of his strength lies in numbers. None of his young men belong in the "lemon" class. Several may not stick, but it will be because of the fact that the Peerless Leader believes in a light roster. Whoever may go will be placed somewhere within very easy recall.

Chance's chief worry, when he had an opportunity to size up his athletes was the infield. His own return to old-time form solved the first great problem. Chance as a bench leader would be more or less an experiment, especially when in command of a collection of players and in a league of which he knew practically little. Chance as a playing manager is another proposition, and a far brighter one. His presence in the thick of the fight means more by far than his personal playing ability. With Chance in line, the infield situation practically solves itself. His candidates are of such flattering stamp that any number of effective combinations might be arranged, all with the effect of major league proficiency.

New York is strong in substitutes. Chance need have no worries about being laid out as he had when in command of the Cubs. On a moment's notice Hal Chase could go back to the first sack and guard that territory to perfection. With Chance in the game Chase would not be a vital loss, because Claude Derrick looks to be a far better second baseman than any man who has held down the position for the Highlanders since Jimmy Williams was in his prime. Either Young or Midkiff can play the keystone, and play it as well as the present positions they cover. There are far worse shortstops than Jack Martin. Priest is a third baseman, not the best in the big league, but capable of more than passing substitute ability. Hartzell could fortify any infield or outfield position save first base, where Barry might do valiant service in a pinch, provided both Chance and Chase should happen to be laid up at the same time.

Roth Runs in Record Time.

The winners of the eight cross-country runs which have been held by the Mohawk A. C. during the last winter met in the final run over the club's five-mile course yesterday. The winner was J. Ott, who had a liberal handicap and whose actual time was 29 minutes.

J. Roth, running from scratch, established a new record for the course, covering the distance in 26.16, which is 2.12 minutes better than the old mark. The runners finished as follows: J. Ott, T. O'Toole, W. Mallory, J. Roth, H. Nye, J. Jibert, A. J. Savage, H. Biddle. J. Ott, the winner, was awarded the J. P. Welsh Cup.

ONE HIT OFF GOULAIT.

Giant Second Team Has Easy Time Beating Austin, 9 to 0.

Special to The New York Times.

AUSTIN, Texas, March 16.—The New York Giants' second team defeated the Austin Senators of the Texas League this afternoon by a score of 9 to 0. Splendid weather and the individual attractions on the two teams drew a large crowd.

Interest centred on Thorpe, the world's champion athlete, who played centre for the Giants. He gave a good account of himself in the game and was warmly applauded by the spectators. The feature of the game was the pitching of Goulait of the Giants, who twirled for the visitors during the first five innings. Seven out of the sixteen Austin batsmen who faced him struck out. Only one hit was made off him. This was by George Smith in the sixth inning. The score follows:

SUPERBAS MAROONED.

Savannah River Overflows and Floods Augusta Baseball Park.

Special to The New York Times.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 16.—After visiting Warren Park this morning, and finding it in fairly good condition, Manager Dahlen went out again this afternoon and found the entire field covered with water from the Savannah River, which overflowed many parts of the city during the last twenty-four hours. It will be three days, and possibly more, before practice can be resumed. In the meantime the Superbas will have to do their work either in the gymnasium of the Young Men's Christian Association or on one of the city's parks.

To-night the river is nearly eighteen feet above normal, and opposite the players' hotel the water is flowing. One block and a half from the hotel on Broad Street negroes have been moving about in flat bottomed boats all day, ferrying the occupants to and from their homes, and removing their household goods. Business places on both sides of the hotel have heaped bags of cement in front of their places to keep the water out. This afternoon the river reached its highest point, and remained stationary until 7 o'clock.

CRANE LOSES IN CANADA.

American Racquet Player Defeated in Title Match by Greenshields.

MONTREAL, March 16.—E. Greenshields of this city to-day received many congratulations on his defeat yesterday of Joshua Crane of Boston and winning the Canadian championship at racquets. Greenshields won in three straight sets, 15—12, 15—8, and 15—4, in a contest that was productive throughout of brilliant plays.

The new champion is comparatively a newcomer, but he played with the nerve and assurance of a veteran. He showed great improvement from his recent experience as runner-up in the American championship, taking advantage of his opponent's weakness at all times. His serving was exceptionally brilliant, while that of his more experienced opponent gave him little or no trouble.

ENGLAND'S STAR ATHLETE.

H. S. O. Ashington of Cambridge Makes Wonderful All-Around Record.

The really remarkable all-around athletic ability displayed by H. S. O. Ashington of King's College, Cambridge, last Friday, in the annual track and field sports between Oxford and Cambridge at the Queen's Club grounds, West Kensington, London, provoked the most favorable comment among athletes in and about this city. Ashington's wonderful versatility is ample evidence that England is not so badly off as fancied in regard to capable athletic material, and that with proper coaching in the events in which the British have been weak for some years, England will have a grand opportunity to again put herself on the athletic map in the Berlin games in 1916.

The former Harrow schoolboy, whose performances were of a negligible character as far as his public showing was concerned up to last week, when he came into his own, competed in three events—the high hurdles, running broad jump, and half-mile run.

In the running broad jump, in which he contributed the fine leap of 23 feet 5¾ inches, he set a new mark for the world as a jump by an Englishman, as no man of his nationality had ever accomplished such a performance. For the three events he caused to be hung up marks which probably no man in the world to-day can equal in one afternoon, and it is not on record that any man ever made such meritorious records in three events of such a varied nature in one games series. One hundred and twenty yards over the 3 foot 6 inch hurdles in 16 1-5 seconds is a fair performance; 23 feet 5¾ inches at the "running broad" a top-notch leap, but when these are topped off with a half mile in a fifth of a second over 2 minutes it immediately becomes noticeable that a feat has been performed that was probably never before duplicated.

Ashington's broad jumping and hurdling bespeak high-class ability at sprinting and high jumping, and, although nothing is known here of his prowess with the weights or at pole vaulting, his seeming natural ability along the lines he has recently shone at appear to mark him as an all-around man of the highest type, and in all likelihood one who has never been coached.

England has seen men of marvelous all-around ability with Pat Davin, the wonderful Irishman of the early '80s as the peer of them all, but they have not been Englishmen. Davin could jump over 23 feet, leap 6 feet in the high jump, and do close to "evens" for 100 yards, but there is no record of his ever having tried to run a half mile and do 2 minutes.

America has had dozens of all-around men, not a few of whom could do 10 seconds or a bit worse for a hundred yards, beat 16 seconds for the hurdles, and leap over 23 feet in the running broad, but none of them ever assayed half-mile running, and none of them ever did any such work in such events in an all-around competition.

Walter Dohm, the Princeton man who in 1890, at the intercollegiates, won the running broad jump with 22 feet 3½ inches and the half mile in 1:57 1-5, is the only man on record with high-class performances in such events on the same afternoon, and he could not run over high hurdles in a manner which would net him anything like 16 seconds for the route.

Baker Takes Century Road Race.

Bert Baker won the weekly club race of the New York division of the Century Road Club Association yesterday over the club course from the drawbridge on Westchester Creek to Hunter's Island. Despite the fact that the roads were in poor condition for cycling, there was a good turnout of riders, and the winner covered the distance in 14:57. Baker secures five points for the season's club championship. Joe Newman was second, in 14:57 2-5, being defeated by Baker by a few yards after a hard struggle in the final two hundred yards. J. Meyers was third, five yards away from Newman. The remaining point winners were Fred Meier and W. F. Thompson.

Sam Langford Beats Barry.

BRISBANE, Australia, March 16.—Sam Langford, the Boston heavyweight pugilist, to-day defeated Jim Barry of Chicago, in the first round. This is the second time Barry has been beaten by Langford, their last fight occuring at Melbourne in May, 1912, when the men went eleven rounds.

THOUSANDS VISIT NEW BALL PARK

Ebbets Field Fast Nearing Completion—Large Ticket Sales for Early Games.

Ebbets Field, the new home of the Brooklyn baseball team, was thrown open for public inspection yesterday, and a crowd, estimated at between 12,000 and 15,000, took advantage of the opporunity to inspect the stands and park. About mid-afternoon there were about 2,000 people engaged in the tour of inspection at the same time, this being the largest assemblage at any one period during the day. The grounds were opened at 9 o'clock yesterday morning and remained open until 6 o'clock last evening.

Charles Ebbets, Jr., and the McKeever brothers, part owners of the club, acted as the reception committee for the inspection yesterday. Charles H. Ebbets, President of the club, had planned on being in charge, but he became so overworked in looking after the various details of construction that he was advised to take a rest, and he sailed on Saturday for New Orleans. He will return home on March 28. Henry W. Medicus, Treasurer of the club, was another enforced absentee, owing to an operation on Friday night, but it was reported at the hospital yesterday that he was much better and getting along very well.

The grounds will be open for the inspection of the public, and the sale of tickets every day from now until the first game is played. To-day and next Sunday have been set aside as special inspection days, but Secretary Ebbets declared yesterday that visitors would be welcome at all times.

Work has progressed to such an extent that the field appears almost ready for occupancy. Only a few of the chairs are yet to be put in place, and this work will be entirely completed by the end of the present week. The dressing rooms for the players, also the club offices and ticket booths, are ready for use. The work yet to be done consists for the most part of the cement flooring under the stands, and, if necessary, all this could be crowded into a single week.

The handsome rotunda at the main entrance to the field was the subject of general admiration. The ceiling and walls have been finished, and the big chandelier, consisting of twelve bats from which are suspended large globes with the appearance of baseballs, was lighted during the late afternoon. The huge baseball centrepiece of the rotunda floor is also completed, this being made of small white marble blocks and marked with the circular stitching peculiar to baseballs. The ceiling decorations give a sky effect, with stars and clouds.

The club's main office, where tickets are on sale for the early games of the year, was a busy place throughout the day, as many of the visitors took the opportunity to purchase tickets. More than 1,500 tickets for the first game on the new grounds—with the Yankees on April 5—and for the special opening of the National League season with Philadelphia on April 9, were sold during the day. Secretary Ebbets announced late yesterday afternoon that he had disposed of about 6,000 of the 10,000 reserved seats for each of these games. All these seats are in the boxes, and the reserved section of the main stand. The rear section of the main stand and all the seats on the upper stand will be placed on sale the day of the game.

The club is taking all the precautions possible to keep the tickets out of the hands of speculators, as the indications point to a capacity crowd for both days. Persons desiring large numbers of seats are questioned closely, and unless they can satisfy the management as to their responsibility their orders are not filled. A prominent New York speculator made a proposition to one of the club officials during the past week for 1,500 tickets for each game, offering to pay immediately for the entire number and give the club official a sum running into four figures for his work. The speculator explained that he intended to establish a small office adjoining the park and make a handsome clean-up on the 3,000 tickets. The offer was not considered.

The special circulars addresed to various Brooklyn clubs and societies to make early application for reservations have brought an unexpected response. The Brooklyn Lodge of Elks has purchased $1,500 worth of tickets for the games of April 5, 9, 18, and 26. These are the opening game with the Yankees, the special, and the regular opening of the championship season, and the first home game with the New York Giants. Other organizations have purchased blocks of seats for one or all of these games, though not to the same extent as the Elks. This lodge, of which President Ebbets and all the other club officials are members, will have special reservations throughout the year, the same as at Washington Park.

The work of marking off the 25-cent section in the bleachers will be done this week. The club has decided to set off 1,000 seats at the extreme north end of the left-field bleachers to be sold at the low price, and all command a much better view of the game than the quarter seats at Washington Park. The section will be somewhat larger than the quarter section at the Polo Grounds.

The new electric scoreboard is expected to arrive in a few days, and the task of installing it will be started at once, so that it will be ready for the early games of the season. Following the custom which has become quite popular of late years, the outfield wall in centre field will be painted dark green for the benefit of the batsmen.

While in Augusta President Ebbets will endeavor to secure new grounds for the Superbas, as the Augusta ball park is now under water from the floods, and may be unfit to practice on for another week or two. The Superbas will be starting for home in two weeks.

Other Baseball Games.

FORT WORTH, Texas, March 16.—Veasey, pitching for the Fort Worth Texas League team to-day, allowed no Philadelphia American League recruits to reach first base during the four innings he pitched, and McCafferty, who finished the game, allowed only five scattered hits. The major leaguers lost 7 to 1, their first defeat of the Spring tour. Cottrell and Brumerhoff pitched for Philadelphia, allowing nine hits, one a triple. Coombs joined the second team here.

BEAUMONT, Texas, March 16.—The St. Louis American League regulars hit at will in their game with the Beaumont Texas League team to-day and won 11 to 3.

DALLAS, Texas, March 16.—The Philadelphia American League regulars were forced to play the hardest game of their exhibition series thus far to defeat the Dallas Texas League Club 8 to 5 to-day. After pitching three innings Coombs left to join the recruit team at Fort Worth and Grady, Mullins, and Harris, who alternated as pitchers, were hit hard by the Texas Leaguers.

MOBILE, Ala., March 16.—The Cincinnati Reds in training here defeated the Mobile Southern League team to-day 4 to 1. Cold breezes made playing difficult. All the Cincinnati regulars were used.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 16.—The Buffalo team of the International Baseball League arrived here to-day and went into its Spring training camp, where it will spend the next month. The first squad to arrive contained fourteen men, including the manager of the team, W. I. Clymer. Others are expected to arrive to-morrow.

FAST SPRINTERS AT RELAYS.

Cornell of Yale to Measure Strides with Pick of Collegians.

T. H. Cornell, the fastest Freshman sprinter at Yale last year, will make his first appearance in 'Varsity company at the University of Pennsylvania relay races on April 26. Cornell's work will be watched with especial interest because, as far as is known, he is the only sprinter in any of the other colleges likely to challenge Penn's great trio of runners, Marshall, Patterson, and Lippincott.

Last year in the Harvard and Princeton meets, Cornell was credited with 10 seconds for the 100 yards, and with better than even time for the furlong distance. He is undoubtedly a very fast man, but his real quality will be seen at the relay races, as he will meet there all the best college sprinters in the country. Penn's pair, Marshall and Patterson, will no doubt run in this event.

Lippincott may also appear in the 100 yards, unless he is saved for the one-mile relay race. Wasson of Notre Dame, one of the fastest sprinters in the West, has entered, and Thomas of Princeton, the present intercollegiate champion and captain of the Princeton team, will also compete. Thomas won this event last year, and he is out to take it again this season.

Yale will also be well represented in the other events. As yet they are not sure whether they will be able to develop a relay team sufficiently fast to compete in any of the relay championships, but they will be strong in all the special events. Wagoner, their captain, will uphold Yale's supremacy in the pole vault, as usual. He has done close to 13 feet in this event. Douglas will compete in the high jump, Potter in the hurdles, and there will also be Yale men in the other events.

As usual, the special events are attracting the best athletes in all the colleges, both of the East and West, and they will actually represent National college championships in the various contests.

McNAMARA FINISHES FIRST.

Irish-American Star Shows the Way to Fast Field in Five-Mile Event.

J. J. McNamara, one of the distance-running cracks of the Irish-American A. C., finished first yesterday in the five-mile road run of the Morningside A. C., leading by a comfortable margin at the end in the good time of 29:09. The Irish-American star took the lead at the end of the third mile, and was never afterward headed. Thirty runners made up the field, among which were some of the best distancers in the district.

At the start Honihan took the lead, closely pressed by Critchley of the New York A. C. and Horton, a clubmate, and a recent acquisition to the Winged Foot forces. Near the second mile Critchly passed Honihan, and, with the quickening of the pace, carried McNamara with him to the front. Just after the beginning of the third mile McNamara rushed to the front, and, although repeatedly challenged by Critchley, he always maintained his forward position, winning handily. Harry Jensen, Bronx Church House, who finished second in the Sea Gaet Marathon, showed in tenth place, and was never a serious contender. The summaries:

J. J. McNamara, Irish-American A. C.; H. H. Honohan, unattached; G. Critchley, N. Y. A. C.; W. Horton, N. Y. A. C.; J. Costello, Morningside A. C.; K. Kelly, Bronx Church House; J. Mackette, P. P. W. IRISH BEAT THE DUTCH.

Merry War of Shot Guns at Larchmont Yacht Club Shoot.

Anticipating the advent of St. Patrick's Day, the trapshooters of the Larchmont Yacht Club engaged yesterday in a merry war with their shotguns, with the result that "the Irish beat the Dutch—good and proper," as one of the members put it, and the winners were decorated with shamrocks by the losers.

Out of a total of ten matches the Irish members represented by "Danny" McMahon, T. J. McCahill, W. E. Ferguson, and A. W. Fitzgerald won six of them, defeating the "Dutch" easily. The conditions were so good that full scores were returned in every one of the matches, several ties being shot off to decide the winners.

In the 100-target handicap, the feature contest of the day, A. W. Fitzgerald, with the aid of a handicap of 24, returned a full score of 100. W. E. Ferguson, with a handicap of 9, was the runner-up, with 97 as his score. Fitzgerald's other win was the special trophy match, in which he also returned a full score of 25.

Shooting from scratch against fourteen others, Ralph L. Spotts won the Take-Home Trophy with a full score, and he also proved high gun for the day.

Taub Wins H. E. H. S. Run.

The third of a series of prize runs of the Harlem Evening High School was held yesterday over a three-and-one-quarter-mile course leading from the Mohawk A. C. clubhouse. M. Taub, starting from scratch, won the event in 17:40. J. Manning, the other scratch man, finished in fourth position after giving Taub a close race for the greater portion of the distance. J. Pawa, with an allowance of 1:35, worked his way into the lead at the mile post, which he retained to the two-mile mark, where he was passed by S. Friedman (1:40) and F. Foley (1:40.) Taub took the lead at the third mile, after which he was never headed. He broke the tape fully 100 yards ahead of Friedman, establishing a new scholastic record for the distance. The first ten men to finish were M. Taub, S. Friedman, J. Pawa, J. Manning, F. Boylan, J. Foley, H. Hershkowitz, A. Russmann, G. Creed, and S. Thorner.

Final Game of Hockey League.

The tie game of Feb. 24 between the Irish-American A. C. and the Hockey Club will be played off on Wednesday night at the St. Nicholas Rink. Both teams will have out their strongest line-up and a hard battle is sure to result.

NEW BOXING CLUB OPENS THIS WEEK

Atlantic Gardens A. C. Has Strong Card for First Show —Attell in Ring Again.

The opening of the Atlantic Gardens A. C., which promises to be one of the leading boxing clubs in New York, on Thursday night stands out as the feature of the boxing programme for the coming week in New York. This amusement hall, known to New Yorkers for years, has been thoroughly remodeled and fitted up in the most up-to-date manner for boxing purposes, and, with the capital behind the project, its success seems assured. It is located at Canal Street and the Bowery, and was a prominent gathering place on the lower east side for many years.

If the opening show can be taken as any criterion for the shows that are to come the new club promises to be a rival of the other big boxing clubs of the Greater City. No more bouts will be staged at Madison Square Garden for several weeks, and the Empire A. C. is closed to boxing until next Winter. The Atlantic Gardens A. C. has a location easy of access, plenty of room and accommodations, and needs only the high-class bouts to take its place among the important clubs.

Two of the best lightweights in the game to-day—Jack Britton of Chicago and Young Brown of the east side—are to be the headliners of the opening show. Both are contenders for the title, and their consistent winning for the past few months entitle them to consideration among the 133-pounders. In the other ten-round bouts on the programme Patsy White will oppose Marty Allen, and Joe White will match his skill against Young Kurtz.

Abe Attell, ranked for years as the greatest boxer of them all, will attempt to come back Wednesday night in a ten-round bout with Ollie Kirke, the St. Louis featherweight, at the Forty-fourth Street Sporting Club. It was Kirke who caused Attell to stop after six rounds of a scheduled eight-round bout at St. Louis in November last, and announce to the crowd from the ring that he was through as a fighter. Attell was evidently sincere at that time, but the old fever has returned and Attell realizes that he is still good enough to make plenty of money in the roped arena. So he picked out Kirke as the proper boxer to start with, and he is out for more fame and glory. Abe says if he defeats Kirke he will keep at it and try to regain the title which he lost to Kilbane. It is said that Attell was not in condition when he boxed Kirke in the West, and it is likely that he will defeat the Westerner in the return engagement. His chances of regaining the title are far from being as bright. But Attell is still good enough to defeat most of the featherweights. At the same show Willie Jones of Brooklyn is scheduled to go ten rounds with Special Delivery Hirsch, the Chicago featherweight, and Harry Donohue of Pekin, Ill., will go over the same route with Matty Baldwin of Boston.

The Olympic A. C. of Harlem will put on its regular weekly show to-night, with Tommy Houck and Kid Ghetto in the feature number of an all-star show. These boys boxed ten rounds at the same club about three weeks ago, and the affair was so close that a return bout was arranged. In the other ten-round bouts Paddy Sullivan will oppose Willie Adams, and Eddie Kelly of Harlem will exchange punches with Bert Papp.

Still another of the all-star cards is on the schedule for to-morrow night at the Brooklyn Beach A. C. of South Brooklyn. Al McClocky and Dummy Maxson, local heavyweights, will be the headliners at this show. The other two bouts will show Philly McGovern vs. Jim Kendrick, the English bantamweight, and Black Bill vs. Bill Watkins.

At the Queensboro A. C. of Long Island City to-night Joe Jeannette is scheduled to go ten rounds with Jack Reed, another negro heavyweight, who has won several bouts in the South.

Soldier Bacchus of the United States Army and Jack Hanlon of Maspeth will be the contestants in Wednesday night's show at the Garrison A. C. of Maspeth.

None of the local clubs will stage any show on Friday night, owing to the day being Good Friday. On Saturday night the regular week-end shows will be put on at the Fairmont and Sharkey clubs of New York, and at several clubs in Brooklyn.

Brown on Way Home.

LOS ANGELES, March 16.—Knockout Brown, the New York boxer, who got a draw at the end of twenty rounds with Bud Anderson here yesterday, left for New York to-day after receiving word that his mother was very ill. An effort will be made to rematch Brown and Anderson in a few weeks, as both sides are eager for such a bout. Frankie Burns, the Jersey City bantamweight, has begun his training for the bout with Eddie Campi at McCarey's arena on March 29.

Former Walker a Winner.

Eleven distance runners faced the starter yesterday in the weekly invitation handicap road run of the Glencoe A. C., decided over the three-and-a-half-mile course in the upper part of the city. Benny Mann, the former champion walker, was at the scratch mark. After a hard race with A. Glasser, a clubmate, Mann succeeded in annexing first honors in the capital time of 17:30. Glasser caught the leaders at the turn for home, and set a fast clip up to the last half mile, where Mann mate, Mann succeeded in annexing first honors resulting. In the final "two-twenty" Mann shook off his rival and won in comfortable fashion from Glasser, with J. Sullivan of the home club, off the two-minute mark, a good third. The summary:

B. Mann, Glencoe A. C., (scratch,) 17:30; A. Glasser, Glencoe A. C., (1:30,) 20:05; J. Sullivan, Glencoe A. C., (2:00,) 20:25; B. Ritter, Glencoe A. C., (2:30,) 21:25; A. Spranger, St. Anselm's A. C., (1:45,) 21:35; M. C. Reimer, Twenty-second Regiment, (2:00,) 21:45; H. Cohn, unattached, (2:00,) 21:50; S. Goldorf, Harlem A. C., (2:30,) 22:10; P. Cline, Glencoe A. C., (2:30,) 22:12; J. Lewis, unattached, (1:45,) 23:00; R. McGrath, Trojan Arrow A. C., (2:00,) 23:05.

ZETTLER LEADS MARKSMEN.

High Scores Mark Open Shoot for 100-Shot Championship.

High scores marked the opening round of the seventeenth annual hundred shot gallery championship of the United States yesterday, under the auspices of the Zettler Rifle Club, 159 West Twenty-third Street. The best card of the day was 2,441, handed in by C. Zettler of New York City. The record is 2,484, made in 1911 by A. Hubelik, while last year's championship went to Dr. W. G. Hudson with a score of 2,479. John Kaufmann of Spring Valley turned in the second best card, with a total of 2,440, or only one point below the leader. W. A. Lencke of New York City made his first appearance in the championship matches, and made the creditable score of 2,433, which was third highest of the day.

The contest for the indoor championship will continue daily until Saturday night, when the winner will receive the gold championship medal and the choice of more than twenty-five prizes. The targets are placed at a distance of 75 feet from the marksmen, who fire 100 shots on 20 targets of five shots each. The regular 25 ¼-inch ring target is used.

In the continuous match, which is open to all, Dr. W. G. Hudson led with three 75 and five 74 scores. C. A. Schrag and C. Zettler were the only other contestants to score 75 points, while in the bull's-eye match W. A. Lencke continued his excellent work in the 100-shot championship by scoring 5 degrees for the general average. His shooting in this event gave him a clean lead over the other contestants. Delehanty Wins at Essex Traps.

W. R. Delehanty for the second time in succession was the chief winner at the traps of the Essex County Country Club at West Orange yesterday afternoon. Delehanty won all three events, a twenty-five-target sweepstakes, the take-home trophy, and a leg on the March Cup, the latter two events also at twenty-five targets. Delehanty shot with a handicap of six targets. In the sweepstakes he made a score of 23, while in the other two events he had perfect scores of 25. It was the second shoot for the March Cup, and as Delehanty also won the previous shoot it looks as if he would be the ultimate winner. Despite the rainy weather and the heavy mist that hung about the mountain side, the club gunners did good work. The scores of the other marksmen in the three events in the order named were as follows: J. A. Hart, (scratch,) 22, 17, 21; B. M. Shanley, Jr., (scratch,) 21, 21, 24; L. H. Ross, (6,) 20, 22, 22; C. H. Daly, (scratch,) 17, 24, 16; Peter Hauck, Jr., (5,) 16, 20, 17.

100-Target Match at White Plains.

Allen Bole won the special 100-target shooting match yesterday at the Knollwood Country Club, White Plains, with a total score of 70. He was placed on the scratch mark. M. McVoy and M. Rae tied with 67 for the second prize, the former winning on the shoot-off. The other scores were: W. H. Merrall, 60; W. H. Sykes, 58; E. T. Fox, 58; J. Bogardus, 57; F. B. Mackay, 53; R. H. Hooper, 48; F. Campion, 47; G. Pell, 44, and C. Moffat, 43.

Y. M. H. A. Swimmers Win.

Young Men's Hebrew Association swimmers defeated the team of the Hilton Club yesterday in the tank of the former in a five-event series, at the end of which the tally read 31 to 13. The contests included a 115-yard relay, plunge, and 50 yard, 100 yard, and 220 yard races, with a new record resulting in the plunge, when A. D. Klein of the home team made the required length of the tank, 43 feet, in the fast time of 7 seconds.

M. Weigman of the Hilton Club did particularly well in the 50-yard race, which was the most closely contested of the series, and resulted in a victory by a touch, in the good time of 28 1-5 seconds, with A. E. Gilbert of the Y. M. H. A., and M. Spivick, a team mate, almost aligned at the end, less than a yard behind the winner.

Klein and Waldman of the Y. M. H. A. were the stars of the contests, each contributing a first and a second to his team total aside from participating on the winning team in the relay race. The summary:

115-Yard Relay Race—Won by Young Men's Hebrew Association team, made up of Spivick, Otto, Waldman, and Gilbert; Hilton Club team, made up of Rothschild, Fromme, Henryson, and Weigman, second. Time, 1.13.

Plunge—43 Feet—For Time—Won by A. D. Klein, Y. M. H. A. Time, 0.07; M. Waldman, Y. M. H. A., second; H. H. Hirschberg, Hilton Club, third.

50-Yards Swim—Won by M. Weigman, Hilton Club; A. E. Gilbert, Y. M. H. A., second; M. Spivick, Y. M. H. A., third. Time, 0:28 1-5.

100-Yards Swim—Won by M. Waldman, Y. M. H. A.; A. J. Klein, Y. M. H. A., second; W. Rothschild, Hilton Club, third. Time, 1:20.

220-Yards Swim—Won by H. Fromme, Hilton Club; W. Otto, Y. M. H. A., second. Time, 3:13.

Cadets Have Just Closed Successful Basket Ball Season—Baseball Next.

BORDENTOWN, N. J., March 16.—Interest in athletics has never before reached the high stage where it is at present at the Bordentown Military Institute, due mainly to the success of the various competitive teams during the indoor season, which is about closing.

No small measure of this encouraging state of affairs is attributed to the work of the rifle team, which, while not a sporting feature of the institution, wields a powerful influence over the cadets in their quest for honors on the field or track, and in fact, all branches of competitive athletics.

In winning the championship of the military schools of the East the rifle team had to defeat such strong combinations as the N. Y. M. A., St. John's, and other schools produced, so that the coming match with Wentworth M. T. is confidently expected to end in a victory for the Bordentown Military Institute. This competition will be for the championship of the United States.

With the completion of the baseball schedule the boys are more than anxious for a real crack at the games themselves. The team for this year is the best on paper the institute has had in several seasons. Six veterans are out again this year, and Coach Norman V. Fradd, who came from Springfield College, is delighted with some new pitching material which has just lately developed. The schedule is:

March 29—Penn Charter, at Bordentown.
April 5—Episcopal High, at Bordentown; 19—Peddie Institute, at Hightstown; 26—Trenton High, at Bordentown.
May 3—State Schools, at Bordentown; 10—Montclair Academy, at Bordentown; 17—Wenonah Military Institute, at Bordentown; 24—Swarthmore Prep, at Swarthmore; 31—Easton High, at Bordentown.
June 7—Camden High, at Bordentown.

The annual gymnasium exhibition was held last evening and entertained a large gathering of the cadets and their friends. Physical Instructor Fradd and Capt. George Halbert had arranged a delightful programme of events, consisting of calisthenic drills, German horse feats, bar work of all sorts, tumbling, and pyamid exhibitions that rounded out an evening replete with thrills and genuine entertainment.

By virtue of its seven victories out of ten games played, the basket ball team feels that it has some right to be recognized as the champion team of preparatory schools of New Jersey. Their only setbacks occurred in the first three games of the season, after which they didn't lose a match.

"THE SYSTEM."

The conviction of HARTIGAN the patrolman is a wholesome and promising beginning in Mr. WHITMAN's series of trials. In a way it might have been better had the perjured policeman chosen to plead guilty and to give to the public all the aid he could in tracking and driving out the men in the higher ranks of the corrupt and corrupting system in which he took only a minor part. But his associates in that nefarious combination will more and more, as time goes on, be impressed by what has happened to this relatively insignificant rascal.

His "pals" among the young policemen who slapped him on the back, grasped his hand, and cheered him on his way to a cell, may regard him just now as "game" and "loyal"; but they must see that to a cell he went, that neither his lies nor those of others saved him, and that those who elect to "stand by" him are in danger of traversing the same dreary and disgraceful path. The swift judgment passed on this criminal, after a fair trial and a vigorous and ingenious defense, by an impartial jury of honest citizens, drawn from various walks in life, shows what is the opinion of the great mass of the people of New York as to the hideous conspiracy in the police force.

That opinion, constantly strengthened by accumulating evidence, must finally prevail. All the unscrupulous trickery of the members of the system, all the hypocritical pretense of sensitiveness for the repute of the force as a whole, all the cowardly and sophisticated apologies of men in high place who do not dare to face the wretched facts, will not, in the long run, avail. It is of relatively little consequence how far the corruption in the police goes. It exists and the people of the city will see that it is cleaned out. It will be very bad for those who try to prevent that sure and needful process.

NEW YORK POST OFFICE AND NEW YORK CITY.

When the present five boroughs of the existing City of New York were consolidated in their municipal relations their postal relations were left as they were, and so remain, as far as the Post Office is concerned. This is the root of the grievance of which the New York Board of Trade takes cognizance in the proposal pending before it to rename the boroughs. Brooklyn is not in the New York Post Office, but is in its own postal district. That is the reason why letters addressed to the correct street and number in Brooklyn are sometimes delivered to a Manhattan address, and sometimes sent to the Dead Letter Office, as the case may be. The New York Post Office shows efficiency in taking notice of personal addresses within its jurisdiction, but is shortsighted regarding addresses outside it, even though plainly and correctly written. This would remain the same even if the boroughs were renamed, as is proposed, New York North, New York West, and so on. So far as the Post Office is concerned, the outer boroughs would not be any the more in New York for that reason. It would be a hard matter to rename the boroughs, and it might be even harder yet to get the Federal authorities to take note of obvious facts of State law and geography.

It costs Brooklyn more than prestige to be outside of the New York Post Office district, since the parcel post law takes no more note than the New York Post Office of the fact of consolidation. And in this respect Brooklyn Borough is an example of other cases of hardship of the manner in which the parcel post zones are laid out with mathematical exactness, and in disregard of the convenience and interests of those sending and receiving parcels. The Manufacturers' Association has taken note of this, and has petitioned that New York and Brooklyn shall be considered in the same postal zone. Parallel 74 divides them, and therefore one is in zone 767 and the other in 717. Under the ruling of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, express companies are not allowed to discriminate between the boroughs, but must carry for all boroughs at the same charge. Not 10 per cent. of the points within the two boroughs fall outside the twenty-five-mile limit, and yet all parcels to and from Brooklyn must pay an additional cent.

The manufacturers are asking either that the Post Office shall follow what is declared to have been the intent of the parcel law, and is the explicit order of the Inter-State Commission regarding express packages, or that the Inter-State Commission shall make an order in the case. The Post Office is complying with a statute, as the express companies were not, so that the remedy should be sought from Congress rather than from the Commission. Both cases might as well be dealt with at once, together with all similar.

THE NEW ART BUILDING PLAN.

The new plan of the National Academy of Design to acquire land adjoining on the west and north the present Fine Arts Building, in West Fifty-seventh Street, where the Academy's exhibitions have lately been held, and to enlarge that building for the purposes of the newly incorporated National Academy Association, which includes nine other societies of artists and architects, will meet with cordial public approval and encouragement. It is gratifying to know that all the vain hopes so long entertained of securing an art building site on public park land have been abandoned and that the artists have set to work courageously to obtain a suitable building on an appropriate site.

Extended, according to the rough draft of the plans published this morning, the site will have a front of 125 feet on Fifty-seventh Street and one of 80 feet on Fifty-eighth Street, and the building should contain ample gallery room for the public exhibitions of the Academy and the other associations that will use it. It seems, now, that the Academy's long period of waiting is over and that the problem which has vexed it has been solved in the most satisfactory manner. The site chosen is doubtless more suitable than that on Morningside Heights, where the Academy schools are situated, as it is, at present, nearer to the centre of metropolitan activities.

Mr. JOHN W. ALEXANDER, President of the Academy and of the new association as well, appeals "to the press "for support and to the public for assistance" in carrying out the plans "which will put New York in its proper "attitude toward the encouragement of "art." Support and practical assistance the association assuredly deserves.

THE SITUATION IN EUROPE.

THE TIMES's dispatches from the European capitals disclose a confused and obscure situation, involving some elements of the gravest importance, the final effect of which it is impossible to predict. The latest development in the Balkans is the announcement of the terms on which the allies propose to insist. They are extreme and the great Powers are reported to regard them as impossible. The points most criticised are the surrender to the allies of Scutari, which the Powers had intended to make the capital of the new State of Albania; the possession of a part of the coast of the Sea of Marmora, which would gravely affect the passage of the Dardanelles; and the payment of a heavy indemnity by Turkey, impairing the security for the Turkish debt held by the subjects of the Powers.

Certainly there is nothing in the course of the war since the armistice was ended that sustains these demands. The only serious advantage won by the allies is the capture of Janina by the Greeks. Scutari still holds out. Adrianople maintains its heroic resistance, already longer than that which made the siege of Plevna famous. The lines of Tchatalja have not been broken. No substantial progress has been made in the occupation of the Peninsula of Gallipoli. All that we know of the operations of the allies is that their armies remain in the field. Their effective position has not materially changed since the war was renewed. In these circumstances, it would seem that their defiant exactions are intended to excite discord between the Powers rather than as a basis of immediate negotiations for peace. The Powers, so far as official information goes, continue to be engaged in united effort to bring about a settlement, and there is not much ground to infer, if the allies try to awaken discord, that they will succeed. But the uncertain feature of the situation is the extraordinary war preparations undertaken by Germany on the one part, by France on the other, and, though less definitely known, by Russia also.

The latter may be regarded as the logical and inevitable consequence of the former, and the former are held in Germany to be made necessary by the progress of events in the Balkans. The rise of the Balkan Alliance into an organization with unexpected and very great military efficiency not only interferes with whatever plans of expansion in that region the Triple Alliance may have had, but greatly and seriously affects the military value of Austria as an active member of that alliance. It is not unreasonable for the German Government to represent its preparations for war as primarily defensive in purpose. If it is assumed—as by the Military Party in Germany it is assumed—that Russia on the east and France on the west, with the aid of the British fleet in the English Channel and on the North Sea, may and probably will attack Germany at some time, then the weakening of Austria by a new, strong, and possibly hostile force in the Balkans makes imperative the increase of available strength by Germany. It is the consciousness of these possibilities that renders the situation so puzzling to the responsible statesmen of all the Powers.

Yet there is in the very scope of these disturbing possibilities an element of hopefulness. The nearer Europe draws to the reality of a general conflict the more terrible are its consequences seen to be. Especially the burden of preparation grows heavier, and every class feels it more directly and distressingly. Serious men in every nation are asking whether, since to prepare for war is so sore a trial, it may not be possible to secure a general peace. This sentiment is showing itself in Germany, in defiance of the Government policy. It is manifest in France, especially among the more intellectual class. It is active in England, where there is no really bellicose feeling. The hope is by no means unreasonable that it will save the world from the unthinkable horror of a general conflict.

CASUALTY INSURANCE.

Casualty insurance in this State has undoubtedly suffered in public opinion from practices disclosed in official investigations a couple of years ago. It has suffered also from the general impression that when claims against employers have been turned over to the companies these have fought them with all the technical resources of the law, ignoring humanity and even justice. It is now argued that the casualty companies should not be permitted to insure employers under an industrial compensation law.

Commissioner EMMET in his letter to the Senate Committee on Insurance points out that the objections to the participation of the casualty companies under the new law are unfounded. In the first place a foreign company's license can be canceled at the close of any year, if it is shown to be best. The domestic companies are subject to official examination at frequent intervals, and all agreements with them require official approval. In the second place, no indeterminate claims will arise. Definite sums must be paid for specific injuries, and the possibility of litigation is reduced to the lowest point. There is another consideration. Under the compensation law the employer would not, as at present, insure himself against the payment of claims; he gives security, through some form of insurance, that he can and will meet certain liabilities defined by law. That is a measure for the protection of employés. It is really they who are insured against the failure of employers to discharge their legal obligations. We can see no valid objection to authorizing the extension of such security through insurance companies, under close State inspection and supervision and with the requirement that all agreements must have official approval.

The essential thing is that prompt, honest, and certain payment of compensation shall be provided for at the lowest reasonable cost to the employers. The Senate bill seeks to make this provision through several forms of insurance, with a view to getting as much competition as can with entire safety be attained. That is a sound policy. It is clearly in the interest of the employés. It seems to be opposed chiefly by the advocates of State insurance.

But State insurance in any form is the least likely to be efficient, and is sure to be very inefficient in the form proposed. The proper function of the State, the only one for which its agencies are suitable and adequate, is that of strict and impartial supervision and regulation. For reasons we have already given, we think that mutual insurance among employers should be encouraged as likely to tend most strongly to the prevention of injuries; but there can be no reasonable objection to alternative forms.

GRADE CROSSINGS.

President REA of the Pennsylvania Railroad states his reasons, in The Annalist, published this morning, for opposing the New Jersey Grade Crossing bill, which, he declares, is of a character to "retard rather than promote the very object it aims at obtaining." He says that his company is in favor of removing all grade crossings as quickly as possible, but that the cost of removing the 1,200 crossings which still exist in New Jersey, on the Pennsylvania system alone, would exceed $60,000,000, and naturally the company is not willing to bear all of this enormous expense. Communities have grown up along the line of the railroad, and many of the grade crossings were made long after the railroad was completed, and, as President REA says, "against the strong protest of the railroad companies." He says, also, that the Pennsylvania Company has removed 110 crossings in the State of New Jersey alone, within twenty years, at a cost of $8,000,000, and directs attention to its extensive track elevations in the larger cities.

President REA's contention that the States and municipalities should share with the railroads the cost of the improvements made necessary by the growth of population, and the increased use of the highways by motor cars and other vehicles, seems just. In other important States the burden is not placed entirely on the railroad companies.

MOVING PICTURES AND ACTING.

Massed figures are impressive, always, but their impressiveness frequently diminishes on examination. If there are 20,000 moving-picture theatres in the United States and the American people pay $500,000 to see moving-picture shows, the average daily receipts of a moving-picture theatre do not exceed $25, which does not pay much rent, or leave a large sum for the wages of attendants and cleaners. Of course we know that the average daily receipts of some moving-picture theatres must be ten times more than $25, or their managers would go into bankruptcy, which has not yet become common in this branch of the amusement business. Therefore very many more must exist, after a fashion, on very much smaller receipts. Obviously the commercial growth of the moving-picture business cannot be called formidable, when it is considered as a rival of the theatre.

The moving picture provides wholesome and cheap entertainment. Its enormous educational value is not to be disputed. The growth of the business of exhibiting moving pictures is inevitable, and it is just possible that the statement of daily expenditure we have quoted is somewhat below the mark rather than above it. But in its very best development, with EDISON's appliance to reproduce speech perfected, the moving picture will never satisfy the cultivated taste for histrionism. The marvel is that it can be done, that the exact semblance of life can be thus communicated, but the effect of that soon wears off. Already the moving picture has ceased to astonish. We know all about it, and wonder is not among the emotions it inspires.

Experience shows that the representation of a dramatic story by means of moving pictures leaves little room for the play of the imagination. The histrionic stage, therefore, has little to fear from the rivalry of moving pictures so long as it clings to histrionism as its mainstay. Improved moving pictures may well supplant, in time, the purely spectacular shows with which our stage has been overburdened. They may, in time, lead to an organized and well-ordered revival of acting. It is quite certain that the moving pictures are educating new audiences for a regenerate theatre.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Sanitary Experts Demanded.

Now that sanitation and hygiene, especially in their preventive sides or functions, have come to be so largely recognized as devolving on public officials ranging upward from municipal to Federal, there is, or ought to be, an urgent demand for men with a thorough training in such work. And, as The New York Medical Journal points out, experts of this sort are not sufficiently numerous to supply the demand, and the consequence is that many of these places fall into the hands of men of qualifications purely political—in other words, of no qualifications at all.

When that disaster, so perilous to community interests, is avoided, the tendency is to intrust tasks like removal of rubbish and ashes, sewage disposal, and street cleaning to engineers rather than to doctors, restricting the activities of Health Boards to direct dealing with disease. Whether this, too, is a calamity may be a matter of opinion, but The Medical Journal, naturally enough, regrets it as not conducive to exalting the profession it represents, and it could with truth be said that the engineering schools have been as slow as the medical to realize the need to make provision to meet the new demand. The graduates of the one, as of the other, have to gain their special knowledge of public sanitation from experience—which is a good way, but necessarily slow and expensive.

In all probability The Medical Journal is right in holding that a medical education is better than one on engineering lines as preparation for a career in public health administration. It therefore advises the medical schools, which with few exceptions now almost ignore the subject, to add to their curriculums post-graduate courses of at least a year, devoted to teaching laboratory methods, public health principles, sanitary science, vital statistics, and practical work. If this were done it might be possible, as in England, to insist that the head of every Health Department should have a diploma guaranteeing that he has been properly educated to perform the duties he undertakes.

All this is full of suggestion for the Special Public Health Commission recently appointed by Gov. SULZER.

Ranch and Farm Contrasted.

In replying to a request from the National Housewives' League to explain the rise in the price of meats, the President of the Union Stock Yards Company offers the explanation, so much more familiar than convincing, that the supply of food animals has not increased as fast as the population, and this, in turn, he explains, is due to the cutting up of the range country into small farms, the owners of which do not devote themselves to stock raising.

One objection to this theory lies in the fact that the meat of animals never raised on unfenced territory has advanced as much or more than beef. This might in part result from the greater demand for such meat which the cost of beef has produced, but that cannot tell the whole story, or half of it. President LEONARD forgets or ignores, too, the more important fact that when range ground is brought under cultivation it can and does produce vastly more food for animals than when they obtained from it only what unassisted "nature" chose to grow.

The free pasturage of the old days, the loss of which is so much lamented by those who exploited it, was by no means as cheap as it seemed. It never brought cattle to the state of edibility, and every Winter the herds suffered enormous losses from cold and starvation. The scientific farmer does not pasture his cattle at all. He gives them a field where they can get enough exercise to preserve their health, but he grows their food on other fields from which they are carefully excluded, and from which he carries it to them as they need it. Thus does one acre produce as much as ten—or a hundred—formerly did, and if the farmer does not raise the cattle for which there is such an eager demand, the only obvious explanation of his failure to do so is that something or somebody prevents him from getting what he considers a fair or profitable share of what the consumer pays for meat.

Possibly President LEONARD, whose facilities for acquiring information are so many and excellent, knows what that something or who that somebody is. In an entirely friendly way the members of the Housewives' League might question him on that point. Certainly the owners of the small farms—small, that is, as compared with the vanished areas of free pasturage—could raise many more cattle than the ranchers ever did if they tried, and presumably they would try if there was any money in it.

Seemingly Is Rather Inconsiderate.

Striking illustration of the fact that the only people ashore whom the commanders of ships consider of any particular consequence are the owners of said ships, was given when the trawler Heroine ran down and sank, off Governors Island, the steam lighter Wyckoff.

After the accident, the Captain of the Heroine stood by till he had rescued ten members—all he could—of the Wyckoff's company, including her Captain. Then he steamed quietly away through the darkness to Stapleton, where he tied up for the night, and there, as quietly, he and all on board the Heroine remained until the two Captains could get up to the city next morning and tell their respective owners their respective—and widely differing—stories of what happened and how.

Meanwhile, the police and the reporters were making efforts which, if not exactly "frantic," as the custom of description would say, were energetic and laborious, to find out the name of the vessel that did the damage and the fate of the Wyckoff's missing crew. That the latter had all been drowned was the natural assumption after many hours of investigation did not disclose that they had been rescued, and so all of the morning papers announced as more or less highly probable.

This naturally caused grief and anxiety to a considerable number of presumably worthy relatives and friends, all of which, as well as the other trouble, would have been avoided if the Captain of the Heroine, on arriving at Stapleton, had been kind enough to telephone to the harbor police a brief narrative of his sorry adventure. That, however, wouldn't have been nautical etiquette, which includes the keeping of an open eye to the possibility of damage suits and the need of providing owners with all convenient facilities for bringing and defending them. The owners come first, and relatives and policemen and the papers come afterward—a long way afterward.

"CAT BILL" DEFENDED.

It Is Needed to Check Wholesale Destruction of Birds.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Edgar Mayhew Bacon, in his recent communication, would have done well to analyze with more care the cat situation before attacking Assemblyman Gatright's bill as absurd and characterizing its sponsor as a "sapient proposer of hysterical legislation." When one considers that cat bills are at present under consideration or in process of preparation in several States, and that no less a person than Edward Howe Forbush, State Ornithologist of Massachusetts, and an expert economic ornithologist, is the author of the proposed statute in his State, one is rather strongly inclined to shrink from accepting Mr. Bacon's view of the subject, howover logical portions of it may seem superficially.

In his "Useful Birds and Their Protection" Mr. Forbush says:

> We have already introduced into this country a terrible scourge to birds—the domestic cat. My statement heretofore published, that the mature cat in good hunting grounds kills, on the average, fifty birds a year, is certainly within bounds. Kittens and half-grown cats do not catch many birds, but the old cat that wanders off into the fields and woods is terribly destructive. Of course where there are many cats each one cannot kill so many birds, for there are not enough birds to furnish each cat its full quota.
>
> It is quite true, however, that some cats do not kill many birds, and that some intelligent or high-bred cats may be taught not to kill any. Some cat lovers believe that each cat kills on the average not more than ten birds a year; but I have learned of two instances where more than that number were killed in a single day, and another where seven were killed. If we assume, however, that the average cat on the farm kills but ten birds a year, and there is one cat to each farm in Massachusetts, we have, in round numbers, seventy thousand cats killing seven hundred thousand birds annually. (Probably there are some farms on which no cats are kept, but on one farm in Worcester County thirteen are quartered and on another sixteen.)
> If we add to the cats kept on farms the enormous number of village and city cats, many of which have good opportunities for catching birds, we shall see the chief reason for the great mortality to birds and their young about our villages and cities. If cats are allowed their liberty at night during the nesting season, they, unnoticed, rob many birds' nests. The cat is more dangerous to birds than is any native mammal that roams our woods, for it is nocturnal, a splendid climber, a good stalker, a strong leaper, and is very quick and active. Unfortunately, the cat is only half domesticated, and easily goes back to a wild state. If the dog loses its master it will soon find another, but the mature cat is more likely to run wild. Thousands of these wild or half-wild cats roam the country, destroying game birds, squirrels, field mice, chickens and any animal they can master. The effect produced by cats is convincingly shown where they have been introduced on islands, and have nearly exterminated rabbits and greatly decreased the numbers of birds. John Burroughs says that cats probably destroy more birds than all other animals combined. William Dutcher, president of the National Association of Audubon Societies, considers the wild house cat one of the greatest causes of bird destruction known. He says that the boy with the air gun is not in the same class with the cat.

The Cat bill, far from being "hysterical legislation," would, in fact, be a godsend to the birds, and let us hope that we may be speedily overtaken by the measure that will call for the licensing of house cats and legalize the destruction of vagabond felines.

Elevated Footways.

As a practicable means of relieving congestion in certain streets I would suggest a double-deck structure or elevated footway. In the narrow streets the footway would extend from building to building, plenty of vault lights being provided in the floor; in the broader streets a footway at each side would be provided similar to the arrangement of the elevated railroad on the Bowery; frequent crossings would be provided; the approaches would be gentle ramps or moving stairways or inclines.

This scheme would provide a clean, roomy promenade free from mud and defilement, and, by elimination of surface sidewalks, add materially to the width of the vehicular space. The storekeepers would soon accept the situation and move their entrances and show windows to the second story.

A FIELD FOR POOR GIRLS.

They Can Save Money Under Honorable and Healthful Conditions.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It was a pitiful story told by "A Victim of Existing Social Conditions" in her letter to THE TIMES, the more because it carries internal evidence of being the simple truth. All honor to the girls who resist temptation under such conditions, and the deepest pity for their sufferings and troubles!

But the most surprising thing about her case, and thousands of similar ones, is that these needy girls do not take up domestic employment, even though they are prejudiced against it, and apparently misinformed about it. "Victim" says she has not now the strength for such work. If she does not know she could easily learn that ordinary domestic work is far less exhausting, and almost infinitely more healthful, both physically and morally, than the work she has been engaged in, or is seeking.

There is an almost unlimited field for such employment at wages that are, when expenses are considered, quite remunerative, where girls are surrounded by wholesome conditions and enjoy the physical comforts of good living.

In our very modest home we employ one colored maid at $30 per month. Out of this she need spend nothing except for clothing and recreation. She has a very comfortable room, eats the same food as the family, and, if sick, is cared for by the family doctor. Her work is not exhausting, and she has every Sunday afternoon and evening and one weekday every two weeks, off duty. It is true she is not treated as a social equal in the family, but on the other hand she is most kindly and considerately treated, and even regarded with much affection—for she is a good girl and has been with us many years. Surely her situation in this respect is better than in the average store. When I add that she has a savings bank account, it will be appreciated that she is not suffering for the comforts of life.

Now, there are hundreds of thousands of similar homes in this country looking for such girls on similar terms, where they would be treated with respect and kindness. It is the natural occupation for women, young or old; the art or "trade," even of cooking is not difficult to learn, and there is a field for constant employment. It is a field waiting to be occupied by the needy, worthy girls, and it is impossible for the average man to understand why they do not take possession of it.

HYSTERICAL REFORM.

The Trend of Vice Investigations Deprecated and Defended.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

"Searching for Truth Through the Emotions" should reach every home. No editorial within my ken "touches the spot" more gently, yet withal more forcibly, than it. Logic, reason, deductions, make its conclusions plain, furnish the best of food for moral diet. I thank you sincerely for the treat.

SEVENTY-TWO.

Yonkers, N. Y., March 14, 1913.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Of the many who will congratulate THE TIMES on the splendid editorial article, entitled "Searching for Truth Through the Emotions," let me be first in expressing my admiration for your fairness and broadmindedness in discussing this vital subject.

Too frequently we hear that the lips of the superficial associate poverty with pessimism, but it surely is unfair to the large army of vigorous, self-respecting poor, to have another alliterative word of reproach added—prostitution.

The campaign, however, will work for reforms along the line of housing, and if some of us who have comfortable home surroundings devote thought to the unfortunates who need our care, the investigations will not have been made in vain.

D. L. W.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES's tacit assumption in to-day's editorial article that emotional interest is to be deprecated in the investigation of social conditions is interesting. If history teaches anything it teaches that all large social movements, from the Crusades down through the French Revolution to our own times, derive their force from the emotional impulse behind them. It is obvious that such emotional impulse is often blind and misguided, but to attempt to accomplish any reform without it is to attempt to fire a cannon without gunpowder, because the latter is a dangerous explosive which sometimes destroys the piece charged with it.

Would you advocate the elimination of emotion from patriotism and religion as well? Logically this should follow its elimination from social reform. You head your editorial "Searching for Truth Through the Emotions," evidently implying the belief that such a method of search is essentially fallacious. And yet the chief movement of contemporary philosophy is that in the direction of recognizing the inability of the reason, unaided by the emotions, to ascertain truth.

COLLEGE MEN IN THE NAVY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with great interest of the plan advocated by President Lowell of Harvard University, by means of which college undergraduates might be enabled, by assignment to different ships, to join the navy during the Summer months. Still more recently I see that the Secretary of the Navy has evolved just such a plan by which twenty undergraduates, with proper recommendation from their respective colleges, and fulfilling certain requirements, may be assigned to each battleship or cruiser.

Should this plan be carried through, the navy would be undoubtedly strengthened by the addition of a body of reserves of higher ability than the ordinary naval recruit, though just what status such men would be given is a matter of conjecture. There are many college undergraduates who feel the keenest interest in our navy, some of whom failed to obtain an appointment to Annapolis, or were unable to join for other reasons, and these men, with a natural love of the sea, would form a splendid reserve should they ever be called on. Congress may limit the number of our ships, but there is no reason why those we have should not be manned even more efficiently.

Curing "Colds" by Friction.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

After sleeping on an open piazza for several years, Winter and Summer, I have had several occasions to seek a remedy for sore throat, brought on by getting my feet wet, and on several occasions, also, there was a severe cough and what seemed to be almost threatened pneumonia.

In every case of this kind I have found that by rubbing my throat and breast for several minutes, so as almost to produce pain, I have found immediate and permanent relief. If this had occurred only once or twice, I might think it was simply a natural recovery on account of my otherwise good health, but as this has occurred so many times I have come to the conclusion that the relief was the result of drawing fresh blood to those parts which were affected, by the friction. I might say, but for your prejudice against osteopathy, that it was something of that nature, but anyway I got relief, and feel that there are many who might obtain relief in the same way if they knew that it has resulted thus in my case.

THE SCHOOL EXPERTS

Not Heeded by Dr. Wile's Committee, Supt. Maxwell Says.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Dr. Ira S. Wile, in his anxiety to escape Dr. Flexner's attack, endeavors to distract attention from himself by belittling the work of the Board of Superintendents. In a letter published in your columns this morning he makes the following statements:

> There have never been any opportunities for men like Prof. McMurry or Dr. Strayer to have any influence upon the curriculum. The present system has prevented specialists in education from having any effect upon the course of study. Such courses of study have been in the hands of the Board of Superintendents, and they alone have had the power of constructing them. We concur with Mr. Flexner that such specialists should play a part in constructing a course of study, and for the first time it will be afforded them.

It is greatly to be regretted that Dr. Wile did not take the trouble to verify his statements. There is not an allegation in the passage I have quoted from his letter that is in accordance with the facts. You will permit me to traverse each statement: Not only have men like Prof. McMurry and Dr. Strayer had their influence on the curriculum of the New York schools, but much greater men—men like Pestalozzi, Froebel, Herbert Spencer, William T. Harris, Charles W. Eliot—have had a much greater influence. The present system has not prevented specialists in education from having any effect upon the course of study; this is not the first time they will have a part in constructing a course of study. At every step in forming the present course of study specialists — not merely theorists, but those who had the largest experience in the field—were consulted. Again Dr. Wile says:

> Nor can Mr. Flexner show where the opinions and aid of specialists out of the system have ever been sought previous to the last year by a Committee on Courses of Study or Board of Superintendents.

Had Dr. Wile sought this information not from Mr. Flexner, but from any member of the Board of Superintendents who has been in office since 1903, he could easily have found where the opinions and aid of specialists were sought and obtained. Once more, Dr. Wile says:

> Our committee, in addition, has asked for a conference with the Board of Superintendents, a move in the right direction, which has never before been attempted in the history of New York school education.

Dr. Wile is again in error. Many members and committees of the Board of Education have entered into conferences with the Board of Superintendents.

Dr. Wile makes much of Prof. McMurry's statement that "the course of study was thirty years behind the times." To be exact, Dr. McMurry's statement in his official report is not "thirty" but "twenty" years behind the times. But what is a difference of ten years? I have long been an ardent admirer of Dr. McMurry. Among living American teachers he probably has no superior, and he is never more successful than when in actual teaching he quite unconsciously evades the logical consequences of the theory of which for the day he happens to be the exponent. In his 1913 theory as to the age of the New York course of study I do not agree with Prof. McMurry.

In conclusion permit me to call Dr. Wile's attention to the vital distinction between consulting experts and heeding them. At the hearings given by Dr. Wile's committee on the proposed changes in the curriculum many experts appeared. All those experts, with, I believe, only two exceptions—Miss Strachan and Mr. Vandenberg—condemned the committee's proposals either in whole or in part. When will he begin to heed the experts?

THE MINIMUM WAGE.

That for Housework Is High Enough, Employer Urges.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The amount of mushy talk going on about a minimum wage for women is most extraordinary, and makes me think we are on the road to become a Nation of weaklings. Nobody seems to think of applying the rule of "supply and demand." I am an employer of female help, and whenever a vacancy occurs I can get hundreds to fill the place at any price I wish to pay, while my wife is compelled to pay from $25 to $40 a month, with room and board, to her maids and cook, and has to go down on her knees to get them even at these prices.

There are some hundreds of thousands of well-to-do families all over this country the mistresses of which are at their wits' ends to secure household help of any kind, and are willing to put up with anything, but are practically compelled to do the work of their own households because they cannot get servants. Yet they tell us that there are 50,000 women in Chicago working for $3 a week, or less.

It is about time to start in the public schools to teach children that it is necessary to work for a living. Even the clergy do not dare to tell people that they should work for an honest living, for fear of being considered old-fashioned.

A few sound spankings, and a term at vigorous, healthy work, applied to some of these wayward store and factory young girls, who are either too lazy or too impudent to earn more than a few dollars a week, would do more good in one month than the kind of talk we have been hearing lately would do in twenty years.

Airedale to the Rescue.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I beg to call the attention of "K. G." to the fact that man cannot be true to two loves any more than he can serve two masters, therefore the answer is, the Airedale.

In these so-called modern times personal prowess is just as valuable an asset as it was in the time of Richard of the Lion Heart, and the slogan of the Airedale is: "He can do all any dog ever did and then lick the other dog."

While he has all the courage of the knight of old, he never "looks for trouble," for, above all things, he is a gentleman.

Two and one-half years ago, after much consideration, I purchased an Airedale puppy of royal pedigree. She has been a close companion to my children ever since, and never once have I found her wanting; loyal, obedient, kindly, and courageous, she has defended my home and taken care of the baby—one could not ask for a better pal.

At our rural home we had a flock of chickens. Among them was a white Plymouth Rock cock bird, who would, when the chance occurred, attack the children, no doubt with the idea of protecting his hens. Our Airedale dog had been taught not to molest the chickens and never did. But one day the "rooster" chased my youngest girl, who was 3 years old at the time. She fell and the rooster started in to pick and spur her as she lay on the ground.

Her mother, on hearing the child's screams, ran to the door in time to see the Airedale race across the lawn, catch the rooster, and shake him until a patch of skin gave way. Then the dog went to the little girl and licked her, as much as to say: "Did I get here in time; are you hurt?"

Of all the stately Colonial houses that once were the pride of New York only two survive, the Roger Morris house, commonly known as the Jumel Mansion, and the Van Cortlandt house in Van Cortlandt Park. These have been preserved to us after many struggles, and we ought to value them as a heritage from the golden days of our fathers, and as interesting examples of domestic architecture.

But the hand of the destroyer is upon the Van Cortlandt house.

MISS YOAKUM TO WED FRANCIS R. LARKIN

FIANCE A PRINCETON MAN

Date of the Wedding Is Not Yet Set—Bride the Sister of Mrs. Paulding Fosdick.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Yoakum of this city and San Antonio, Texas, announced yesterday the engagement of their younger daughter, Miss Bessie F. Yoakum, to Francis R. Larkin, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Larkin of 47 East Fifty-third Street. Mr. Larkin was graduated from Princeton in the honor class in 1911. He is now in business with James F. White & Co. of this city. His younger brother, John A. Larkin, is in this year's class at Princeton.

Miss Yoakum, who made her début in New York about three years ago is tall and blonde. She is fond of outdoor sports, rides a great deal, and is an excellent shot. She is a younger sister of Mrs. Paulding Fosdick, who was Miss Katheryne Bennett Yoakum, and whose marriage to Mr. Fosdick, a son of Mrs. Charles A. Childs, by her first marriage, took place on Feb. 23, 1909, in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. Miss Bessie Yoakum was the maid of honor at the wedding. One of the bridesmaids was Miss Janet House of Texas, who last year married Gordon Auchincloss.

Mr. Yoakum's town house is at 16 East Sixty-seventh Street; another of his homes is in San Antonio, Texas, and there his family spend much of their time. The Yoakums also have a country estate, Tywacana Hills, at Farmingdale, L. I.

Announcement of the engagement will be unexpected in society, although the prospective bride and bridegroom have been friends for several years. The Yoakums came on from Texas about six weeks ago, and are returning there tomorrow. No date has been mentioned for the wedding, but it is believed that it will not be long delayed.

Miss Yoakum's father is one of the best-known railway men in the United States. It has often been said that he was to the Southwest what James J. Hill was to the Northwest. He is a Texan by birth and an ex-President of the Santa Fe Road. He is now Chairman of the Directors of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad Company and of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad. Mrs. Yoakum is a daughter of W. A. Bennett, who had large banking interests in San Antonio. Mrs. Fosdick and Miss Yoakum are their only children.

ICE CREAM MAKERS STRIKE.

Conference with Employers Fails—2,500 Out in Eighteen Factories.

An ice cream famine threatened the city yesterday morning when 2,500 men quit work in eighteen ice cream factories in Manhattan, Brooklyn, and the Bronx, and declared themselves on strike under the leadership of William Davis, organizer of the Ice Cream Workers' Union.

The strike followed a futile conference yesterday morning between the Ice Cream Manufacturers' Association and the Ice Cream Workers' Union. The ice cream workers demand a working day of not more than twelve hours, a day off once in every two weeks, a wage scale ranging from $24 for first-hand men to $18 for third-hand men, and better rooms in which to work.

UNCLE JOE GOES BACK HOME.

Ex-Speaker Cannon, Private Citizen, Can't Give Up Politics.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Joseph Gurney Cannon, private citizen, "went home" to-day, after almost forty years of public service. Unattended, the one-time "Czar of the House" picked up his grip and started for Danville, Vermillion County, Ill.

"Uncle Joe" and two big cedar boxes left Washington together. The boxes contained private letters and other documents.

"Well," said Mr. Cannon, "I'm through. I've had a devil of a job getting rid of stuff. I must have had thousands of newspaper clippings and cartoons, besides my letters and papers. They were all worth keeping when I gathered them, and I had a hard time weeding them out. Most of them were clever, but scarcely of a complimentary nature."

"What are you going to do back home?" he was asked.

He rubbed his head reflectively, hoisted himself to the edge of the table, his long legs about the back of a chair, and began:

"Well, my business is in pretty good shape. I've got a little bank stock, and that is pretty well organized. My farm land is well handled. I guess I'll just look around a little bit. When I was young I wanted to travel, but I was too busy earning a living. Now I don't care much about it. The folks are planning a grand trip around the world—China, India, Japan, the Philippines, and all the rest of it."

"Uncle Joe" stroked his beard a moment. Then, leaning forward confidentially, he remarked:

"But I'm not going. I may take a little run through Mississippi and Arkansas, where I want to look over some land for investment in the Yazoo and St. Francis country, but that will be about all of the traveling I'll do.

"I'm not tired. I feel just as well as I ever did, but I suppose that is because I'm the old devil they say I am."

"Will you continue in politics?"

He pondered a minute, and replied:

"When I lose interest in politics, you can bet I'll be dead. I will still be in politics, as a private citizen"—then, as an afterthought—"without personal ambitions."

The former Speaker said he might stop off on his way home to visit Representative Marlin Olmstead, one of his old adherents in the House, in Harrisburg, Penn.

WILSON AVOIDS CROWD.

Attends First Presbyterian Church, Where He Wasn't Expected.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—President Wilson to-day evaded the throngs gathered around the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church and the Presbyterian Church of the Covenant in the hope of getting a glimpse of him. With Mrs. Wilson and their daughter, Miss Jessie Wilson, he went to the First Presbyterian Church in John Marshall Place, where Secretary Bryan and Secretary Wilson are regular attendants. His presence there was not expected, and, while the church was full, there was no crowd outside.

The President has made it clear that he objects to the attentions of curious people when he attends divine service.

The First Presbyterian Church where the President went to-day was the regular place of worship of President and Mrs. Cleveland when they were at the White House. John Marshall Place, formerly known as 4½ Street, runs from Pennsylvania Avenue to the United States Court House, a distance of two blocks. Like the Central Church where the Wilsons went to service last Sunday, the First Presbyterian Church is not in a fashionable part of the capital, although prior to the civil war this neighborhood was favored by many persons of prominence, including Thomas H. Benton, John C. Fremont, Edwin M. Stanton, and Martin Van Buren. The Secretary of State and Mrs. Bryan were in their pew at the First Presbyterian Church to-day.

After the service the President and Mrs. Wilson and their daughter went to the Corcoran Art Gallery, where they viewed the paintings and statuary until luncheon time.

BRYAN WON'T GIVE ADVICE.

Visit to Illinois Not Connected with Senatorship, He Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Secretary Bryan had an hour's talk with President Wilson to-day before leaving for the West. He took occasion to deny this afternoon that his purpose in visiting Springfield, Ill., where he will address the Legislature, was to try to break the Senatorial deadlock. Mr. Bryan said he accepted the invitation to address the Legislature long ago, and his visit to Springfield was arranged without regard to conditions prevailing in that body.

Mr. Bryan's trip is mainly to attend a celebration at Lincoln in honor of his birthday. While he is home he will supervise the shipment of household goods to his Washington residence, Calumet Place, the former residence of Gen. and Mrs. John A. Logan.

PREACHES ON BLIND TIGERS.

Pastor Whose Raid Saved Holt Case Prisoners Keeps Up Fight.

Special to The New York Times.

SALEM, Ill., March 16.—The Methodist Episcopal Church was filled this morning to hear the sermon of the Rev. Charles L. Peterson, leader of the respectable citizens who raided the blind tigers in the recent rioting here caused by the attack on Dorothy Holt, 15 years old, and thereby created a diversion which saved Frank Sullens and Ernest Harrison from being lynched.

"Men of Salem," shouted Mr. Peterson on the night of the riot as he mounted a box in front of the jail, "there is one man in jail for whose blood you clamor. He may be guilty. If so, the law will take care of him. But he has told the Sheriff that he knows more. There are others guilty. Let's get all the guilty ones. There is other work to do. We must strike at the root of the evil. This crime, as have been most of the other crimes that have shamed Salem, has resulted from the blind tigers. Let us take the law in our own hands and destroy them."

The preachers text to-day was the driving out of the money-changers by Jesus. The application was made that the citizens had done that in the two days of rioting. He said the attack on Judge Holt's daughter, sad though it was to the relatives and the people of Salem, was the means of the moral awakening which made the people determine to rid the city of disreputable places. He urged the citizens to continue in the line of duty and never again to permit such places to exist.

Preachers in all the other churches directed their remarks along the same lines. In the course of the sermons the congregations applauded repeatedly.

Owing to criticism of Mayor Charles E. Hull on account of the disreputable resorts, his residence was guarded last night by a company of the State militia. An effigy was suspended by the mob last night purporting to represent the Mayor, attached to which was a card with the words:

"Our Mayor the root of all evil."

Harrison arrived in the Vandalia jail this morning. He was followed by a crowd. He appeared to be very nervous and seemed relieved when Sheriff Browning locked him in a cell.

Sheriff Purcell of Salem, Ill., told a reporter he had used every effort to clean up the lawless element here for the last four years, but had been hampered by city authorities. He asserted the Holt crime was due to the blind tigers.

Forest de Iesi of Washington and Pittsburgh, and John Allison Lockwood of Montclair and New York, which occurred in Washington on March 11. THREE BABY TIGERS IN CIRCUS CARAVAN

Born on the Way from Bridgeport to New York, They'll Be Named in Madison Square.

BABY CAMEL WALKED DOWN

She Was Born on Feb. 12 and May Be Called Nancy Hanks in Honor of It—Show to Open on Saturday.

When the Spring season of Barnum & Bailey's at Madison Square Garden is in full blast after the opening next Saturday afternoon—the first matinee opening in its history, by the way—there probably will be some name bestowals with all the circus frills that attend such ceremonies. At least, there ought to be, for the stock is larger than it was a few weeks ago. It is even larger than it was when, with many roars and grunts and squeals and barks, and a deal of indescribable chattering, the big caravan moved out of Winter Quarters in Bridgeport on Saturday.

It was in the first hour of yesterday morning that Boss Patterson, guardian of all the animals except the elephants, found time to approach the big cage that served to house Daisy, the tigress, on the way to New York. To shield the cages on such expeditions, they are incased in shutters of gilt and scarlet that make them look very elegant moving vans. When Patterson took down the lower shutter in the front of Daisy's cage, a sinister snarl greeted him, and he found himself looking into two eyes that gleamed with jungle fierceness.

Daisy was crouching and embraced protectingly between her forepaws, were three very small cubs. Patterson hastily replaced the shutter, and ever since the cage has been incased, for only Daisy's special favorite among the keepers was allowed by Daisy to so much as approach it. The sex of the cubs will be announced later, for the doctor has not yet got up courage to the point of making his regular report.

There certainly will have to be a christening for that delectable baby dromedary that stands some three feet high and despite her tender weeks—four in number—walked all the way from Bridgeport in the most dauntless fashion. The older and more experienced of the humped tribe knew they were just marching through Connecticut, and bound for no more Oriental a spot than Madison Square Garden, but the baby dromedary had an atavistic notion that she was crossing a great desert, and enjoyed it all immensely. She is the daughter of Maggie, and she arrived at Bridgeport on the morning of Feb. 12. The date of birth caused much delight among the keepers, who intended to name the baby Abraham Lincoln, but she fooled them. The baffled keepers have been referring to her as the "Kid," but yesterday some one conceived the brilliant idea of naming her Nancy Hanks, and Nancy she will be to the end of the chapter.

Four years ago on Shriners' Day at the Garden, a baby camel was born in the ranks of the circus, and that very night was brought up to the arena and christened Mecca. Mecca is now full grown, though by no means one of the largest of the collection.

No Sabbath quiet overhung the Garden yesterday. The clatter and rumble of settling down filled all the basement, while upstairs an army of men sawed and hammered and shouted. Yesterday it was indescribably dirty and drab and dismal. A huge, bare stage was beginning to define itself at the east end of the arena, here and there some lights were strung forlornly, and clusters of men were standing idly about. Out of all this, the color and brilliance must be prepared for the circus that opens on Saturday afternoon.

BOUTET DE MONVEL DEAD.

French Painter and Illustrator Passes Away in Paris.

PARIS, March 16.—Louis Maurice Boutet de Monvel, painter and illustrator, died here to-day. He was born at Orleans in 1850.

Louis Boutet de Monvel was a painter of children, from the babies of royal families to the peasants of the vineyards and the urchins of Paris streets. In November, 1899, he visited New York to make a study of American children, and painted several portraits, including one of the grandson of James G. Blaine, and Miss Culver, the 4-year-old granddaughter of Senator Clarke of Montana. In speaking of the difference between American and French children, from an artist's point of view, at that time M. Boutet de Monvel said:

"French children are shy and impulsive, though they seem by nature to have their impulses under restraint. The children of America are almost invariably pretty of feature, but they seem willful; they are spoiled, I think. They are also self-contained, while in France they are almost invariable diffident. The children of the Paris streets are not nearly so venturesome as those of New York."

Some of Boutet de Monvel's best-known pictures are: "The Temptation of St. Anthony," Paris Salon, 1873; "The Good Samaritan," 1878; "Portrait of Mounet-Sully," 1875, and "The Return from Market," 1881. He also illustrated the St. Nicholas Journal in 1878, and La Fontaine's fables in 1883. He won a gold medal at the Paris Exposition of 1900.

RUNAWAY KILLS DRIVER.

Thrown from Seat of Truck and His Skull Crushed.

The horses attached to a dirt truck belonging to Casselman Brothers of 129 Maiden Lane ran away on the Manhattan Bridge shortly before midnight last night, and the driver was thrown from his seat. The horses were caught at the Manhattan end of the bridge, and policemen who started up the roadway to look for the driver found that Policeman Mott had seen him from the promenade and had descended to the roadway and telephoned to Gouverneur Hospital for an ambulance. The surgeon found that the man had been killed, his skull having been fractured by the fall from his cart. There was nothing in his clothing to identify him.

Addresses were delivered by Prof. Rudolph Tombo of Columbia University and Otto Goritz, the baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company. Mme. Marie Mattfeld sang Gounod's "Ave Maria," with violin obligato by Frederick Schaefer of the Opera orchestra and Hans Steiner at the organ. The services concluded with a hymn sung by the male members of the chorus, directed by Hans Steiner.

PLANS TO DOUBLE ART EXHIBIT SPACE

EXTENDS THROUGH BLOCK

Draft of Proposed Extension Made Public by John W. Alexander with Appeal for Support.

The National Academy Association, recently incorporated, with a membership including ten of the leading art societies of the city, has a plan for an exhibition gallery. The proposal is to acquire property adjoining the Fine Arts Building, in West Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eighth Streets, and plans have been prepared for the extension of these premises to more than double the present exhibition space.

A rough draft of the plan of extension has been made by John W. Alexander, President of the National Academy Association. It shows the present site of the Fine Arts Building, 215 West Fifty-seventh Street, with a frontage of 75 feet, running through to Fifty-eighth Street. Likewise is indicated the property which the association proposes to acquire, having a frontage of 50 feet, west of and adjoining the Fine Arts Building, running back 100 feet 5 inches, then 20 feet west, and on through to Fifty-eighth Street, where it has a frontage of 70 feet. This plot the association desires to buy immediately, and if the subscriptions should warrant it, it would include an additional plot, with a frontage of 60 feet on Fifty-eighth Street, running back 100 feet 5 inches.

The total dimensions of the property then would be 125 feet frontage on West Fifty-seventh Street, lying north 100 feet 5 inches until extended 80 feet west, and then running north 100 feet 5 inches through to West Fifty-eighth Street, with a total frontage of 205 feet.

Speaking on behalf of the proposed extension, Mr. Alexander says:

"The association having the opportunity to acquire this property, confidently appeals to the press for support and to the public for assistance in carrying out its plans.

"New York, the greatest city in America, is far behind Philadelphia, Washington, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Toledo, Springfield, and other cities in the United States, and Montreal and Ottawa, in Canada, in the opportunity of displaying works of art. The limited space now available prevents a dignified and suitable exhibition of paintings and other works of art, and because of this limited space, many of the most prominent members of our societies are deterred from exhibiting, preferring to send their work where it can be shown to advantage.

"The plan that has been drafted shows the space it is desired to obtain. If our appeal meets with a favorable response, we shall have found a practical solution of our artistic needs which will put New York in its proper attitude toward the encouragement of art."

The National Academy Association, recently incorporated, includes the National Academy of Design, American Water Color Society, American Institute of Architects, New York Chapter; Architectural League of New York, New York Water Color Club, National Sculpture Society, Municipal Arts Society, Society of Beaux Arts Architects, Mural Painters, and the Society of Illustrators.

WILLIAM HINSHAW IN RECITAL

His Songs Taken from the Works of Four Composers.

William Hinshaw, baritone, gave a song recital yesterday afternoon in Carnegie Hall. At the Metropolitan Opera Mr. Hinshaw has proved a serviceable member of the company. His voice has power and an agreeable quality, and he sings with a good deal of artistry. As a concert singer, however, he does not seem to be so much at home. There was little variety in his singing yesterday, although the qualities referred to above were in evidence.

The programme was an unusual one, and contained the names of but four composers: Schumann, represented by "Himmel und Erde," "Die Hütte," "Ihre Stimme," and "Ins Freie"; Schubert by "Der Atlas," "Der Doppelgänger," "Fahrt zum Hades," and "Postillion Kronos"; Hugo Bruckler by "Das Gebet," "An Wildem Klippenstrande," "Lind duftig hält die Maiennacht, "Frühlingssegen," "Verrath," and "Hell Schmetternd ruft die Lerche," and Adolph Jensen by "Aussfahrt," "Altassyrisch," "Die Maulbronenr Fuge," and "Die Heinkehr."

Ferdinand Sinzig's Recital.

Ferdinand Sinzig gave a piano recital in Rumford Hall yesterday afternoon. The programme was of a nature to appeal to popular taste and included two etudes of Chopin, Op. 25, Nos. 1 and 12; Liszt's arrangement of Mendelssohn's song "On the Wings of Song"; Bach's Fantasie in C minor, Prelude in C, and Sarabande in A minor; Brahms's arrangement of a gavotte by Gluck; Brahms's Intermezzo, Op. 117, No. 3, and Rhapsody, Op. 79; Saint-Saëns's "Song Without Words," and Mazurka No. 3; a theme and variations by F. Sinzig; a Prelude in D minor by C. Palmer, and Debussy's "Clair de Lune," "Valse Romantique," and three numbers from "The Children's Corner." In these Debussy numbers Mr. Sinzig showed himself to be particularly facile, and he pleased his audience throughout the programme.

Constant Surveillance

The importance of investigating before purchasing securities cannot be over-emphasized. After that, constant study of the various changes affecting one's investments is required. For instance, who would have thought years ago that large amounts of money would be lost by holding guaranteed stocks of the METROPOLITAN STREET RAILWAY System?

One of our principal functions as investment bankers is to watch such developments and advise necessary changes in investment holdings. Investors, institutional and individual, should consult investment bankers at least annually regarding their holdings.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION IN AMERICA AND EUROPE

Two matters, one of universal market influence and the other of important effect within the field to which its influence extended, stood out prominently last week among the affairs in which the stock market interested itself, the tightening of money, and the outcome of the plan for the separation of the Southern Pacific from the Union Pacific, which was left in uncertainty until the very close of the week. The advantage which the New York market had had in the matter of interest rates over some of the European financial centres was lost last week by reason of the sharp upturn in time and to a less extent in call rates, following the further drafts which were made upon our gold supply. It is not long since that this was the easiest of the world's money markets. So rapid has been the recent change that our borrowers on time at the close of last week were paying as high a rate as was being exacted in Berlin for the discount of bills, and that means, of course, that we rose here to a level a full 1 per cent. above the London rate and 2 per cent. above the Paris rate. The abruptness of the change brought into somewhat clearer relief the fact that our money market had been easier superficially than it had been fundamentally. The demands which current trade have made on the money market have been very large, and no doubt only the apathy of the stock market, bespeaking an absence of any extended speculative interest in it, left until very lately the call money market in a condition of decided ease as measured by current rates. The rise in rates here resulted in a further shifting of loans, which enabled the banks at the end of the week to show a round increase in surplus reserve notwithstanding the gold exports. The latter, as a matter of fact, were just about offset by the gain in cash from other quarters, and the decrease in loans and deposits with the accompanying reduction in reserve requirements led to a gain of over $5,000,000 in surplus reserves.

The immediate cause of the change in our money-market position was the renewal on a large scale of the gold export movement to Europe, but at the bottom of the money market's position lies the condition of trade which has been conducted on a scale so large as to tax the resources of the money market. The part which trade has played in this situation, not only here but abroad as well, is particularly worth remembering for the reason that giving due importance to this factor serves to lessen to some extent the rather exaggerated inferences drawn in some quarters regarding the influence which the European political situation has played in shaping the money market. The very heavy expenditures planned for increasing Europe's military establishments, and the continued delay in establishing peace in southeastern Europe, have, of course, contributed in no insignificant degree to the acuteness of the stringency in the money market which first showed abroad and then found reflection here. But this was the immediate and secondary rather than the primary cause of the experience through which the credit markets are passing. The situation is all the healthier by reason of this fact. At the same time many markets are voicing the view that the latest turn in the money situation gives largely increased practical importance to the question whether or not the present great firmness in money points toward a recession in trade. It is not only here that this question is being asked. It is being put with even more indication of its being regarded as one calling for immediate answer in some of the markets of Europe.

It must be said of our own situation that notwithstanding whatever doubts have been felt regarding the continuance of great trade activity, the actual experience up to the present time has not brought materialization of such signs of slackening as have been noted from time to time during the past couple of months. Merchants who at the outset of the year adjusted their plans to the expectation which many of them entertained that by the beginning of March business would begin to show contraction are finding in many instances that their turn-over continues large and well in excess of the business which was being handled at this date a year ago. This experience naturally weakens to some extent the similar views of future contraction, which continue to be entertained by many, but at the same time this suggestion should not be carried to the extent of overlooking the plain facts that conditions in Europe, even more than here, are at the moment against a continuance of trade in the recent full volume, and that the dearness of money has reached a point at which it may possibly of itself put a check on further growth in business.

It is not surprising that it has happened so, but none the less is it worth noting that Wall Street has found in the events of the first fortnight of the new National Administration some reason for modifying its views regarding the influence which the coming of the Democratic Party into control of the National Government is likely to have upon business and financial sentiment. The fact that the Attorney General did not obstruct the plan previously outlined for carrying out the Supreme Court's decree against the Union Pacific's control of the Southern Pacific; the character of some, although not of all, the appointments to office, or of the choice of men for the responsible positions in Congress, and the indication that upon the convening of the special session the legislative branch was likely to move with businesslike expedition in settling the revision of the tariff, all helped to lead many in Wall Street to the belief that the Democratic Party in power, and with full responsibility resting on it, was less to be feared than much of Wall Street had expected. Following the impression created by Mr. Wilson's inaugural address the favorable influence of the course of events at Washington was cumulative. Nor was it from Washington alone that the week brought some favorable developments in the field in which political proposals bear upon the immediate affairs of the business and financial communities. The abandonment of the proposed doubling of the transfer tax as a result of the stand taken by Gov. Sulzer was a source of much gratification. This proposed interference with business has been avoided, and one of the most objectionable of the so-called Stock Exchange bills before the Legislature has therein been done away with.

The stock market closed for the week in ignorance of the outcome of the unsuccessful last-hour effort which was made to save the plan which had been worked out with the approval of Attorney General Wickersham for the separation of the Southern Pacific from the Union Pacific. The financial district found much in the Union Pacific matter in which it interested itself. The varying views which prevailed from day to day regarding the fate of the plan were a factor of substantial influence in shaping the prices of the stocks directly concerned. It was noteworthy that at the times when it was believed that the plan would succeed Union Pacific was strong and Southern Pacific weak. These divergent movements were accounted for by the fact that it was felt that Union Pacific's concern that the plan should succeed was greater than Southern Pacific's, partly because of the terms upon which the underwriting syndicate had been formed, while on the other hand the price of Southern Pacific was influenced one way or the other according to the varying chance of the supply of this stock being immediately increased by the marketing of the Union Pacific's holdings.

BERLIN MORE CHEERFUL.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 16.—For the first time in months it is possible to report a decidedly better tone and more confidence on the Boerse at the week-end. The list generally closed with fair gains with the exception of mines and a few other industrials. Imperial 3 per cents. and Prussian consols, however, again dropped off.

The money market is still much strained, and there is no doubt that the next rates will be extremely high; but the Boerse's commitments are scarce, which will be a favorable factor.

Mr. Asquith's denial that England is bound to assist France in war under all conditions was one of the week's brightening features.

LONDON MARKET IS NERVOUS.

Germany the Chief Cause of Financial Depression.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, March 16.—The stock markets had a nervous week. The German situation and financial uncertainties had a depressing effect, and the improvement in Austro-Russian relations, together with the better prospect of peace in the Balkans, failed to restore confidence, the week ending with business almost at a standstill.

The best opinion here is that Germany will soon master her monetary troubles. It is pointed out that she is receiving large amounts of gold. The latest Reichsbank returns showed improvement.

The basic position of the London money market is improved, as is demonstrated by the fact that the Bank reserve is now only $2,000,000 below that of a year ago, notwithstanding that Germany has bought most of the gold available in the open market.

PARIS STOCKS ARE HEAVY.

Speculators Provide the Only Slight Activity on the Bourse.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, March 16.—Prices were almost unchanged on the Boerse this week, no new favorable political factor having come in to influence the market in an upward direction. The week ended with stocks heavy and inactive. Money is abundant and loans only 3 per cent.

Copper prospects were interpreted favorably, and Rios resisted the weakness of copper stocks in New York.

The securities of the belligerent States were weaker, and the prospects of the powers' mediation were thought unpromising.

The public are still holding aloof, speculators providing the only scanty activity. It is believed that the market will remain in its present slack condition until the political atmosphere is changed.

TOMKINS OPPOSES HASTY PIER ACTION

Warns Mayor Against "Haphazard Improvements" of the Water Front.

AGAINST SINKING FUND PLAN

Unwise to Proceed with Pier Construction Without Considering Needs of the Railroads.

Calvin Tomkins, Commissioner of Docks, has written a letter to Mayor Gaynor commenting on the city's plans for the expenditure of $24,220,000 to start a perfected system of piers. Mr. Tomkins warns the Sinking Fund Commission to "stop, look, and listen" before it proceeds with plans which, the Commissioner says, will call for a total outlay of $74,250,959.

Commissioner Tomkins asserts in his letter that, compared with the problem which confronts him, the subway question is as easy as a weather forecast. He cautions the city officials, before making commitments, to ponder on the immense initial cost of the projected undertaking and the future expenditures which it would necessitate.

The Sinking Fund Commission at its last meeting requested Commissioner Tomkins to submit plans for a 1,200-foot pier at the foot of West Forty-sixth Street and for a "half pier" of equal length at the foot of West Forty-fourth Street. Their construction, at a cost of $5,816,000, would inaugurae the city's new pier undertaking.

"The entire west side section," Commissioner Tomkins says in his letter to the Mayor, "should be developed as an organic whole. Haphazard improvement of separate parts solely to meet specific demands will endanger correlated design and use. Unless the railroad plan, which is the backbone of the whole enterprise, shall have first been decided upon, it will be most unwise to consider separately the several parts of the problem, and irreparable injury may be done the city if a piecemeal solution is attempted. I note that the total cost of this single pier and a half pier is $5,816,000 of the entire improvement between Forty-fourth and Fifty-seventh Streets, $24,220,000. In contrast, $3,600,000 only will be required to build two single-track tunnels between Manhattan and the State line at the centre of the river. The necessity for railroad connection between Manhattan and the mainland is the crux of the west side organization problem. The narrow Island of Manhattan should not be further circumscribed by expensive excavation, but rather the cheap lands of New Jersey should be made subservient to Manhattan's needs for car storage, terminal, and industrial uses; and for the existing expensive water transfer there should be substituted continuous all-rail movement between the continent and Manhattan.

"The land and water carriers should abandon their futile attempts to obstruct the construction of a public marginal railroad which shall make available for terminal uses the land side as well as the water side of the marginal street. A two-sided street, with railroad terminals inshore and the ships at the water side, is absolutely necessary to serve the terminal requirements of the immense tall city which is rapidly taking the place of the old City of Manhattan. It will be unfortunate if the Dock Fund shall be dissipated in unproductive enterprise when it can be so much more advantageously used to promote continuous rail transit from Upper Manhattan and from New Jersey to Lower Manhattan. Now that the city is in funds, the city plan undertermined and land comparatively cheap, the carriers should adjust their rivalries and co-operate with each other and with the city to effect a permanent settlement instead of a temporary makeshift. As noted in my report of Feb. 24, long piers can be built downtown at one-fourth the cost required for acquisition of site and construction uptown.

"To build the first long pier and half pier uptown will cost more than $5,816,000. To build the first long pier downtown will require $950,000. To create the long piers north of Forty-fourth Street, would cost $24,220,000. To provide six 1,000-foot piers between Desbrosses and Chambers Streets, would cost $6,200,000. The six long piers uptown will be more costly by $6,020,000 than the combined cost of the marginal elevated railroad, the tunnel to the State line, and six piers downtown for the big ships. An unreasonably large and unnecessary expenditure for the creation of a small amount of wharfage in any section of the harbor will necessarily curtail the creation of wharfage and terminal facilities elsewhere; and it is most important that the dock fund should be used to the best advantage with due regard to the requirements of all shippers and of the interest of the port as a whole."

Here is Commissioner Tomkins's revised estimate for six full piers and one half pier 1,200 feet long, making seven slips, between West Forty-fourth and West Fifty-seventh Streets, piers to be 150 feet wide:

Property	5,550,000
Total	$24,220,000

The exclusive estimate for the pier and half pier, the former at the foot of West Forty-sixth Street and the latter on the north side of West Forty-fourth Street, is:

Dredging	1,917,000
Total	$5,816,000

Commissioner Tomkins called attention to the fact that the total borrowing capacity of the city, including the exempt Dock Fund, was $153,929,079 on last Jan. 31. Of this amount, $65,394,930 represented capitalized profits of the Dock Department since 1871. He suggested that expenditures for subways and for all public improvements other than subways and docks, should be agreed upon now. Unless this was done, he said, there was danger that mistakes would be made in the allotment of the limited funds of the city to the detriment of the port.

"At best funds will be available for only part of the port improvements needed," he writes. "Therefore all improvements should now be considered on their merits. The responsibility for granting or withholding appropriations rests with the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund and the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. If the Dock Fund shall be unduly depleted for other city improvements, then port development will either be delayed or, to obtain relief, and in contradistinction to the policy of other seaports, the city will be tempted to lease its waterfront terminals for private exploitation. New York now enjoys the unenviable distinction that in relation to its size and importance, it has made the most insufficient preparation for the growing commerce of the country."

More Profitable Investments

can now be made by conservative investors than was possible a few years ago, because of the new methods of financing adopted by many strong corporations. These corporations have, instead of placing bonds on the market, issued first preferred stock paying 7% and safeguarded by restrictions and assets which formerly applied only to mortgage bonds. A first preferred stock as desirable for the man with $100 to invest as the one with $10,000, which has met the requirements of very exacting investors, is fully described in Circular HK which will be sent on request.

GUARANTEED 7% CUMULATIVE PREFERRED STOCK
DIVIDENDS PAYABLE QUARTERLY FROM MARCH 1ST.

Dividends Guaranteed by the Federal Light & Traction Co. by Endorsement

Non Taxable in New Hampshire, Vermont, Connecticut, New York and Virginia

This Company owns the entire street railway, gas, water, electric light and power business in the City of Hot Springs (Arkansas) and vicinity, serving a population of about 34,000 people.

The earnings applicable to the dividends on this preferred stock for the year 1912 were over 5½ times the amount necessary for dividends.

The franchises of the Company are unusually favorable, two being exclusive and two unlimited as to time, while the earliest expiration is 1931.

The guarantee of the Federal Light & Traction Co. is one of unusual strength, as it has paid regular 6% dividends on its own preferred stock since organization. The preferred and common stocks of the Federal Light & Traction Co., ranking after its guarantee of this preferred stock in point of security, have a present market value of over $3,500,000.

Carefully guarded restrictions cover the issue of additional preferred stock and any liens ahead of this stock except the 5% bonds now outstanding which are not guaranteed. The preferred stockholders have entire voting power for the election of directors if two quarterly dividends are in default.

TO REFORM PURCHASE OF CITY'S SUPPLIES

Controller Prendergast Has Plan to Form a General Board for Economy's Sake.

SAVING OF $4,000,000 A YEAR

Unification of Buying and the Promotion of Efficiency, Inspection and Audit Special Aims of Proposal.

Controller Prendergast made public yesterday a report which he will submit to the Board of Estimate at its next meeting outlining a plan for centralizing the purchase and distribution of all supplies required by the city, and requiring the organization of a board of purchase, to consist of the Mayor, the Controller, and the President of the Board of Aldermen. The plan does not contemplate the elimination of any of the departmental purchasing agents. By the new plan the Controller hopes to save from $3,500,000 to $4,000,000 a year besides unifying purchases and promoting efficiency in buying, inspection, and audit.

The report says that millions of dollars' worth of supplies are purchased annually by the various departments at practically retail prices. The methods now used, it says, may be compared to those of more than 100 small stores in no way connected with one another, and the inefficiency of present methods will be emphasized when the Municipal Building in Park Row is occupied, for then there will be under one roof forty-eight purchasing officials, each engaged in buying practically the same kind of articles.

The Board of Purchase will have the power to appoint a genetral purchasing agent and a general storekeeper, both of whom are to hold office during good behavior, and be removable only upon proved charges. The Controller says that the proposed new system has been developed after careful study from the purchasing system of one of the great transcontinental railways which purchases annually four times as many supplies as the City of New York. These are some of the advantages which the new plan will have, according to the Controller:

> The correction of the present abuse of what is known as the "open market order" method of purchasing supplies without competition by compelling the purchase of all supplies costing in excess of $200 and up to $1,000 by by informal tender upon what is known as the "bulletin board" method of securing competition, thus giving the additional check of daily public and trade knowledge of the requirements of the city and the prices paid.
>
> The broadening of competition for city supply contracts by the unification of quantities and the asking for bids for the gross quantities required in the same trade lines in a single contract, instead of, as at present, asking for bids upon segregated quantities covering a dozen different trade lines in a single contract.
>
> The concentration at one point of the delivery of practically all supplies purchased by the city, thus affording every facility for adequate specifications and thorough inspection of all deliveries.
>
> A great reduction in the amount of city money now continually locked up in large overstocks of supplies in city storehouses which are not required for immediate use.
>
> The absolute control over the distribution of all kinds of supplies to every city department by the creation of comprehensive uniform departmental and general storekeepers' records, accounts, and perpetual stock inventories.

The report says that the principal objection urged in the past against the adoption by the city of a centralized purchase plan for supplies has been that vesting in a single official the authority to make all purchases would inevitably lead to gross and serious abuses of that power, and it goes on:

"The organization for the proposed department of purchase removes that objection by giving to the heads of the eighteen largest purchasing departments in the city supervision over every act of the general purchasing agent. This feature is secured without expense by providing that the purchasing agent appointed by each one of the eighteen department heads shall go from his department to the office of the general purchasing agent as occasion demands, and there exercise a supervisory control over all supply requisitions emanating from his department.

"It is also proposed that both the general purchasing agent and the general storekeeper shall be paid salaries large enough to attract the best men available, and that they shall have the greatest possible security of tenure in their positions."

LOAN ASSOCIATION ECONOMY.

Van Tuyl Shows How Money Has Been Saved in Supervision.

ALBANY, March 16.—Economy practiced in supervising the affairs of the 237 savings and loan associations of the State is reported to the Legislature by Supt. George C. Van Tuyl, Jr., of the State Banking Department.

"This department," the report runs, "formerly maintained a separate bureau. No salaried employé now devotes all his time to these associations, or is wholly paid by an assessment upon them. Only three examiners are now regularly employed. The total assessment for general expenses of this department levied upon these associations has been greatly reduced, and has recently but slightly exceeded the salary formerly paid to the head of the bureau.

"The reported resources of the National and local associations at the close of 1912 were $59,040,511, an increase for the year of $1,406,457. These figures, however, owing to the closing of four National associations, only slightly reflect the exceptional progress made in the year by the strictly mutual type of associations. The reported resources of the local associations in the same period increased $4,721,463, and amounted to $54,306,033 at the close of the year.

"The membership of all the associations of the State increased 8,727. At the close of the year there were 151,019 members. There was also an increase of 155,806 in the outstanding shares. The total amount of unsold real estate accumulated was a little over one million dollars. Cash on hand was $1,875,614. The associations also had on hand bonds of the savings bank grade amounting to $606,826.

"The total dues and dividends credited to members was $54,125,545, and the total undivided earnings of the associations, including the contingent fund, was $2,479,669, or four and fifty-eight one-hundredths per centum of the accumulated capital. The net earnings were $2,763,614, or approximately 5 6-10 per cent. of the dues and dividends credited at the beginning of the year. The net earnings of the local associations amounted to $2,619,834, or 5¾ per cent.

"The total operating expenses show a considerable decrease. They amounted to $888,529, or sixty-six one-hundredths of 1 per cent. of the total resources.

"There is probably no considerable village in the State in which a properly conducted savings and loan association could not be organized to advantage."

"SOLID GOLD" JEWELRY.

Campaign to Protect Purchasers and Define the Term.

Maiden Lane and Fifth Avenue jewelers have started a campaign to protect the public against dishonest dealers in the purchase of so-called "solid gold" bracelets, rings, chains and other articles of personal adornment, and soon will propose an amendment to the Jewelers' National Stamping law providing that when the words "gold," "pure gold," or "solid gold" are used on a piece of jewelry they must be accompanied by words or figures to indicate the karat fineness of the gold.

Under the present National law and the New York State Stamping law as applied to jewelry, when an article of jewelry is stamped with a mark to denote the quality of the gold of which it is made, the jewelry must assay up to within one karat of the stamp upon it, but so long as no quality mark is used there is at present no regulation against the use of terms such "solid gold." This, the jewelers say, gives unscrupulous dealers opportunity to sell jewelry as "solid gold" which is in fact almost worthless.

The Maiden Lane and Fifth Avenue merchants also purpose to establish a proper meaning of such terms as "gold filled," "gold plate," "gold front" and "gold shell" jewelry.

The British and Continental laws place restrictions on the use of terms such as "solid gold" and "gold plate." To be of solid gold an article would necessarily have to be 24 karats fine, and jewelry made of gold refined to that standard would not be practical because of the softness of the gold. Gold of 14 karat fineness is the finest generally used at present.

UPHOLDS JERSEY'S ROAD EXPENDITURE

Commissioner Stevens Argues Cost Per Mile—Coming Contests Announced by A. A. A.

Believing that certain wrong conclusions might be drawn from a table of mileage road costs published in THE NEW YORK TIMES on March 2, Col. Edwin A. Stevens, State Road Commissioner of New Jersey, brought forward arguments last week to show that, although his State did not stand at the top of the list by any means in the tabulation, its road system was nevertheless a leading one. The burden of the Commissioner's argument was that cost per mile did not necessarily indicate value of permanent investment. The table already mentioned, with the cost per mile worked out in the Commissioner's office, follows:

Total miles and cost of public roads in the following States from 1892 to 1912:

	Miles.	Cost.	Cost per mile.
Maine	766	$2,011,253	$2,625
New Hampshire	757	1,626,255	2,148
Vermont	1,187	1,878,862	1,582
Massachusetts	880	8,012,655	9,105
Rhode Island	288	1,623,922	5,638
Connecticut	1,168	6,539,204	5,598
New York	2,940	48,955,000	16,651
New Jersey	1,578	9,691,098	6,141
Pennsylvania	727	8,188,092	11,262
Maryland	334	5,178,761	15,505
Virginia	852	2,329,907	2,734
Washington	347	1,335,069	3,847

In his comment on these figures Col. Stevens said:

"Generally those States showing a decidedly lower cost per mile than New Jersey have not built roads that compare in any way with those of this State. The roads of both Rhode Island and Connecticut are narrower and of steeper grades than those now built in New Jersey, and the same is true of Massachusetts. In the case of Washington the roads have been largely built with convict labor.

"While it is gratifying to find that the roads of New Jersey have been built at a price which, quality considered, compares favorably with the best results in other States, it is well to bear in mind the fact that the first cost of roads is by no means their whole cost. It is easy enough to build narrow roads, badly aligned, at any old grade and without proper drainage. Money thus spent on any road that is worth improving is largely wasted. The permanent investment in a road is not in the surface; all pavements wear out; even the good intentions which are used in a certain place where they are subjected to a high temperature are frequently renewed, especially about the New Year. Proper location, so as to secure good alignment, proper grading, proper drainage, and a substantial foundation are, however, practically permanent. These should receive careful attention, and are worth a considerable investment.

"Whether any of the surfaces and methods of construction recently introduced will give a long-lived pavement at a reasonable cost remains to be proved. Until we know their respective life expectancies, it is impossible to fix their relative values. The cost of pavement should be regarded as an annual charge. In the case of macadam the surface can be maintained under very heavy traffic at an annual outlay. The annual charge then is the interest on first cost and the cost of repair, which latter item takes care of depreciation as well. In the case of pavements depending for their life on the cementing power of one of their constituents we must consider depreciation. Let me give an example. Let us take a macadam foundation, costing say 40 cents a square yard. A macadam surface can be put on this at about the same price, or bituminous concrete at say $1. The expected life is, say, fifteen years, with minor repairs only. The relative annual cost could then be estimated as follows:

Repairs	.01
Depreciation of surface, 1.00-15	.067
		14.7c
Macadam cost 80c.—
Interest at 5 per cent	04
		14.7c

"In other words, at these figures we could afford to spend 10 7-10 cents a square yard a year for repair of macadam before the bituminous concrete would be the more economical. This would mean about $1,000 a year per mile for maintenance of a macadam road. While this figure is high, it is not higher than some cases in the experience of the department. We have no experience, however, that would lead to the conclusion that a bituminous concrete will last fifteen years. The moral of all of this, as it applies to the figures given in the table, is that it is very unsafe at this time to predict which shall have made the best investment of its road moneys. As a corollary, I may also add that the cost per mile is not a satisfactory basis of comparison. If we could get it, the cost of transportation per ton mile hauled would give a much better measure of the value received."

SILK IMPORTS GAIN.

Dutiable Goods Received Here in February Amounted to $2,957,512.

According to statistics issued by the Silk Association of America, dutiable silk imports at the Port of New York in the month of February were valued at $2,957,512, against $1,620,421 in the same period a year ago. Of this total, fabrics woven in the piece made up $695,484, compared with $579,351 in 1912. Imports of handkerchiefs and mufflers for the period showed a sharp decrease, probably due to the unseasonable weather experienced throughout the Winter. During February imports of these goods totaled only $6,934, against $14,534 last year. Receipts of velvets, chenilles, and pile fabrics, cut or uncut, were valued at $23,817, and ribbons of the same materials, including plush, and other pile fabrics totaled $160,681. Spun silk, in skeins, warps, or cops, was entered to the value of $285,911, against $232,642 in 1912, and artifical silk yarns to the value of $201,876, against $122,206. Silk laces, trimmings, and embroideries came in to the extent of $281,206, against $165,541. Ribbons under twelve inches in width, with fast edges, showed a decline of more than $6,000, being valued at $74,669.

As usual, raw silk headed the list of free raw materials entered, with a total value of $1,340,885. Imports of waste silk amounted to $14,887, and of bolting cloth, for milling purposes only, to $14,725.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Electric Mine Imported for Demonstration Uses Must Pay Duty.

The Board of United States General Appraisers has denied a contention raised by Earl Leon regarding the entry into this country, under the Tariff act of 1909, of a model of an electric mine intended for use in waterways or roadsteads for the protection of harbors in time of war. Collector Loeb assessed duty at the rate of 45 per cent. ad valorem under the provision in the law for manufactures of metal. The importer asserted that the mine was imported for demonstration by the American Navy Department and should have been granted free entry under Paragraph 629 as a "model of invention." The board holds that the mechanism is something more than a model and affirms the Collector.

A controversy between the Government and Kohlmeyer, Jacobs & Hyams, Ltd., of New Orleans regarding the duty to accrue on mineral water was settled in favor of the importers. Duty was taken under Paragraph 3L 312, act of 1909, at the rate of 24 cents a gallon and one-third of 1 cent a pound on the bottles. The importers asked for a rate of 30 cents a dozen bottles and one-third of 1 cent a pound on the containers under the same paragraph assessed.

A. Russe & Co. of Chicago was sustained in a contention that the customs officials assessed excessive duty on vermouth which had leaked from casks during the voyage. A reliquidation of the duties collected is ordered by the board.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

WHOLESALE PRICE CHANGES.

Only 46 New Levels Last Week—Advances and Declines Equal.

There was quite a sharp drop in the number of changes shown in Dun's list of wholesale commodity prices last week. Only forty-six fluctuations were shown, and they were divided equally between advances and declines. As had been the case for several weeks, the foodstuff markets supplied the bulk of the changes, and there ten declines and nine advances were noted. The only market to show strength was drugs, chemicals, and oils, where the changes were two and seven respectively. The only other market to show more than three changes was metals, in which there were four declines and three advances.

Pig aluminum, copper, and spelter were all quoted higher than at the close of the previous week. All the principal provisions, excepting lard, were advanced at Chicago. Live hogs there brought about $1.55 a hundred pounds more than live beeves, the respective figures being $8.80 and $7.25. The remaining changes were scattered among flour, grain, hides, leather, rubber, silk, and turpentine.

The following table gives the minimum wholesale price last week, the previous week, and the same week a year ago, of forty-one leading commodities at New York, unless otherwise specified:

TEXAS LEADS IN CROPS.

Produced $407,160,000 in 1912—Illinois Second, Iowa Third.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Illinois again has yielded to Texas as being the premier crop-producing State of the Union. Iowa holds her pleace as third, while Ohio has lost to Missouri the honor of fourth places. The Department of Agriculture announced to-day that in 1912 Texas produced $407,160,000 worth of corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye, buckwheat, flaxseed, rice, potatoes, hay, tobacco, and lint cotton. The enormous cotton crop easily gave Texas a big lead over the second largest crop-producing State, Illinois, whose total production was valued at $289,326,000. Iowa's crop value was $284,395,000; Missouri's, $196,963,000, and Ohio's, $190,718,000.

The next five States in rank were: Kansas, $182,363,000; Pennsylvania, $176,275,000; Minnesota, $160,615,000; Georgia $159,762,000, and North Dakota, $155,110,000.

The total value of these crops produced during 1912 throughout the country was $4,695,161,000, compared with $4,592,338,000 in 1911, and $4,496,647,000 in 1910.

ORANGE PRICES UP.

Light Receipts and Good Demand Help Sellers—Apples Steady.

Receipts of California oranges were not heavy in the local fruit market last week. There was a good demand, and the offerings for the week were well taken at prices that were for the most part favorable to sellers. In several instances substantial advances were noted, and some of the best fruit commanded up to $5.15 a box. Florida oranges were also active and strong in price. The high mark in this branch of the trade was $4.80, due principally to light receipts. Porto Rico stock also moved at prices favoring sellers.

Apples were fairly steady, the demand for them having offset to considerable extent the liberal shipments received. Holders of storage apples in Western New York State are beginning to unload, and an easier tone is expected to result before long. The condition of the apple arrivals was fair, though some of the greenings showed scald and needed special prices to move them.

Florida grape fruit was steady as to price, but not materially improved. Cuban fruit was in light supply and more firmly held. Porto Rico grape fruit was also firmly held, despite liberal receipts, and prices quoted on pineapples from the island were generally higher.

CROCKERY BUYING OFF.

Early Slump in This Market Last Week Surprised Merchants.

A decided slump in the activities of buyers featured last week's trading in the crockery and glass market. A natural letup is expected over the Easter period, but the drop coming this early caused surprise among the merchants. The importers of toys and dolls were the most active sellers in the market, but some good general trading was still expected. An analysis of the import business done so far this season shows orders for German goods to be about 25 per cent. greater than in 1912 at this time. French wares are about even, but the new customs ruling which went into effect last Monday is expected to stimulate the handling and sale of these lines. Business done on English china is considerably ahead of last year, and trade authorities give importers of Japanese ware the best season since 1907.

The domestic potteries are busy, and this activity is reflected in the glass districts. Tableware and dinnerware are especially active. According to The Crockery and Glass Journal's reports, this is the off season in the lamp trade, and the movement of the common grades is not expected to begin in earnest for the next month or six weeks.

SMALL HATS COMING.

Recent Millinery Orders Show Strong Tendency Toward Smaller Models.

The local millinery trade continues active. Out-of-town buyers are now specifying medium hats instead of large, and it is thought that the tendency with them is toward still smaller models. Locally, chic models of the poke effect and the new sailor hat, (with both small and wide mushroom brim,) are the most wanted. In tailored hats, small effects with charmeuse crowns of green, blue or deep orange, sell best, although combinations of harmonizing colors, such as cerise and gray, or blue and green, are also seen. Numidi aigrettes, small fruit, Bulgarian ribbon, faille ribbon, ostrich layers and single quills are principally used for trimming. Leghorns continue the featured pattern hats, and those having cutout brims, with insertion of shirred crêpe, are expected to rank high among most-wanted dress hats this Summer.

Popular colors are green and plum, although there is now a growing tendency toward black. This is thought only natural, however, because dealers have to date bought heavily of colored models, but have overlooked black completely.

JANUARY IMPORTS HEAVY.

Commodities Entered Showed Total Value of $163,063,438.

According to statistics compiled by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, the total imports into the country, both free and dutiable, in the month of January exceeded those of the same month in 1912 by nearly $20,000,000. The total value of the commodities entered in that month was $163,063,438. The exports in the same period totaled $224,272,348, and exceeded those of January last year by more than $24,000,000. For the seven months ended Jan. 31 the total imports were valued at $1,096,437,767, against $912,199,616 in the corresponding time in the year previous. Exports in that period totaled $1,506,461,628, against $1,289,855,419.

Of the exports for January the highest total, $72,834,222, was shown in crude materials for use in manufacturing, but this total showed a falling off of more than $10,000,000 from the aggregate of the same month in 1912. Manufactures ready for consumption showed the second highest total, $65,565,286, and incidentally showed a very substantial gain over last year. Crude foodstuffs and food animals exported were together valued at $20,827,378, against $11,067,599. Prepared foodstuffs exported showed a comparatively slight gain, and aggregated $30,875,478. The greatest import total of the month was $60,192,259, and was shown in crude materials entered for use in manufacturing.

PRINTCLOTH MART QUIET.

Trading Here Was Featureless Last Week—Price Tendency Downward.

As a whole the local printcloth market was featureless last week. Trading was generally inactive, and, while few price changes of importance occurred, the tone of the market was distinctly easier at the close. The week opened with buying uneven, and throughout the following days there was nothing to justify a belief that the market was active. Some sales of 38½-inch, 60—48s, were reported at 4½ cents.

Early in the week reports from Fall River told of the selling of 38½-inch, 64—60s, at 5⅛ cents there, and also of transactions in 38½-inch, 64—56s, at 5 cents. Both these prices were 1-16 of a cent a yard below prevailing levels there at the time, and can be taken to indicate the beginning of the softening that later threatened to develop into a weakness.

Near the close local sellers were reported to be hunting for bids at prices slightly under those quoted generally, but, from all accounts, they were not very successful in their quest. On Friday reports were heard of sales of 39-inch, 68—72s, at 5⅝ cents for April and May delivery, but they could not be confirmed. This figure was an eighth of a cent under the market, and would have resulted, doubtless, in active trading, if quoted generally. The closing day gave little that was new. The week's comparative prices follow:

	Open.	Close.
27-inch, 56-52s	3 1-16c	3 1-16c
27-inch, 56-56s	3¼c	3¼c

WALLPAPER DESIGN PIRACY.

Importer Says Domestic Manufacturers Aid Retailers in Substitutions.

Apropos the general agitation over design piracy comes a complaint from a representative wallpaper importer that domestic manufacturers are stealing foreign designs. In his opinion protection should be afforded here at a fee more comparable to that abroad. To illustrate the extent to which piracy is practiced here, it is pointed out by one importer that his house had twenty-seven different designs copied by a domestic manufacturer in a single year. In each case the price of imported paper ranged between $1 and $3 a roll, while the imitation was made up to sell, at a fair profit, for about 30 cents.

Several imitations of English hand-blocked paper have been noticed here lately, and the designs were reproduced fairly accurately. The quality of paper, however, and the coloring were quite inferior and easily detected when not on the wall. Unscrupulous retailers are said to show imported samples to their customers and then either to deliver an imitation of the paper chosen or have it made up by some domestic manufacturer if it is not in stock. If the substitution is detected the excuse follows that paper usually looks different when hung.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The weather has cleared by Sunday night in practically all districts east of the Rockies except in the great lake region, where snow flurries were still falling, but another disturbance which is causing light snow, has appeared in the Northern Rocky Mountain district.

The cold wave has effectually broken the period of high temperature in Eastern sections. As a result of the heavy rainfall during the last few days in the region lying between the Ohio Valley and the Gulf of Mexico, the rivers are rising rapidly, and flood warnings have been issued for several points. Generally fair weather is indicated Monday and Tuesday over the entire country east of the Rockies, with the exception of the Northwest, where some precipitation will occur. The winds along the New England Coast will be brisk westerly; Middle Atlantic and South Atlantic Coast, moderate westerly; East Gulf Coast, light northerly.

Steamers departing Monday for European ports will have moderate to brisk westerly winds and partly overcast weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND TUESDAY.

East New York—Fair Monday and Tuesday, colder extreme south portion Monday; moderate west winds.

New Jersey, East Pennsylvania—Fair Monday and probably Tuesday, rising temperature Tuesday, moderate west winds becoming variable.

West New York, West Pennsylvania—Mostly cloudy Monday; Tuesday fair, with rising temperature; moderate west winds becoming variable.

North New England—Fair Monday and Tuesday, colder Monday; brisk west winds.

South New England—Fair Monday and Tuesday, colder east portion Monday, brisk west winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1912.	1913.		1912.	1913
3 A. M.	47	44	4 P. M.	47	47
6 A. M.	41	46	6 P. M.	45	44
9 A. M.	38	44	9 P. M.	40	38
12 M.	43	46	11 P. M.	39	36

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 48; for the corresponding date last year it was 44; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 38.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 43; at 8 P. M. it was 41. Maximum temperature, 60 degrees, at 1 A. M.; minimum, 36 degrees, at 10:20 P. M. Humidity, 72 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 46 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 29.68 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 29.99 inches.

NEWELL'S TO BE NEXT OF THE GRAFT CASES

Whitman Will Move on Tuesday for a Special Panel to Try Lawyer for Bribery.

CLEARING WAY TO SWEENEY

Duffy and Robinson Follow, and Then ex-Inspector's Case Comes Up—Hartigan Likely to Confess.

District Attorney Whitman will serve notice to-day on William M. K. Olcott, counsel for Edward J. Newell, that a motion will be made to-morrow for a special panel to try Newell on the charge of attempting to bribe George A. Sipp to remain out of the State when he was called as a witness against Policeman Eugene Fox.

Newell, like Policeman John J. Hartigan, who was convicted of perjury on Saturday, plays only an incidental part in the effort of former Inspector Sweeney and others to suppress graft evidence against themselves. As in the case of Hartigan, Mr. Whitman is proceeding against Newell only because he has been an obstacle in the way of getting at facts which would convict Sweeney and his associates of high rank in the Police Department.

It is not believed, however, that Newell will make so costly a sacrifice as that made by Hartigan for the safety of Sweeney and others. Newell is accused of handling the envelope containing the bribe for Sipp which Hartigan carried from Sweeney to Capt. Thomas W. Walsh. The envelope containing $150 placed in it by Walsh and $800 furnished by former Inspectors Sweeney, Hussey, Thompson, and Murtha, passed from Hartigan to Newell through the hands of two other lawyers. Newell is alleged to have taken $250 of the $950 for counsel fees and to have handed the remaining $700 to Sipp in a hotel in Newark.

If Newell saves himself from going to trial by making a full statement, he will become a direct witness against Hussey, and will indirectly strengthen the cases against Sweeney, Thompson, and Murtha. If Newell bears out he confession of Capt. Walsh, he will testify that Hussey notified him that the envelope containing the bribe for Sipp would be sent to him by Policeman Hartigan. Before an indictment was returned against him, Newell was afforded an opportunity by the District Attorney to tell his story and gain immunity. Newell's statement was unsatisfactory, however, and as it was believed that he was keeping back the most important part of the story, an indictment for felony was returned against him.

Newell Well Enough for Trial.

Newell, who has been suffering from pneumonia since he was indicted, is believed to be well enough now to stand trial. After the motion is made before the Supreme Court to-morrow, two days must elapse before the special panel is called, and then five days must elapse before the trial is begun. It is thought to be certain that Newell will offer himself as a witness for the State before that time comes. The chief witnesses against Newell are Capt. Walsh, who will repeat the story he told against Policeman Hartigan and George A. Sipp, and his wife and his son, Howard, who were present when Newell delivered the bribe.

To-day indictments will be returned against ex-Inspectors Murtha, Hussey, and Thompson, the other three men involved in the attempted bribery of Sipp. The Grand Jury voted these indictments on Friday, but they have not been returned, because the Indictment Bureau has been overworked. There are only two men in the District Attorney's office to draw indictments, and recently they have been physically unable to keep up with their work.

After Newell is disposed of, the District Attorney will take up two other cases before he considers the stage cleared for the trial of Sweeney. Sergt. Peter A. Duffy, the personal collector for Sweeney, will be tried on an indictment resting on the testimony of Leroy Wilkin, the negro proprietor of a Harlem resort, who swore before the Grand Jury that he had paid $50 a month to Duffy. Policeman Thomas F. Robinson, formerly a plain-clothes man on Sweeney's staff will be tried for collecting protection money for Sweeney from Luigi Tancredi, a restaurant keeper in 125th Street.

Expects Hartigan to Confess.

Mr. Whitman was much elated yesterday over the conviction of Policeman Hartigan, especially in view of the fact that the Hartigan trial was in a way a test of the strength of his case against Sweeney. Another thing which pleased Mr. Whitman was the speed with which Justice Seabury conducted the trial. The charges against Newell, Duffy, and Robinson involve simpler questions of law, and Mr. Whitman believes he will be through with them in time to begin Sweeney's trial within two weeks.

The conviction of Hartigan seems to make it inevitable that he will confess. The District Attorney made it clear in his summing-up on Saturday that he was not anxious to punish Hartigan. There is no evidence that Hartigan participated in the graft collected for Sweeney. If he confesses, it is almost certain that Hartigan will go free on a suspended sentence. If his attitude invites severity, he may be sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary.

Because Hartigan was in the confidence of both Capt. Walsh and ex-Inspector Sweeney District Attorney Whitman believes it likely that Hartigan was present on occasions when graft was distributed in Sweeney's office. As Sweeney's confidential man Hartigan is believed to be in a position to clinch the cases, not only against his chief, but against all the grafting police officials with whom Sweeney dealt.

The convicted policeman spent a gloomy day in the Tombs yesterday, weeping most of the time. With a heavy sentence staring him in the face and away from the influence of Sweeney, Hartigan will break down, it is believed, before he is called before Justice Seabury to-morrow for sentence. Hartigan did not ask yesterday to see the District Attorney. Neither has the verdict on Saturday influenced Sweeney to make overtures for immunity.

Demilto's Bad Memory Invites Study.

Assistant District Attorney Frederick J. Groehl yesterday began an investigation of Policeman James A. Demilto, attached to the East 126th Street Station, who at the trial of Hartigan was unable to remember anything, although in previous statements to the District Attorney he had made statements corroborating Capt. Walsh and breaking down the Hartigan defense.

Three or four days before the Hartigan trial Capt. Walsh remembered that Policeman Demilto was the man who had been sent to summon Hartigan when Sweeney and Capt. Walsh wanted him to carry their bribe to Sipp. On Dec. 28, two days before Hartigan carried the bribe envelope, Demilto went to the East 126th Street Station and inquired for Hartigan.

On the stand on Saturday, however, Demilto pleaded a bad memory and could not recall what he had told the District Attorney. It is unlikely that Demilto can be prosecuted for perjury, since he evaded all the important questions put to him at the trial, but the District Attorney is interested in discovering what influence was used to make Demilto forget his story.

TAKING UP WORKMEN'S BILL.

The workmen's compensation bills now before the State Legislature will be discussed to-morrow night at the Meeting House of the Society for Ethical Culture. J. Mayhew Wainwright, who was Chairman of the State Commission of Employers' Liability and Unemployment, which prepared the bill that was declared unconstitutional by the Court of Appeals in the Ives case, will preside.

The speakers will include Paul Kennady, Junius Hoey, Assistant Superintendent of the State Insurance Department, who helped to draft the Foley-Walker bill, and Miles M. Dawson, who made a complete study of workmen's compensation in Europe for the Russell Sage Foundation.

SUGGESTS STATE SHOPS.

Labor Commissioner Sees Cure for Tenement Evils in Them.

ALBANY, March 16.—Workshops, owned and administered by the State or by the separate municipalities, are suggested by Commissioner John Williams of the State Labor Department, as a possible solution to the problems incident to work carried on in tenement houses.

Concerning "tenement-house manufacturing," he points out in his annual report, which he is to present to the Legislature to-morrow, that, while 13,000 tenement houses, containing 145,000 apartments, were visited by Labor Department inspectors the last fiscal year, "it is utterly impossible to adequately inspect such work without a greatly increased force."

Commissioner Williams makes numerous recommendations for bettering working conditions throughout the State along lines similar to the recommendations of the State Factory Investigating Commission.

Attention is called "to the extreme difficulty of enforcing the eight-hour, prevailing rate of wages, and alien labor laws on public work." Instead of forfeiture of the contract, the present penalty for violation of the labor law, it is recommended that a definite civil penalty be substituted. It is also recommended that a special staff of investigators be appointed for labor on public work. In this connection it is also recommended that the Commissioner of Labor have power to prescribe regulations governing the use of tools and machinery upon public work.

Urgent recommendation for a statutory standard of ventilation in factories is made. tI is also advised that standards of temperature and humidity be established and that, in addition to the one Medical Inspector now in the service, a staff of medical men and analytical chemists be added, "to make a thorough study of all dangerous industries, with a view to the detection and prevention of hazards to employes which are constantly arising as a result of developments in industry."

"The number of children employed in factories was considerably greater than in the preceding year," the report continues, "and there was also a slight increase in the number of children illegally employed. As to children debarred by statute from earning a likelihood, it is a question whether the State should not make provision for their needs during the period of their debarment." Commissioner Williams also recommends that children under 16 years of age be prohibited from "handling or distributing liquors."

The creation of bureaus to administer free employment agencies and to regulate private employment agencies is advocated.

STOPPED PREACHER'S SPEECH

Dr. Taylor's Right to Talk at Greenwich Town Meeting Questioned.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., March 16.—The Rev. Charles F. Taylor, D. D., who recently became pastor of the Second Congregational Church, was interrupted last night in a town meeting when he, in a speech, compared Greenwich with other Connecticut towns and read statistics relative to school teachers' salaries. Dr. Taylor has not lived in Greenwich long enough to become a voter, and was called an "outsider" by George P. Fisher, ex-Secretary of the Town School Board, who, interrupting him, arose to point of order.

Members of Dr. Taylor's congregation came to his assistance. There were cries of "Shame" and "Let him talk."

While fifty women voters and members of the Greenwich Equal Franchise League hissed to show their displeasure over the interruption, Henry Dayton said that Dr. Taylor would be a voter soon and would be a good one.

Judge James F. Walsh, the Chairman of the meeting, inquired if Dr. Taylor was a voter, and receiving a negative reply ruled Mr. Fisher's point well taken.

A motion which gave Dr. Taylor the right to speak was then carried unanimously, but Dr. Taylor refused to speak further. The town meeting increased the pay of grammar teachers, and of teachers in every small ungraded school as well. Since Dr. Taylor and his wife came here last Fall they have evinced great interest in public matters. Mrs. Taylor has charge of a men's forum, which meets before morning service each Sunday. Public matters are discussed.

In Dr. Taylor's printed church programme last week among the church notices appeared this:

> The town meeting next Saturday is an important one for those who are interested in the welfare of Greenwich—ladies as well as gentlemen. It is neither wise nor Christian to absent one's self from civic duties and allow the lowest elements in the place to determine the public policies. It is about time the Christian people were awakened.

As town meetings here are always well attended by the New York commuters and the most prominent citizens, many of them members of Dr. Taylor's church, the notice caused much comment.

3 HURT AS LAUNCH BURNS.

Warren Foster's Bessie B. Destroyed by Fire Near Greenville, N. J.

Three men were badly burned last night by a fire which totally destroyed the thirty-five-foot launch Bessie B., owned by Warren E. Foster, a member of the New York Cotton Exchange. The boat was lying off the foot of Pine Street, Greenville, N. J. She was valued at $4,500, and had just been renovated and provisioned for a hunting cruise in Chesapeake Bay, on which the owner and a party of friends expected to start to-day.

Frank Foster, Captain of the boat, of 124 Danforth Avenue, Jersey City; Alexander Smith, engineer, of 207 East 110th Street, Manhattan, and Wallace Franklyn, cook, of 107 East Sixteenth Street, Manhattan, were the men who were injured. They were in the cabin of the boat getting ready for an early start when fire was discovered under the deck forward. They fought the flames with salt water, but were driven back inch by inch, until finally they were compelled to jump overboard. In less than an hour the launch was burned to the water's edge.

All the contents of the boat, valued roughly at $2,700, were also destroyed. There was no insurance. The three men were attended by Dr. Voorhees of Greenville, who advised them to go to a hospital, but they refused and were taken to their homes. The cause of the fire is not known.

THREE DEATHS ON THE BALTIC

Two Children and a Woman with a Weak Heart the Victims.

When the White Star liner Baltic arrived yesterday at Quarantine from Liverpool Surgeon A. Hopper reported three deaths on the voyage. On March 11 Kerttu Fautt, 3 months old, died in the steerage of pneumonia and was buried the same night. On Friday, March 14 Dorothy V. Jones, 3 months old, in the second cabin with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. Jones, her twin sister and four brothers and sisters, died and was buried at sea. At 8 o'clock the same night Mrs. Minnie McNea, a wealthy woman, 42 years old, whose home was in Vancouver, B. C., died of apoplexy. She left home in October to travel for her health, and was accompanied by George F. Williams, an Englishman, in business in Vancouver, who was to have married her in two weeks, when her divorce decree was made absolute.

Mrs. McNea played shuffleboard on deck Friday afternoon and ate a hearty dinner in the evening, which is said to have caused her death. She had a weak heart. Her father was notified of his daughter's death, and the body will be sent to him at Markdale, Ontario. Charles McKain, the executor of her will, was also notified by telegraph.

HORSE BIT HIS NOSE.

Attacked Mounted Policeman Garvey as He Entered Its Stall.

Mounted Policeman William J. Garvey, attached to the St. Nicholas Avenue Station, went to the Police Department stable next door to the West 152d Street Station just before last midnight to get his horse, Morgan, preparatory to going on duty. As he reached the horse it snapped at him and fastened its teeth into his nose.

A stable man caught and drew the horse away, and Garvey, bleeding profusely, walked into the station next door.

Dr. A. Wachatinsky was called and said he feared that the officer's nose had been fractured. He took him to the Washington Heights Hospital. Garvey had been riding the horse for seven years, and it had never before shown signs of viciousness. Garvey lives at 20 West 103d Street.

STATE HUNTING DOWN IMMIGRANT LEECHES

WHITE SLAVERS CONVICTED

Three Sent Away for Long Terms—Report to Legislature Shows 3,000 Cases Were Investigated.

The easily duped, often swindled immigrant found a good friend in the State Bureau of Industries and Immigration last year, for during 1912 that bureau instituted nearly 3,000 investigations into immigration conditions throughout the State. According to the report which Labor Commissioner Williams will present to the Legislature at Albany to-day, 1,140 immigrants complained to the bureau office, at 95 Madison Avenue, that they had been robbed, exploited, or otherwise victimized within the borders of this State, and on its own initiative the bureau started 1,821 additional investigations.

The inquiries into these various cases led to the discovery of 603 violations of law. Fifteen civil suits and twelve criminal prosecutions were started, and the records of the bureau show nine convictions obtained against swindlers, white slavers, and other exploiters of the helpless newcomer. In many more cases, restitution was enforced.

Perhaps the bureau is more satisfied with one pair of convictions than with any others. They were the result of an investigation which was undertaken when two girls appealed to the bureau after experiencing the blackest misfortunes. After these two had landed from Ellis Island they were tricked into one of the worst dives in existence, drugged there, robbed of the $100 which they had saved to start them in America, mistreated, and then practically imprisoned in a disorderly resort. The keeper of this place and his wife were convicted of larceny and each sent to prison for five years.

This is the extreme type of exploitation to war on which the bureau is dedicated. Cheating ticket agents, larcenous express agents, swindling hotel proprietors, and the small fry of runners and porters whose sole aim is to get their hands on the pitifully small savings which the immigrants bring with them—these were attacked throughout the year. Many of them were attacked unsuccessfully by the bureau because either the immigrant or the accused had moved beyond the borders of the State. This leads the Labor Commissioner to recommend earnestly the establishment of a Federal Industries and Immigration Bureau with adequate inter-State powers.

Such a bureau could handle the case of the poor West Virginia immigrant who invested his all in a bit of New Jersey land which the advertisement painted in alluring colors. The immigrant moved his goods and possessions and found he had bought a sandpile. A New Jersey immigrant bought $80 worth of goods from a Pennsylvania produce firm, but never got them. One trickster was intrusted with money which a California immigrant was sending to his brother in New York. The trickster went to Tennessee and kept the money. Complaints of this sort pour in upon the New York bureau, but it cannot cope with them.

Even the land swindlers within this State are not easy to punish, and the Labor Commissioner accordingly recommends that a law be passed requiring the voluntary registration of lands suitable for agricultural settlement, with accurate descriptions as to location, quality, and price. Land dealers thus registered would be listed, contract forms would be standardized, and all advertising matter would be carefully scrutinized, all by way of preparing for the prosecution of the land swindler who now finds the immigrant his easiest victim.

Forty-nine immigrants complained during the year that they had been robbed or swindled in some way by the proprietors of immigrant hotels. In all 616 lodging houses were investigated during the year, and the bureau took advantage of the new immigrant hotel law to refuse a license to one of the largest immigrant houses of New York City, which had handled 30,000 immigrants a year. The legality of the bureau's power to revoke the licenses of such places where the moral conditions were disapproved has been successfully established by test cases in the courts.

The most extensive investigation undertaken by the bureau during 1912 was a three-week inquiry conducted by Chief small and unco-ordinated public employ- dustrial conditions in one of the largest mines in this State. A wholesale system of extorting money from the immigrant laborers by threats of having them dropped from the mine's payrolls was unearthed. The two local Justices of the Peace were also suspected of fining immigrants for imaginary offenses, and putting the fines in their own pockets. The discharge of one superintendent and thirteen foremen was obtained by the bureau's agents, and removal proceedings against the two Justices have been started.

The report recommends the passage of a law empowering the State to control more effectively the activities of notaries doing a foreign collection business, and also two bureaus in the State Department of Labor, one to oversee the various small ond unco-ordinated public employment agencies of the different cities, and the other to regular private employment agencies.

Of convictions during the year, there is the further record of a white slaver who was caught and punished with a sentence ranging from ten to twenty years, and the payment of a $5,000 fine.

BULLET HIT JAILED STRIKER.

Came Through Ceiling from West Virginia Soldier's Gun.

CHARLESTON, West Va., March 16.—A number of developments occurred to-day and others are expected in the week in connection with the coal strike situation in Kanawha County, under martial law.

Fire to-day destroyed a building of the Southwestern Fuel Company at Crown Hill, within the military zone. It was one of the few coal mines in the strike district employing union labor.

While a soldier was cleaning his rifle in a building, the second floor of which is being used to detain violators of the martial law proclamation, the gun went off. The bullet plowed through the ceiling, cutting off three fingers of one of the prisoners, whose identity has not been made known.

The soldiers were busy to-day rounding up witnesses for both the miners and the State in the case of Felix Terry and George Ames, charged with importing weapons into the strike zone. This case will be taken up early to-morrow.

The miners are proceeding with their efforts to organize a general strike in West Virginia on April 1. Upward of a dozen organizers reached Charleston tonight. President White of the United Mine Workers of America is expected here by Wednesday.

Three in Canoe Plunge Over Falls.

READING, March 16.—Three young men, William E. Uxley, Charles Uxley, and Paul Wetter were drowned to-day when their canoe was whirled over the falls in the Schuylkill River, near Haines Locks. Although warned that the swollen condition of the river made it dangerous, the lads launched their craft. When in midstream they lost control of the canoe and were carried over the falls. The bodies have not been recovered.

EATON INQUEST ON TO-DAY.

Cause of Admiral's Death, It Is Thought, Will Be Revealed.

HINGHAM, Mass., March 16.—The cause of the unexpected death of Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton, U. S. N., retired, will be revealed, it is thought, at an inquest before Justice Edward B. Pratt here to-morrow. As is the practice in this State, the inquiry will be held at the request of the District Attorney. The inquest will be private, as was the preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon before Justice Pratt, which was arranged with the knowledge only of those immediately concerned.

It is understood subpoenas to the inquest were delivered to-day. Among those, who, it is supposed, will testify are Dr. James Frame, who attended the Admiral in his brief illness; Medical Examiner Osgood, who made the autopsy; Mrs. Eaton, the widow, and her daughters by a former marriage, Mrs. June Keyes and Miss Dorothy Ainsworth.

The District Attorney is expected to present a report from Prof. Whitney of the Harvard Medical School, who made a chemical analysis of the contents of the stomach.

WOMAN LOST AT THE FALLS.

Sightseer Tumbles Into Niagara River and Is Swept to Death.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., March 16.—Miss Josephine Kigititch, 35 years old, of Buffalo, while viewing the falls with a party of friends from a point on Luna Is and late to-day, lost her balance and fell into the river.

She was carried over the American falls before reservation guards could come to her assistance. The body was not recovered.
